JOFFRE GROWS BETTER; SLIGHT HOPE HELD OUT

Marshal Rallies From Coma and Speaks Few Words.

STREAM OF NOTABLE VISITORS AT HOSPITAL

Strength of Patient's Heart Amazes; Little Chance of Recovery Seen.

Paris, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Marshal Joffre, lying gravely ill in the Hospital of St. Jean-de-Dieu, appeared slightly improved tonight and some color replaced the death-like pallor which earlier in the day had spread over his face.

At that hour Prof. Leriche, one of the physicians, asked the marshal if he felt better.

The ill veteran made a faint sign which the doctor took to mean that he did, and his breathing became regular again.

Then Marshal Joffre drank a half-glass of water and appeared to go to sleep.

Col. Desmazes, a member of the marshal's staff, left the hospital a little later and said he believed Marshal Joffre might live through the night. He added that he was going to take a few hours' rest and would return early in the morning.

Official Statement Discouraging.

An official statement timed 11:30 p. m. said:

"Contrary to all expectations the patient has emerged from the state of coma, spoken a few words, is fully conscious and has taken some nourishment. The situation, nevertheless, remains as grave as ever.

(Signed) "Prof. Leriche, Drs. Boulin, Fontaine."

The strength of Marshal Joffre's heart was a cause of wonder to his physicians, according to Dr. Boulin, who said that late this evening it continued to beat fairly strongly.

Today, as yesterday and Saturday, there was a constant stream of distinguished visitors to the hospital, and telegrams and messages of sympathy continued to pour in from every corner of the world. One, from King Alfonso of Spain, reached the Spanish Ambassador, Quinones de Leon, too late to be read personally to the marshal.

The papal nuncio, Mgr. Maglione, called to express his sympathy late in the day. He said the marshal had received the last sacraments of the Roman Catholic Church Friday.

Wife at Bedside All Day.

Mme. Joffre, whose fortitude has won the admiration of all, spent the entire day at the bedside. For ten days she has had only four or five hours of sleep, at the most, in each 24. The marshal's daughter, Mme. Laflet, was in constant attendance.

Traffic was diverted from the Rue Oudinot today to prevent any noise that might disturb the old soldier.

Earlier this evening his phsicians said their skill had been exhausted and death was but a matter of hours.

Prof. Leriche, noted surgeon, who was summoned from Strasbourg to amputate the marshal's leg when gangrene set in after an attack of arteritis, broke the news to the watchers of the Rue Oudinot. They stood in a drizzling rain, thousands of them, waiting for a word of hope or the sign that all was over.

Rumor of His Death.

Prof. Leriche told them that the marshal was in a coma from which it was feared he would not awaken. An hour later it was whispered that all was over, for Marshal Petain and Louis Barthou, minister of war, arrived together and entered the hospital.

The report was not true, but M. Barthou when he left could give no word of reassurance.

"There is no hope left," he said sadly.

Just before Marshall Joffre lapsed into coma Marshals Lyautey and Franchet D'Esperey called. They were followed by a group of high officres, headed by Gens. Targe, Niessel, Nollet and Raguneau, all old comrades in arms. Then came members of the cabinet, Premier Theodore Steeg, Minister of Justice Henri Cheron and Paul Painleve, minister of air.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: We can not weaken or destroy political parties in the United States without weakening or destroying the rule of the people. The party system has been adopted because of necessity. It has been the most efficient instrument of maintaining free popular government. No other method is effective in putting into operation the theory of representation. Under absolute monarchy the only way to change the government was by revolution. Gradually parties became a substitute for revolution. They provided an orderly and legal way for the people to express and enforce their will. Some concerted effort is necessary to conduct a popular election. We require party platforms, expressed or implied. They are the party constitutions. The alternative would be the election of persons without any pledge and free to do what they wished. That would be destructive of representative responsibility and repugnant to a sovereign people. Without platform pledges and parties to execute them, elections might determine who holds office, but the people would have almost no voice in the government. Those who support party organization and submit to party discipline are adopting the only course yet discovered for orderly government by the people.

BIG STEEL MERGER REFUSED BY COURT

Sheet and Tube Directors Criticized in Deal With Bethlehem.

EATON SEEN AS VICTOR

Youngstown, Ohio, Dec. 29 (A.P.). A permanent injunction tonight restrained consummation of one of the biggest deals in industrial history—the proposed billion-dollar merger of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Common Pleas Judge David G. Jenkins granted the injunction here today as a climax to nearly a year-long battle between some of America's most powerful industrialists and financiers.

The victory belongs to the "underdog" of the fight—Cyrus S. Eaton, of Cleveland, who led the minority stockholders of Sheet & Tube in the attack against Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem; James M. Campbell, chairman of Sheet & Tube, and Henry G. Dalton, a director in both companies.

Unless the merger proponents appeal and win a reversal, the merger is dead.

No one denies that Eaton, since the election, has had sufficient proxies to defeat a Sheet & Tube merger, if such a deal is ever submitted again.

Private negotiations for the merger began early this year. The fight to defeat it started when Eaton heard of the proposal March 7.

Bethlehem's offer was to acquire Sheet & Tube, a $235,000,000 corporation, on the basis of one and one-third shares of Bethlehem common stock for one of Sheet & Tube.

The first phase of the battle was a campaign for proxies. The financiers buttonholed the stockholders for votes.

Soon merger proponents and opponents were spending millions for stock. Eaton himself put out more than $8,000,000.

In the meantime, a majority of Sheet & Tube directors approved the merger.

The suit went to trial June 24—a battle between some of the keenest legal minds of the Nation. Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, was chief special counsel for Sheet & Tube. Attorneys Luther Day and Crawford headed the opposition.

When the trial was going on, Leroy

ORGANIST ACCUSED OF $4,500 LARCENY

Mrs. Townshend Charges St. John's Choirmaster Retained Funds.

ARREST FOLLOWS SUIT

T. Guy Lucas, 42 years old, organist and choirmaster at St. ohn's Episcopal Church, Sixteenth and H streets northwest, was arrested yesterday by Detective Sergt. William L. Messer on a warrant charging him with the larceny of approximately $4,500 from Mrs. Edith L. Townshend, a member of the church.

Mrs. Townshend complained to Assistant District Attorney Michael Keogh that she had given Lucas approximately $9,300 to deposit for her in his name and that she recently discovered that Lucas had withdrawn the $4,500 for his own use.

Lucas, who is well known in musical and social circles here, was sued last week in the District Supreme Court by Mrs. Townshend, who claimed that the organist had refused to pay her the $4,500. Mrs. Townshend said that he had paid part of the original sum intrusted to him, but refused to make further payments.

Later Mrs. Townshend sued for a writ of replevin, which was served on the organist on Christmas Eve and as a result everything movable was taken from his apartment, according to records in the office of U. S. Marshal Edgar C. Snyder.

Directly after his arrest, Lucas was released in $5,000 bail. He then issued a statement through his attorney, Arthur J. Hilland, in which he expressed assurance that he will be able to establish his innocence of

ROBBERS BIND BANK CASHIER, TAKE $20,422

Force Way in as Doors Are Opened for Board Meeting.

OFFICER DISCOVERED TIED IN REAR ROOM

Scottdale, Pa., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Two bandits entered the Broadway National Bank here tonight and escaped with $20,422, after binding the cashier, Thomas D. Byrne, with cord taken from Christmas decorations.

The robbers forced their way in as Byrne unlocked the doors preparatory to making arrangements for a board meeting. He was found in a washroom, his arms and feet bound, when the directors arrived a half hour or so later.

The bandits made a clean getaway. No outsider could be found who had seen them. Police said Byrne was able to give only a meager description of the men, who had "worked fast."

Both were described as of middle age. One wore an overcoat and was unmasked; the other was masked but had no overcoat. Whether they fled in an automobile was not determined.

Byrne said one man covered him with a revolver while the other tied his limbs. Then he was tumbled into the washroom.

State police were summoned from Greensburg and Uniontown to investigate and police in surrounding towns and cities were notified to be on the watch.

Five Boys Killed By Coal Mine Gas

All Overcome While Digging Fuel for Families at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Five boys, ranging in age from 14 to 16 years, were fatally overcome by gas while digging coal for their families in an abanoned coal mine today.

One of the lads was dead when taken from the mine and the others died at a hospital. They were Stephen Polka, 16; John Bodeck, 14; Andrew Novak, 16; William Kubela, 15, and an unidentified youth.

After it was noted that the boys failed to emerge from underground, search was started. Their prostrate forms were found on the floor of the mine and as soon as they had been brought outside a call was sent to the United States Bureau of Mines for a rescue squad. Efforts to revive them were futile.

Brooklyn Member Of House Is Dead

David J. O'Connell Falls Lifeless in New York Thoroughfare.

New York, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—David J. O'Connell, representative in Congress from the Ninth New York District (Brooklyn), fell dead late today in a Manhattan street while returning home from the Literary Digest office, where he was an executive.

Mr. O'Connell, Democrat, was 62 years old Christmas Day. He was born in New York and for many years had been connected with the publishing house of Funk & Wagnalls.

He was first elected to Congress in 1919 and had served continuously, with the exception of one term. He was a native of New York and was one of the organizers and the first secretary of the Allied Boards of Trade of Brooklyn.

NUTT ASSERTS HEADLINES ARE NYE OBJECTIVE

G. O. P. Treasurer Holds Senator Insincere in His 'Apology.'

WALSH, OF MONTANA, JOINS VERBAL FRAY

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Yankee ingenuity, as if in answer to Premier Mussolini's caustic remarks, made it possible for the warring Republicans to pursue their grapple for public opinion yesterday with the ease—though they were 1,000 miles apart—of a man switching on the lights.

In Cleveland, Ohio, Treasurer Joseph R. Nutt, of the Republican national committee, pushed a button within the bosom of his bank and presently a mimeograph machine in the Barr Building here began reeling off a statement to the effect that Senator Nye's retort to his demand for an apology anent Nye's slush fund charge was just what he, Nutt, expected and that it "lays Senator Nye open to the suspicion of insincerity and of a desire to have the case prejudged by the country before all of the evidence was in."

"But Senator Nye's tactics," the mimeograph continued to reel off, "all make for newspaper headlines and this appears to be mostly a headline hunting investigation with the Republican party, its officers and some of its candidates as the particular targets."

Walsh Enters Wrangle.

A short while afterward, Senator Tom Walsh, of Montana, paused in the warmth of Miami Beach, Fla., before taking off in an airplane for an "inspection" of the Everglades, and caused to be uttered throughout the country the statement that the thought to keep in mind in this controversy is not the right of the Republican national committee to oppose Senator Norris but the nature of its opposition.

"It is not a question of opposing Norris," said Walsh, according to the Associated Press, which handled this phase of the demonstration of Yankee efficiency, "but of how Norris was opposed. The press has not been quite informative enough to the public in regard to the matter, as it has not told enough about the character of the literature distributed or how Lucas (Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee) had the stuff published secretly and circulated anonymously."

Col. Nutt's statement had to do, of course, with his statement Saturday saying that the special fund which he set up here for Lucas' use and which Nye had described as a slush fund, had been fully accounted for to the House and that Nye could have found out all about it without the hullabaloo of subpenaing the bank records.

Treasurer Nutt's Rejoinder.

Senator Nye replying from Miami Beach Sunday said in effect that well, it may not have been a slush fund in itself but that it lent itself to such characterization because it was used to guarantee a loan which Lucas made and part of which loan was spent against Norris.

"As was to have been expected," said the Nutt statement yesterday, "chairman Nye, of the Senate elections investigating committee, declines to apologize for his unwarranted assertion that I set up a 'slush fund' in Washington for the use of the Republican national committee during the last campaign, but he grudgingly states that 'it is barely possible that further investigation may reveal that the $40,000 was not a slush fund.'

"I have given the facts about this

SPECIAL SESSION FOES SHOULD GIVE SALARIES TO NEEDY, BORAH SAYS

SENATE CHIEFS PLAN TO RUSH LEGISLATION

District Dry Bill Seen as One Measure Which May Delay Program.

(Associated Press.)

While Senate leaders yesterday sought a program that would avoid an extra session, the suggestion came from an advocate of a special meeting that members opposed to one turn over their salaries to the hungry if they fail to come back before next December.

Senator Watson, the Republican leader, asserted it was the consensus of most members and apparently of the business world that an extra session should be avoided except in extreme emergency. He held that such an emergency "will not exist, I believe, if members will forego speeches on extraneous matters and confine debate to the problems confronting us."

Senator Borah, of Idaho, a Republican independent, who has contended a special meeting would be necessary, made the proposal that members turn their salaries over to the hungry.

No Program Outlined.

Failure of any of the regular appropriation bills to get through the Senate before the Christmas recess is causing the administration forces some uneasiness.

Senator Watson called in Senators McNary, of Oregon, the assistant leader, and Goff, of West Virginia, chairman of the steering committee. In the absence of other members of the steering committee no program was outlined. Disposition of the Muscle Shoals legislation is one of the problems worrying the leadership.

Democratic leaders have taken the position that no extra session should be forced.

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, has refered to the prospect of an extra session as a "calamity."

Sees Excuse to Go Home.

Borah said, "This talk about Congress disturbing business, or that a session of Congress would be an unmixed evil, is an effort to assign a patriotic excuse for going home or going to Europe."

"It is a strange thing to me to have men fighting to get into Congress and telling the people all the things they want to do, and then making every excuse possible to go home and do nothing. I suggest they turn their salaries over to the hungry until they get back.

"Congress is the only body which can legislate, although it has shown symptoms of late of delegating its legislative power if it can. There is plenty of legislation that ought to be had. We all know perfectly well there is important legislation, not to hurt business but to help business.

Legislation Held Needed

"I have on my desk a letter from a business man, known to the whole country, who says that legislation is absolutely necessary along certain lines. One of the leading business men of New York came to my office last week and urged legislation upon matters he deemed of vital importance."

Administration leaders are counting upon considering the motor bus regulation measure, the 44-hour week for Federal employes, the anti-injunction measure and the prohibition bill for Washington, in addition to Muscle Shoals. Borah also includes the controversial export debenture plan of farm relief on his program of urgent business.

Urges Party Program.

A steering committee for the House Democratic organization to formulate its legislative program in the next Congress "no matter who is elected leader," was advocated yesterday by Representative Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi.

Rankin said he would insist on such a committee "in order that we may

Mystery Veils Death Of Hoover Naval Aid

Lieut. Bruce Settle Found Dying on Floor of Office at Navy Yard; Inquiry and Autopsy Will Be Conducted.

Lieut. Bruce Settle, a naval aide to President Hoover, died suddenly yesterday in his offices at the Washington Navy yard. A naval board of inquiry, which was assigned to investigate the death, had not completed its findings last night. An autopsy was performed at the Naval Hospital.

Lieut. Settle was found lying on the floor of the Interior Communications School by Lieut. James N. McTwigan. Life was still extant but he succumbed on the way to the dispensary at the Navy Yard. He was head of the school.

Although no official report had been made last night, it was indicated in official quarters that Lieut. Settle had been fatally injured in a fall from the mezzanine floor of the school to the main floor.

Lieut. Comdr. Richard Field, assistant commandant at the Navy Yard, said that there were bruises on the officers body which indicated that he had fallen over the mezzanine banister. Whether he had suffered a weak spell or became ill while near the railing, was expected to be shown by the autopsy.

The board of inquiry is composed of Capt. P. W. Foote, Lieut. Comdr. L. B. Green, jr., and Lieut. Comdr. L. N. Hart.

Testimony was taken yesterday by the board from fellow officers of Lieut. Settle, who said that he had reported at his desk earlier than usual yesterday. He was apparently in good health, they said, and could attribute no reason for his sudden death.

Lieut. Settle was assigned to the White House last September. He made his home at the Broadmoor Apartments, 3601 Connecticut avenue. He was widely known in Army and Navy circles.

He was a native of Gainsboro, Tenn., having been born there in 1898. He was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1917 and was graduated in 1921. In 1927 he completed a post-graduate course in engineering at Columbia University. He was then sent to uty aboard the U. S. S. Raleigh.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. M. Y. Settle, and a brother, Everett, who yesterday wired authorities to send the body to Double Springs, Tenn., for burial.

SENATE TO CONSIDER HOME RAID MEASURE

Republican Leaders Agree to Bring Up Howell Bill Next Month.

BRISK FIGHT EXPECTED

The Howell prohibition enforcement bill for the District, the most drastic local enforcement measure before Congress, is to be brought up for a vote in the Senate next month, it was announced yesterday after a meeting held by Senators Goff, of West Virginia; McNary, of Oregon, and Watson, of Indiana.

Senator Goff is chairman of the Republican steering commitee of the Senate; Senator McNary is Republican whip and Senator Watson is Republican leader.

The three held a conference yesterday and agreed that a promise to Senator Howell to give his bill a chance should be fulfilled. Subsequently they said that the conference was an informal one and whatever decisions were reached were purely tentative but none the less they expected the Howell District enforcement bill would be placed on the list of measures to be acted on by the Senate at this session.

Decision of the Republican leaders of the Senate to bring the Howell measure up for consideration came as something of a surprise inasmuch as it had been disclosed a few weeks ago that the steering committee had banned it for consideration at this session because of its highly controversial nature and the prospects that it would precipitate a fight over prohibition with all the possibilities of

WILSON CHAMPIONED AS PEOPLE'S FRIEND

PRAISES PEACE MOVES

Staunton, Va., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Jefferson and Wilson, "the Elijah and Elisha of Democracy," were held up tonight as the militant champions of government by the people at the Woodrow Wilson birthday dinner here in hte city of his birth.

Josephus Daniels, Raleigh, N. C., editor, who was Wilson's Secretary of the Navy, in the principal speech of the evening, named Washingotn, Lincoln, Jackson and Roosevelt as Presidents who aochieved "greatness or near-greatness," "but only two, from Washington to Hoover," he said, "fashioned in immortal words the right of men to govern themselves and proved their faith by risking all upon the wisdom of popular rule.

"Jefferson made the great adventure when even the name of the illustrious Washington was invoked to question if the mass of voters could be trusted with the duty of setting up government by consent of the governed," said Mr. Daniels, "and Wilson, his successor in the faith, ventured all in the belief that civilization could justify its existence only by nations banding themselves together to reject arbitrary force and to substitute an atmosphere and association that would sav ethe world from bloodshed."

Cuba Will Solve Problems Satisfactorily, Says Jurist

Dr. Bustamente, Back From The Hague, Predicts Economic and Political Trials Will Be Overcome by Nation in Near Future.

Havana, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Dr. Antonio Sanches de Bustamente, distinguished authority on international law and member of the permanent court of international justice, is optimistic about a satisfactory solution of Cuba's economic and political problems.

"Yes, I believe Germany will join in the Chadbourne plan for the limitation of sugar," the venerable jurist told the Associated Press correspondent, "and if she does not we shall find a way out of our difficulties.

"Sugar is only one of our resources. This fertile island can and will grow almost any crop. Our agricultural possibilities are unlimited. We have mineral wealth that is untouched and our forests offer a rich field for development."

Discussing Cuba's political troubles, Dr. Bustamente said:

"I am not engaged in politics, but I can assure you Cuba will settle this satisfactorily. We have faced trials before and met them bravely.

"The fact that unrest and economic disaster are world wide convinces me that the adjustment will be much speedier than it would be if only a few nations were adversely affected."

Dr. Bustamente relies particularly on Cuba's youth and recuperative powers to bring her through the crisis.

"Remember, we are only 30 years old," he remarked. "That is a strong point in our favor. At 30 a man can do what no man can do at 60 or 70.

"Cuba is not an old European nation. It is a vigorous republic with youthful neighbors. It is not burdened by history and tradition. And then it is an island. That is a factor of great importance.

"Cuba is destined to become to

Mother Kills Pair Of Children, Self

Indianapolis Wife Drowns Boy, Strangles Girl, Fires Shot Into Own Head.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ruth Nicholas, 32, wife of Royal A. Nicholas, an Indianapolis attorney, killed her two children by drowning one and strangling the other, then fired a bullet into her head with an Army revolver, ending her own life, here today. She had been despondent.

The boy, Richard Allen Nicholas, 2, was drowned and the girl, Virginia, 5, strangled to death with a towel. The boy's body was found in a crib, the clothing saturated with water. A tub of water was nearby.

The body of Mrs. Nicholas was found in her bedroom across the hall, the sheet pulled over her head to deaden the sound of the shot. She clutched a .38-caliber revolver.

The Life of Gen. Leonard Wood

Beginning Sunday, and continuing daily until the whole story has been told in 50 amazing chapters, The Washington Post will present "The Life of Gen. Leonard Wood," by Hermann Hagedorn.

Generously sprinkled with excerpts from the general's diary and from the official records of the Government, this biography of America's most talked-of soldier reveals startling inside information on the "whys and wherefores" of Gen. Wood's failure to command an army in France during the World War.

Strikingly frank, illuminating in its material and engrossing because of its background of war and politics, this story of Gen. Wood holds interest from the opening sentence to the last line.

Aside from Gen. Wood's disappointment over not being sent to France and his surprise and indignation because he was not nominated by the Republicans for the Presidency in 1920, other chapters in this thrilling biography deal with the officer's strenuous military career.

Chasing Geronimo; adventures during the Spanish-American War; tales of Roosevelt and the Rough Riders; experiences as Military Governor of Cuba; campaigning against the Moros in the Philippines and many other unusual incidents are crowded into this history of the famous soldier, Gen. Leonard Wood.

'Godless' Group and Soviet Seek Church's End by 1934

Government Reported Actively Backing Plan of Anti-religious Association to Close All Houses of Worship; Laws to Forbid Teachings.

Berlin, Dec. 29 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The last church will be closed in Russia by 1934 if the plans of the "Internationale of the Godless" as set forth in detail in reports just reaching here from Moscow are carried through.

The Soviet government is reported to be behind the movement sponsored by this organization and to be actively backing its campaign among peasants and the army and navy. It is understood that the Kremlin is preparing laws prohibiting construction of any churches in future and also prohibiting the ordainment of any more priests or religious leaders. Laws forbidding religious instruction are also to be passed, according to these reports, and those violating them will be punished by two years imprisonment in Arctic prison camps.

Publication of an International Godless Encyclopedia in several languages is also part of the program of the "Godless Internationale." The campaign against all types of religion will be carried on most energetically against the old orthodox church and the new Protestant movement in Russia, which is anti-Soviet in character, but will also be directed against the Jewish and Mohammedan religions.

State support of the campaign of the "Godless" is due to the resistance of bolshevism encountered among ardent believers and to the tendency of other enemies of the present regime to rally around the eburches.

Eighty-five new churches were built in Russia last year, despite the activities and propaganda of eighteen antireligious institutes. In the same period 14,000 churches were closed.

The "Godless" campaign, last year, cost 7,500,000 rubles (nominally $3,750,000). A fortnight ago antireligious societies held a conference in Moscow at which a campaign program was adopted which includes production and distribution of twelve antireligious films.

develop a program for the promotion of policies looking to the best interests of the people." The Republican organization has a steering committee while the Democratic leaders perform that function.

Rankin has been mentioned as one of the candidates for the Democratic leadership, in the event his party organizes the next House. He made the statement in connection with a denial that he had solicited support for the post from incoming members.

Disclaims Personal Activity.

"I have never mentioned the race for leadership to a single incoming member," the Mississippian said. "This mistake probably grew out of the fact that, as a member of the congressional campaign committee, I have been assisting new members in securing their franks, filing on offices and getting straightened out generally.

"Whatever sentiment has been developed among the Democratic members of the House for me for leader, if any, has come from those progressive members who agree with me on vital questions of legislation * * *.

"It is too early to begin wrangling over the leadership. In my opinion we ought to postpone our caucus until the new Congress convenes, which I hope will be in extra session early in the spring."

HEADLINES CALLED NYE'S ONLY GOAL

fund to the country with an accounting of every dollar of it in refutation of the irresponsible charge made by Senator Nye in his insatiable desire to see his name heralded in bold type on the front page of the newspapers. Previously I had made an accounting of expenditures from this fund to the clerk of the House of Representatives in the usual and orderly manner provided by law. This accounting was available to Senator Nye when he made his unfounded assertion.

"Nye Open to Suspicion."

"The chairman of a Senate committee conducting an impartial investigation of elections would be presumed to acquaint himself with all of the facts before rushing into print with charges that could not be substantiated. A failure to do so lays Senator Nye open to the suspicion of insincerity and of a desire to have the case prejudged by the country before all of the evidence was in.

"But Senator Nye's tactics all make for newspaper headlines and this appears to be mostly a headline hunting investigation with the Republican party, its officers and some of its candidates as the particular targets."

Senator Walsh, Senator Norbeck, Senator Nye, Dr. Gilbert Pearson, president of the Audubon Society; Dr David Fairchild, Government agricultural explorer, and Mrs. Nye and the senator's daughter, Marjorie, it so happens, are in Florida looking over the proposed Everglades Tropical National Park.

Until the Yankee ingenuity was brought into play it has been a case of Mr. Nutt letting go a blast and Senator Nye retorting the next day, being way down there in Florida as he was. What the radio folk call a Nation-wide hoop-up made it possible yesterday, however, for Senator Walsh to make immediate reply and without any inconvenience to the outing over the Everglades. Said he:

"The criticism to which the affair is subject is not whether the opposition to the election of Norris was or was not justified. It is directed against the reprehensible, one may say the contemptible, methods by which the opposition was carried on.

"Various features are open to censure, but no one has been heard to justify, nor can they justify, the circulation anonymously of literature such as that circulated in the campaign two years ago of Alfred E. Smith, to arouse bigotry against Norris because of his support of Smith."

North and South America what England is to Europe and what Japan is to Asia. Island nations are especially favored. An island with abundant ports, with varied resources and surrounded by friendly neighbors who can be reached by cheap transportation, is particularly blessed."

Dr. Bustamente feels that Cuba should solve her problems in a Cuban way and without any outside assistance.

"Cuba is and always will be the greatest friend the United States has among nations," he said. "We Cubans, as a people, love and venerate the United States. That should always be borne in mind by Americans, regardless of any differences which may arise among individuals or officials of the two nations.

"We believe Americans love us. They have demonstrated their attachment in ways we shall never forget. We owe our existence as a nation to our northern friend and I am confident that passing years will strengthen the ties between the two republics."

Dr. Bustamente paid high tribute to Elihu Root. "My association with Mr. Root is among my most treasured memories," he said. "He is a great friend of Cuba and proved it in trying times."

"I like to think of Mr. Root and Dr. James Brown Scott as typical Americans. I have known them and worked with them for so many years in international negotiations that I have found they are the friends not only to Cuba, but of all the world."

Dr. Bustamente recently returned from The Hague. He will go there in the spring to sit at sessions of the Permanent Court of International Justice.

HOWELL HOME RAID BILL TO GET ACTION

national ramifications and its effect on the administration program and the question of an extra session.

One Republican leader last night predicted passage of the Howell measure. He said he had not discussed it with other members of the Senate and did not feel free to venture a public prediction but that his offhand guess was that the bill would be passed by the Senate.

Characterized as the Howell home-raid bill the measure is certain to bring about a bitter fight between the wets and drys in the Senate with those in the House rooting on the side lines for one side or another.

It is called the Home raid bill because it authorizes entry, search and seizure on information of two or more citizens or policemen that liquor was delivered to the residence. Attorney General Mitchell, in reporting on the bill, disapproved it.

Senator Robert B. Howell, (Republican), of Nebraska, author of the measure, said last night that he expected to get action, and favorable action, on his bill at this session.

"The measure is an important one," Senator Howell said. "It is not nearly as radical as it has been pictured in the various descriptions of its provisions."

HOUSE GROUP VOTES $45,000,000 RELIEF

Hyde Tells Subcommittee Red Cross Is Ready to Care for Destitute.

PLAN TO HASTEN WORK

A subcommittee of the House appropriations committee yesterday voted to appropriate $45,000,000 for drought relief in accordance with the authorization recently approved by the President. Action was taken by the subcommittee after hearing Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and others.

Following the meeting Chairman Wood, of the appropriations committee, announced that the full committee would approve the $45,000,000 fund when it meets Monday morning, and that the House may act on the measure the same day.

Secretary Hyde told the subcommittee the Department of Agriculture would be prepared to go ahead with the distribution of the fund within a week after it is appropriated. However, he does not expect any considerable number of applications for loans to come in before February 1.

$25,000,000 Held Ample.

In reply to questions Mr. Hyde said he was still convinced that $25,000,000, recommended by the administration, would be ample for relief in drought and storm-stricken areas, but approved the appropriation of the entire $45,000,000 in order to expedite action by Congress and head off any further controversy.

Hhe also said he did not construe the resolution as finally passed as authorizing loans for the purpose of providing food for human beings. Senators and others hold the view that the language is sufficiently broad to provide for food loans in extreme cases. Mr. Hyde said he had been advised by the Red Cross that it is prepared to take care of any actual destitution in the drought States.

President Hoover's Emergency Employment Committee announced yesterday that public and semi-public building projects aggregating upwards of $800,000,000 are ready to be undertaken within a few months. This figure is based on a nation-wide survey directed by Franklin T. Miller, head of the committee's public works section.

Plans May Be Speeded.

Mr. Miller said: "We are hopeful that bills now before Congress will expedite the work now being done in the office of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury and permit speeding up of plans and specifications."

Representative Jones, (Democrat), Texas, yesterday announced that when Congress reconvenes next Monday he will introduce a resolution directing the Federal Farm Board to establish a rate adjustment division which would carry on the fight of the farmers before the Interstate Commerce Commission for non-discriminatory rates on farm products.

Representative Rainey, (Democrat), Illinois, announced his intention of introducing a resolution providing for an investigation of alleged political activities of the Federal Land Bank System, which he declared to be "the greatest political machine in the country."

Pollard, en route to Staunton, where he will be the principal speaker at the celebration of the seventy-fourth anniversary of Mr. Wilson's birth, being observed by the war President's home town.

In a conversation with newspapermen, Mr. Daniels said it looked as if North Carolina is going to adopt a 6-cent gasoline tax proposal. The North Carolina road bonds have not been as embarrassing as the "local public improvement bond situation." Mr. Daniels said. "You know business has not been quite as good as it used to be." Virginia now has a 5-cent gasoline tax. The North Carolina tax, now also is 5 cents. South Carolina, Georgia and Florida now have 6 cent gasoline taxes.

Collection Outlines Story Of Original U. S. Air Force

(Associated Press.)

Old fragments of silk dresses, a letter signed "A. Lincoln" and faded photographs given to the Smithsonian Institution yesterday told the almost-forgotten story of the first commander of America's air forces.

The collection belonged to Prof. Thaddeus S. C. Lowe, fighter and explorer, the forerunner of Lindbergh, Byrd and Rickenbacker. It was presented by members of his family.

Lowe was the commander of the unpublicized but effective balloon corps that harrassed the Confederates during the Civil War until Gen. Longstreet wrote mournful letters home about it.

The war incidentally kept Lowe from attempting to fly across the Atlantic in a balloon. He had constructed his bag. The citizens of Philadelphia intended to give him enough gas to fill it, but the South was belligerently upset. Lowe decided to wait.

C. G. Abbot, Smithsonian secretary, beamed today as he made the response to the presentation speech by Mrs. H. M. Brownback, of Norristown, Pa., Lowe's granddaughter. The institution has a sentimental interest In lieu of the Atlantic flight, he adsecretary in 1861, was Lowe's friend. in the collections. Joseph Henry, its vised him to go aloft to see if there were not a west-to-east air current.

Lowe went to Cincinnati, but the wind was not right. It blew the wrong way or didn't blow at all until finally the aeronaut put on his silk hat and went to a dinner in his honor by a Cincinnati editor. He was in the midst of soup when word came the wnid had changed. He seized his silk topper and rushed to the field. The editor followed, and just as Lowe was soaring away he tossed in several newspapers.

The explorer came down in South Carolina, 800 miles away. He had satisfied himself of the air current, but Fort Sumter had fallen. A hawk over a chicken yard could not have created more excitement than his balloon. Nobody believed his story. He was accused of being a Union spy and it looked like the firing squad uniti he thought of the papers in the balloon.

Henry aided him in his plan to form a balloon corps after he returned to Washington. Abraham Lincoln looked speculatively at the round object in the sky and decided it was not a bad idea. Lowe went to see Gen. Winfield Scott, but the general had his mind on the infantry, cavalry and artillery.

Lowe went back to the White House and spent the night. The next morning—July 25, 1861—Lincoln took a goose quill pen and wrote:

"Will Lieut. Gen. Scott please see Prof. Lowe once more about his balloon?"

As a reinforcement, he took Lowe by the arm and they dropped in to call on the general. The result was five balloons and about 50 men. They floated high above the lines of McClellan's army on sunny days. Longstreet wrote:

"We watched with envious eyes their beautiful observations. A genius arose and suggested that we send out and gather all the silk dresses in the Conderacy and make a balloon."

The Confederate balloon had a sad history. It was mounted on a barge in the James River. One day the barge got on a aand bar. Along came the Federals and took bar, boat and balloon.

Longstreet wrote: "With it went the last silk dress of the Confederacy. "This capture was the meanest trick of the war, and one I have never forgiven."

Lowe got the remnants of the balloon. With original stripes and designs still clear in the fabric, it rests in the Smithsonian, reminiscent of wide acres, pillared homes, the gleam of candle light on stately ballrooms and pretty women.

Everything in the collection has its memories. In it is the first altimeter used to direct artillery fire and a set of binoculars with which he scanned the Confederate lines.

Lowe took sick just before Gettysburg. That ended his active service but his balldonists from their perch saw the disintegration of the Confederacy. Lowe went to California after the war and was the founder of Lowe's Observatory.

A. Manchester, counsel for Sheet & Tube, committed suicide, because of overwrought nerves. The plaintiff, Myron C. Wick, died of pneumonia, supposedly brought on by strain.

Judge Jenkins' decision was an unequivocating statement that the merger was invalid.

He said the acts and conduct of Sheet & Tube directors made them "guilty of breach of conduct, tantamount to fraud." His principal criticism was that they did not fully inform themselves of all factors in the deal, did not supply stockholders with essential information, and acted with "unseeming precipitation."

Extra criticism was placed upon Dalton, the dual director, who was prominent in the negotiations but did not vote with the directors. His presence at the directors' meeting and approval of the merger "were in equity a breach of trust against public policy," the judge wrote.

Judge Jenkins said the accountants' audits were misleading and that no definite conclusion on the fairness of the stock exchange ratio was possible from their findings.

Bethlehem's bonus system, which caused $3,600,000 to be paid to its executives in 1929, was mentioned by the judge as one of the several items which was not made known to Sheet & Tube stockholders and directors.

New York, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—The legal victory of the Cyrus Eaton forces in their campaign to block the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, was reflected in a small temporary upturn in some of the Eaton steel stocks today, and in a slight sag in Bethlehem.

Cleveland, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—The victory today of Cyrus S. Eaton in his opposition to the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation was almost a birthday present. Eaton, who is one of the youngest big financiers in the Nation, was 47 Saturday.

Born in Nova Scotia, Eaton was a young man when he came to Cleveland. In a comparatively short time he obtained a gas franchise in Manitoba and made it the starting point for his great wealth.

Eaton organized the $350,000,000 Republic Steel Corporation only a year ago. He is the largest stockholder in Sheet & Tube, the dominant figure in the United Light & Power Co., Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., several big investment holding companies and in Otis & Co., a brokerage firm.

Principal Points Given In Anti-Merger Rulings

Youngstown, Ohio, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Highlights of Judge David G. Jenkins' decision restraining the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Bethlenem Steel were:

"The meeting of Sheet and Tube directors was held with unseemly precipitation."

"Several members of the board who voted for the merger either had no reasonable opportunity for formation of any fully informed judgment, or acted on the opinion or advice of other directors."

"One director voting 'No' said he didn't have sufficient knowledge to judge the merits of the proposal. His lack of information and of opportunity for obtaining it is a shocking and outstanding feature of this case."

"It is not the performance of their duty as they see it, but its performance as the law and equity require it, that controls."

"The record establishing the failure of the board of directors to conform to the plain provisions of the controlling statute, its attempted action is therefore invalid."

"The fact that negotiations had been in progress (between officials of teh two companies) was not made known to one director until three days before the meeting date of the board, not to one until that very date."

the charge and asserted that his dealings with Mrs. Townshend were fair and just.

Lucas said that Mrs. Townshend had sought his assistance last summer in negotiating a real estate deal. "Mrs. Townshend agreed that we should share whatever commission came from it," he said. "The property was purchased through joint efforts of Mrs. Townshend and myself. The commission resulting from the sale aggregated $9,300, less certain deductions for expenses. We were each to share one-half of this amount.

Lucas declared Mrs. Townshend had asked him to deposit the money in his account and that he had subsequently given her various sums. Several weeks ago, he said, Mrs. Townshend demanded all of the money. When he refused, he said, Mrs. Townshend attached his furniture and sought to embarrass him in various ways and finally had him arrested on the larceny charge.

DRY LOSSES STORY CREATES CURIOSITY

Capitol Speculates Upon Assertion 40 of House Are Deserting.

FORT CALLED SOURCE

Who was authority for the statement issued by Stanley High, editor of the Christian Herald, that there are 40 House drys who are waiting for the "strategic moment" to desert to the wet cause?

Obviously, Mr. High was in no position to make what he referred to as the "authoritative canvass in the Capitol lobbies" that revealed this number of prospective deserters. Obviously, he got his information from some person who was in a position to make such an "authoritative" canvass.

That person, it was reliably reported here yesterday, was no other than Representative Franklin W. Fort (Republican), of New Jersey, an outstanding dry, who leaves Capitol Hill on March 4 because he dared to run for the Senate against the wet Dwight Morrow.

In the latter part of November, a number of dry leaders gathered here, among them Patrick A. Callahan, of Louisville, Ky.; Oliver Street, of Ohio; Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of this city, Mr. High, and others. They met in a local hotel and behind closed doors.

In a speech before these dry leaders, so it was reported yesterday, Representative Fort urged them to support a referendum on the prohibition question, and in the course of his speech made the statement that there were 40 House drys ready to switch to the wet side.

Mr. High, in his statement made public yesterday, said:

"A recent and, I believe, authoritative canvass in the Capitol lobbies, revealed at least 40 members of the House who confessed themselves prepared to desert, and only waiting for the strategic moment."

Who the 40 are and when they propose to desert were questions that remained unanswered on Capitol Hill yesterday. The wets, however, were reported to be ready to force an answer.

Their chance will come when the Department of Justice appropriation bill comes up for a vote about the middle of January. That bill carries $2,000,000 or more for the hire of additional prohibition agents, and also the usual $50,000 for an educational campaign to "sell" prohibition.

On these two items, the wets propose to force a record vote; to bring about a showdown that will reveal just where the membership of the House stands on prohibition.

Some of the wets think that these two items should serve as a good test on the prohibition question. They won't, however, unless some wets have changed their attitude.

Take Representative LaGuardia, of New York, for example. He is a wringing wet if there ever was one. And yet, there have been times in the past when LaGuardia was ready to go farther than the dryest dry in appropriating money for enforcement. He even wanted to call out the Navy. His theory of course, was that the more it cost the taxpayer to enforce prohibition, the more obnoxious to the taxpayer prohibition would become.

The usual rumors and counter-rumors concerning the Wickersham commission were abroad yesterday. One report, circulated by a usually well-informed senator at the Capitol, was to the effect that the commission's report would be sent to Congress next Tuesday.

Those close to the White House, however, doubted this very much. The President, they said, probably would be afraid to send the report down at that time for fear of starting an orgy of debate that would bring about an extra session.

As for what the report will recommend, if anything, it is up to Mr. Average Citizen to write his own ticket. Everybody else has made a guess at it, and then retracted.

BETTER U. S. IS SEEN BY SINCLAIR LEWIS

Americans More Sophisticated Since He Wrote "Babbitt," He Says.

FINDS BERLIN FRIENDLY

Berlin, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Americans are growing sophisticated, in the opinion of Sinclair Lewis.

The creator of a Babbitt so real he won the world's most prized award for literature grew almost sentimental today in discussing his own country—about which he has been somewhat critical at other times.

"Intellectually," he said, "I know my country is not superior, but emotionally it's better than any other. I side with my country, right or wrong."

He was discussing the faithful writing being done about war, and lamenting its apparently fruitless effect on those who want war.

In the course of a radio address Lewis told his German audience he liked Berlin so much he came to visit it because it is "so American."

"Whatever vices America has," he said, "it has also a great friendliness, and I find that friendliness here."

Since he wrote Main street and Babbitt, Lewis said, America has become both "more sophisticated and more kindly."

European culture, Lewis said, has never been so high. "There was never a time when we could learn so much from Europe," he said.

"By that," he added hastily, "I don't mean Europe couldn't learn a lot from us."

He was asked what his ambition is now that he has won the Nobel prize.

"The same as any other writer's who is worth his salt," the author retorted—"to write a better book.

"I have no pride in what I've written. My books have all been disappointments to me. I think it was an accident I got the Nobel prize.

"I'm going back to my farm in Vermont and try for once to write a beautiful book."

Position of Legion On Bonus Clarified

(Associated Press.)

Assurance that the Boston American Legion convention had not decided against the conversion of adjusted compensation certificates was received yesterday by Representative Patman, Democrat, Texas, from the legionnaire who headed the veteran's resolutions committee.

Thomas W. Robertson, Louisiana executive committeeman for the legion, wired Patman that action on the proposal was postponed because "it was decided to consult legion membership before committing the legion officially."

Patman said a motion to table a report which would have brought the question before the whole convention "was seconded by Hanford MacNider, former national commander, a recent beneficiary of a political office at the hands of the present administration."

Earlier in the day, Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, announced he had abandoned his proposal for conversion of certificates but was seeking means to increase their "liquidity."

Capper Attacks Censure of Aliens

Would Change Law to Reach Fair Basis of Apportionment.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, told a radio audience yesterday the "present cleavage" between the East, the West and South "threatens to become a chasm," unless the Constitution is amended to prohibit the counting of unnaturalized aliens in reaching a basis for reapportioning the House.

"The new reapportionment of Congress, coming next year, is going to call attention to this situation," he said. "Some Middle Western and Southern agricultural States are going to lose congressmen under that reapportionment. The congressmen they lose are going to be gained by industrial States and the change is largely due to counting the unnaturalized aliens in making the apportionment.

"The present sectional feeling, which presents a real menace to the future of our country, is going to be intensified." The Kansan indorsed the Reed resolution to bar all immigration for two years.

Thomas Morris De Frees, Who Entered Army in 1880 and Returned in World War, Marries Miss Barbara Bayley at Norfolk.

Maj. Thomas Morris De Frees, U. S. A., retired, of 1612 K street northwest, and Miss Barbara Bayley, of Philadelphia, were married in the parsonage of the Colley Avenue Memorial Presbyterian Church in Norfolk, Va., by the Rev. R. B. Grinnan, the pastor, yesterday afternoon, according to press dispatches received here last night.

The couple obtained the marriage license in the office of the clerk of the Corporation Court in that city, and in their applicatoin for the license the age of Maj. De Frees was given as 68, and that of Miss Bayley as 24.

Maj. De Frees was born in Indiana and went into the Army in 1880, graduating from the Cavalry School in 1883. In 1885 he was promoted to first lieutenant, and retired because of disability incurred in line of duty in 1897. During the World War he went back to the Army in September, 1918, joining the U. S. Guards.

On August 8, 1919, he was honorably discharged from the Army with the grade of captain. Through the war-time rank bill, which was passed in the recent session of Congress, he was restored to the rank of major, which he had temporarily held during his last active service.

The couple have been friends for many years, Miss Bayley stated yesterday in Norfolk, and Maj. De Frees added that they would continue to live in Washington after a honeymoon spent in the South.

U. S. Will Investigate Defeat of Stanley Kunz

Chicago, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—The Federal Government decided today to investigate the charges of Representative Stanley Kunz (Democrat) that Capone gunmen were responsible for his defeat by Peter C. Granata (Republican) in the November general election.

Victor E. Larue, acting district attorney, received instruction from the Department of Justice to begin at once an inquiry into voting carried on in the Eighth Illinois District, a part of Chicago, which Kunz has served since 1921. The Democrats had demanded a congressional inqury, asserting that gunmen had forced election officials to change both tallies and ballots.

Legge Says Farm Board Will Not Fight Inquiry

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Legge said yesterday the farm board had no objection to an investigation of its marketing activities. He made the statement in reply to a question prompted by a letter of John A. Simpson, national president of the Farmers Union at Oklahoma City, challenging Legge to join in urging adoption by the Senate of the "Walsh resolution" which Simpson said asked such an investigation.

Neither the chairman nor the Senate bill clerk had any record that such a resolution had been introduced.

2 BROTHERS IN FEUD FIGHT ELUDE POSSE

Tennessee Pair Had Attacked Jail to Kill Men Held in Father's Death.

OFFICERS ARE FIRED ON

Salem, Ind., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Posse-men who rushed an old farm house 18 miles northeast of Salem tonight in hopes of capturing Alonzo and Dan Gibson, failed to find any trace of the two Tennesseeans, who, Saturday night, invaded the jail here in an attempt to reach two alleged slayers of their father.

Reinforcements of men and ammunition had been sent to thirty armed men who reported to Sheriff Milton Trinkle early tonight they had surrounded the Gibsons on the farm of Jard Collins. With their failure to effect a capture, confusing reports developed.

Some of the men searching, reported finding, close to the Collins farm, an abandoned farm house where a woman reported the Gibsons had spent last night. Evidences of a meal eaten there recently were found. Other men reported that the Gibsons apparently had been joined by a third person, and Sheriff Trinkle said they may have forced some one to accompany them.

Armed Men Fill Salem.

Salem tonight took on a military appearance, with a constant movement of men carrying rifles and shotguns, either joining the posses or returning for a rest.

In a renewal of an alleged Tennessee feud Saturday night, the Gibsons with two brothers, sought to remove Pleas and John Spurlock, charged with killing Patton Gibson, father of the four men, from the county jail. The youngest brother, Otis, was killed by Elmer Gerald, town marshal, who was critically wounded. Gilfred Gibson was captured by a posse yesterday.

The Collins farm is about 2 miles from the farm where Patton Gibson was slain December 14. His death was attributed to a feud. Officials were told that he recently had made a trip to West Virginia, where he killed his fifth man, reported to have been the father of the Spurlock brothers.

Sheriff and Wife Wounded.

Sheriff Milton Trinkle, who with his wife, was wounded in the jail fight, said the attack evidently was not unexpected by the Spurlocks as they placed a heavy steel bar against the door every night. When the Gibsons entered the jail the Spurlocks crouched behind their cots, pulling the bedding over them. They were removed to the Clark County jail at Jeffersonville.

Marshal Gerald, suffering from a bullet wound in the stomach, was taken to a hospital in New Albany, where it was said he had a fighting chance to recover. Sheriff Trinkle was wounded in the right leg and his wife, a deputy sheriff, received wounds in the left leg. Gilfred Gibson was said to have fired a shotgun at them when they refused to turn over the keys to the cell occupied by the Spurlocks.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

IT is believed, and sincerely hoped, that the system of communications established yesterday between Mr. Nutt in Cleveland, and Senator Walsh in Miami Beach, will bring the people of those two widely separated cities to a closer understanding of each other.

And for that reason the occurrence should not be wanting its proper place in history. It seems a pity that in these crowded times, in the hustle and bustle, or perhaps better, the relaxation of the holiday season, that a proper ceremony should not have attended the event.

It does seems that there should have been something akin to Morse's utterance when he opened the first telegraph. Maybe, an exchange of felicities between George Akerson and Steve Hannigan, who does publicity for Miami Beach, would have fitted the bill.

BUT ceremony or no ceremony, the linking of these two people, those of Cleveland and those of Miami Beach, is destined to leave its imprint on human affairs.

No one has ever thought of it before but that is what causes our wars, our strife, our bloodshed—conflicting languages and resulting misunderstanding.

Through all the years the people of Cleveland have associated the Miami Beach folk with bathing suits and some sort of a gibberish language beginning in "whoopee" and ending in "ooh la la." They have never looked behind the light veneer of this frivolity and seen the Miami Beachians at their steady industry day by day, or the solidity of their homes by night.

Mr. Simpich, of the National Geographic Society, who has done considerable research among these people, tells of their quaint ways and their quaint lore, and of the hardihood that sustains the race.

He comes to the unqualified conclusion, after years of studying them for the National Geographic, that in the event this country should get into war, that these people would unhesitatingly throw off their bathing suits and do their bit, that they are 100 per cent Americans under the skin, or rather the bathing suits.

* * * * *

IT is well then, that the Clevelanders—and it follows that the system of communications will be extended to connect Miami Beach with all of the East, wherever Mr. Nutt goes while Senators Nye and Walsh remain in Miami Beach, indeed—it is well that the East come to know Miami Beach.

Wherever there is mutual understanding there is mutual sympathy, mutual tolerance, forebearance and a general passing of the barriers that make for strife.

ARLINGTON TO NAME PLANNING MEMBER

FIREMEN GREET PUBLIC

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

The board of county supervisors at its meeting to be held today in the courthouse will be asked to appoint a member to the Virginia Park and Planning Commission, in accordance with the bill sponsored by State Senator Frank L. Ball and passed by the General Assembly at its last session. The committee which will appear as representatives of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce State Senator Ball and William S. Hoge, jr.

Hugh E. Kirby, with Mr. Huge, recently appeared before the Chamber of Commerce of Alexandria and received assurance that the city council would be asked to appoint the city's representative on the commission. The board of supervisors of Fairfax County have already appointed its representative.

According to the act the commission is to comprise nine members, one each from Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax counties with Gov. Pollard appointing the remaining six members.

With Arlington County being a part of the Greater Washington area and with Maryland having its commission now active it is pointed out by those advocating action by the board of county supervisors that the Virginia commission should be appointed without further delay.

With its new building completed, including sleeping quarters for three men, shower baths and recreation room, the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department held open house last night. One of the features which was pointed out by President Walter U. Varney to the host of visitors from all sections of the county was the electric indicator showing the location of all fires. The indicator contains one red light, which, it was explained, when burning indicated the department is out of the county.

The department came in for considerable praise by the citizens who crowded into the building for the fine showing which the men have made, and assurances of support were given.

To the ladies' auxiliary goes much credit for the progress which has been made, as it was pointed out that with the funds which they have raised from dinners and card parties many needed things for the comfort of the firemen have been purchased.

The officers are Herbert H. Smith, chief; James Tucker, first assistant chief; Lyman M. Kelly, second assistant chief; Maynard Saunders, captain; Robert P. Bailey, first lieutenant, and Melvin Wunder, second lieutenant.

Harry K. Green, commissioner of revenue, announces that the State license interrogatories are now in his office and all licenses for merchants, professions, real estate agents, restaurants, contractors, peddlers, amusements, and others required under the State revenue laws, are due January 1, 1931, and can be obtained now by making application to his office. Licenses must be obtained during the month of January in order to save a 10% penalty which is enforced February 1. The commissioner of revenue will appreciate prompt action on the part of persons requiring licenses in order to facilitate his work. His office at the courthouse is open each day until 4:30, excepting Saturday, when it closes at 1 o'clock.

J. Russell Browning has been elected master of Acacia Lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Falls Church. Other officers are: E. E. Tillett, senior warden; John Hughes, junior warden; A. H. Harbor, treasurer; P. W. Lee, secretary; Mason C. Grasty, senior deacon, and Olin G. Snyder, junior deacon. R. A. Crenshaw was elected a trustee.

The appointed officers are: Rev. R. A. Castleman and the Rev. A. B. Altfather, chaplains; Frank D. Hinkins, tiler; Clarence M. Sale, senior steward, and Frank Shipley, junior steward.

Dr. Frank T. Stone, with his son, Frank, junior, leave today for Newman, Ga., where Dr. Stone will visit his brother, the Rev. E. W. Stone, reported seriously ill.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Washington Golf and Country Club instead of on Thursday, the usual meeting day, due to the holiday.

There will be no meeting this week of the Arlington County Monarch Club, according to an announcement made last night by the president, Albert H. Cohen.

Charles H. Turner, and Joseph P. Contee, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor appeared before Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy and pleaded guilty. Each was fined $147.50, including costs, and given a jail sentence of 30 days. The jail sentence in each case was suspended.

The Board of Tax Equalization will hold a public hearing today at the courthouse. Its final meeting will be held tomorrow morning. All persons wishing to be heard are asked to attend this meeting, which will be held in the rooms of the board of county supervisors.

Mrs. E. W. Kirkland, a student in the extension department of William and Mary College in public health nursing and social work, came to Arlington County yesterday and will take up actual field work as a part of her course. Mrs. Kirkland will work from the office of the County Health Officer, Dr. P. M. Chichester.

The Robert E. Lee Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, of Falls Church, will hold its monthly meeting tonight at the home of Mrs. William Herring.

Angry Former Official Attaches Fire Truck

Pine Grove, W. Va., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—In case of fire, its likely the town fire department will have to call up J. L. George and ask him if he'll let them use the fire truck. George has sued the town and has attached the truck.

Things got this way when Mr. George, former recorder, told his lawyer the town owed him money for services rendered.

He didn't attend the council meetings toward the end of his term, the town dads protest.

SALE OF ALEXANDRIA TRACT IS ADVANCED

Navy Agrees to Support Bills to Utilize Shipyard for Industry.

SKIDMORE MASON HEAD

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

A committee composed of Senator Claude A. Swanson, Representative R. Walton Moore, former Mayor William Albert Smoot and John Barton Phillips, president of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, called on Assistant Secretary of the Navy Payne yesterday and urged that the Government sell what is known as the Battery Cove property, in the southeastern section of Alexandria, formerly the site of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation plant, so that it may be utilized as an industrial site. Mr. Payne agreed to recommend the sale to Congress, and the necessary bills will be introduced by Senator Swanson and Representative Moore.

This tract, which consists of approximately 45 acres, is one of the most desirable sites on the river front and is practically the only large site available for industrial purposes on the river front. The land was made by filling in with a dredge prior to the World War. The buildings of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation have been sold and razed, with the exception of the administration building.

Charles W. Paxton, of 1322 Massachusetts avenue northwest Washington arraigned in police court yesterday on a charge of failure to draw up to the curb upon the approach of fire apparatus, was fined $100 and costs. An appeal was noted by his counsel, Irvin Diener.

The hose wagon of Engine Company No. 5 was proceeding south on Patrick street the morning of December 23, according to Frank Cockrell, driver, when Paxton's car approached on Wilkes street, going east. Cockrell, in order to evert a serious accident, swerved the apparatus to the left, he testified, but struck Paxton's machine. The hose wagon was overturned and Cockrell and J. N. Dyson, a volunteer member of the local fire department, who was also riding on the front seat, were thrown clear and suffered only minor bruises. Paxton was slightly injured, and the fire apparatus was practically demolished. Paxton was released under bond of $1,000 for his appearance in police court yesterday.

Attorney Diener intimated yesterday that he would make immediate efforts in the Corporation Court to have Mr. Paxton's automobile released from custody, it having been held by the police.

Mr. Paxton claimed he did not see the apparatus until too late to avoid the accident, and did not hear the siren, although both Cockrell and Dyson claimed it was sounding the entire time. William F. Barbour, of No. 5 engine company, corroborated this testimony.

E. J. Skidmore has been elected worshipful master of Alexandria-Washington Lodge, No. 22, A. F. & A. M., succeeding Charles F. Swetnam. Other officers chosen by this old lodge, of which George Washington was the first master, were Dr. S. Nelson Gray, senior warden; Dr. Robert South Barrett, junior warden; J. Edward Shinn, treasurer; C. Page Waller, secretary; Roy M. Rease, senior deacon and Clyde C. Lamond, jr., junior deacon. Worshipful Master Skidmore then appointed S. C. Cross, senior steward; A. Slater Lamond, junior steward; George W. Zachary, tiler, and the Rev. Percy Foster Hall chaplain.

The newly elected officers were installed by J. Wilfred Robinson, a past master of the lodge. A feature of the ceremonies was the fact that the chair used by Gen. Washington when master of the lodge, was used.

A three days' bazaar, under the auspices of the Potomac Fire Department was opened last night at the community hall. There will be a special prizes awarde deach night, and many other attractions. CAPITAL MAN LOSES LIFE AT ANNAPOLIS

WED THREE MONTHS AGO

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 29.—Arrangements were being completed tonight for the funeral of Roland Lee, 22, of Washington and Baltimore, bridegroom of three months, who was accidently drowned in Annapolis Harbor last night. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Baltimore, probably Wednesday.

Mr. Lee was an oiler on the steamer John M. Dennis, of the Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Company's line. In his hurry to disembark from the steamer after it completed its last run from the shore to Annapolis, Mr. Lee slipped on the snowy deck, his head striking against the King George Street pier and his body plunging into 14 feet of water. Although the body was recovered by the crew of the Dennis within 10 minutes after the accident, and medical aid was promptly at hand bringing a pulmotor into play, all efforts to revive him were unavailing.

Police Magistrate John W. Anderson, acting coroner decided an inquest unnecessary and gave a verdict of accidental drowning.

Although a native of Baltimore, Mr. Lee lived at Pocomoke City, Md., for a number of years. Three months ago he took up his residence at 535 Fourth street southeast, Washington, after his marriage to Miss Leola Sanders, of that address. Mr. Lee's wife and a brother, Lawrence Lee, of Baltimore came to Annapolis today to take charge of the body now at a local undertaker's establishment. Mr. Lee had been employed on the ferry steamer for two years.

Coruna, Spain, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—A 90-ton schooner was dashed against the rocks and destroyed in a fierce storm here today, but the crew was rescued without injury.

Aviator and Engineer Buddies If Strangers

St. George, Pa., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Two men—total strangers—have a nocturnal tryst here at 2:07 each morning.

One of them is "Bill" Morgan, engineman, who holds the throttle on the Pennsylvania's Pittsburgh to Buffalo mail and express train.

On the minute every morning for months, as the train has shot out of Woodhill Tunnel, Morgan has looked aloft and there over the rim of the hills has seen the New York to Cleveland air mail plane.

Morgan has winked his headlight twice and the airman has answered with his lights.

"Do you know," the engineman says, "if that plane didn't show up at 2:07 any morning I believe I would stop at the next station and get a message back, asking what happened. That fellow up there is my buddy of the air."

"Know who he is?" Morgan was asked.

CIVIC GROUP ARGUES MERITS OF REPORTS

Montgomery Federation in Long Debate Regarding Legislation.

BOND ISSUE IS AT STAKE

Efforts to limit debate having failed, the Montgomery County Civic Federation late last night was still discussing reports of the committee on schools, the committee on roads, streets and bridges and the recommendations of the committee on public finance and budget. It appeared that the session would last into the morning.

The reports are to be considered by the federation in order that definite recommendations can be made to the Maryland State Legislature, when it convenes January 5. The lengthy report of the schools committee, which recommends issuance of bonds for school construction totaling 550,000 had been the focus for most of the debate.

George H. Lamar, of Rockville, had further complicated the discussion by an amendment which called for submission of bond issues to a referendum.

Full Discussion Favored.

Several attempts to limit debate were foiled when Maj. E. Brooke Lee objected to unanimous consent on the ground that more than a million and a half dollars in bonds is a serious matter and should be fully discussed before being indorsed by the federation.

The road, streets and bridges committee recommended projects totaling $1,490,000, of which $400,000 can be cared for by the receipts from the State gas tax and the Federal road aid fund allocated to Montgomery County for 1931 and 1932.

The public finance and budget committee stated that in addition to the road and school bonds, refunding bond issues will have to be provided for as follows; courthouse, 200,000; Bethesda and Silver Springs County Building, $60,000, and schools, $50,000. The latter three are for refunding existing indebtedness.

Must Increase Tax Rate.

The committee reported that in its opinion it will be necessary to increase the county tax rate 10½ cents per $100 assessable value, commencing in 1931 in order to support these bond issues, repayment on the principal of such bond issues to commence in 1933 and be spread over a period of approximately 28 years thereafter. In other words, a one cent increase to the county tax rate on each $100 of assessable value will be necessary to carry the annual interest charges during the next few years on approximately each $200,000 par value of bond issue of 1931 and 1932.

"This committee is further of the opinion that a $2,000,000 county bond issue to be authorized by the Maryland Legislature in the 1931 session would constitute conservative public financing for the county when supported by an increase in the county tax rate of 10½ cents per $100 of assessed valuation."

Harry J. Martin, of Kensington, decried allusion to political motives in the federation's debate. Recalling the condition of schools in the county fifteen years ago, when, he said, they were the football of politics, he urged a liberal policy in the school system. He further advocated a Central High School at Kensington.

Two Critically Hurt In Midair Sled Crash

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 29.—Two persons were probably fatally injured last night when their sleds crashed in midair over a ravine at Mount Clare. The coasters, traveling down opposite hills, were making "jump-the-gap" rides.

Harry Carr, 40, has a broken back and a fractured skull and Levesy Shaw, 13, has a fractured skull. Both are of Mount Clare.

Promoter of Football Saved by Blue Laws

Milwaukee, Dec. 29.—The blue laws, which have never been stricken from the Wisconsin statutes, were cited successfully in District Court and were the means of affording Otto Haederer, backer of the Milwaukee Badgers professional football team escape from trial on a charge of passing a worthless check for $700.

The charge was on complaint of the Mills Stadium team, a Chicago football organization. After the State had completed its case before Judge George E. Page, Frank Burke, counsel for Haederer, moved that the case be dismissed on the grounds that the football game, for which the check was given, was played on Sunday, and was, therefore, illegal, and that there could be no criminal offense growing out of an illegal transaction. As the blue laws forbid all forms of amusement for hire on Sunday, Judge Page dismissed the case.

Widow Finds Gold Hoard in Tin Cans

Saguache, Colo., Dec. 29.—Three rusty tin cans packed with $30 gold pieces, the board of Johnny O'Neil, who for years was noted through this region as the "man who had more gold than any bank in the San Luis Valley," was found in a harness shop on his ranch.

O'Neil, pioneer miner, died three years ago without revealing the hiding place of his gold. His widow, Mrs. Drucilla O'Neil, intent upon restoring order in the cluttered shop, found the cans reposing beneath a litter of harness and tools. Mrs. O'Neil refused to reveal the exact amount of gold in the cans, but it is probable that sum is more than $15,000. It is believed there is more gold coin hidden on the ranch.

UNDERWRITERS PLAN ANNUAL CONVENTION

White Sulphur Springs to Be Host to Casualty and Surety Men.

HOTEL TO LOWER RATES

By THOMAS M. CAHILL

The twenty-first annual convention of the International Association of Casualty and Surety Underwriters will be held at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., September 29 to October 1, inclusive, according to announcement yesterday by F. Robertson Jones, New York, national secretary-treasurer.

In his announcement to local members of the association, he states, as in the past, there will no doubt be a number of important meetings and conferences on Monday, September 28, so it is hoped that all delegates will be able to arrive at the convention place on the morning of or prior to that date.

Arrangements have been made with the hotel management whereby convention rates will be accorded those who arrive a few days in advance of and who remain a few days after the meeting, but to secure such concessions, delegates to the convention must give notice they are such at the time of registration.

Hotel rates will be the same as prevailed during the 1930 convention. In view of the fact that there will be 350 additional new rooms available by the time of the convention, there should be no crowding of accommodations and no misunderstanding regarding reservations, Mr. Jones states. Full details regarding programs and transportation will be given in subsequent notices. As heretofore, this will be a joint and concurrent convention with the National Association of Casualty and Surety Agents.

To Retire From Harriss & Vose.

Harriss & Vose, members of the New York Stock and Cotton Exchanges and of other commodity exchanges, announce that Mrs. William W. Bierce and William Leslie Harriss will retire from the firm February 1.

Mr. Harriss, with Daniel F. McCarthy, will form a partnership in the name of Harriss & Co., and will succeed to and continue the stock business of Harriss & Vose. Harriss & Co. will acquire the branch offices of Harriss & Vose at Boston, Providence, Commodore Hotel, New York City; Elizabeth, Philadelphia, Washington and Akron.

Harriss & Vose, thereafter, will devote their activities solely to commodities, in which they have always specialized. On the same date, Charles B. Vose and Richard T. Harriss, jr., sons of present partners, will be admitted to the firm of Harriss & Vose as general partners.

To Acquire Additional Bus Lines.

In addition to acquiring the Eastern Public Service Corporation bus line between Washington and Knoxville, Tenn., through the Shenandoah Valley, United Utilities, recently organized, will take over January 1 all subsidiary lines of the Eastern, it was reported yesterday. These include the Townes Bus Lines, Washington-Shenandoah Lines and the Virginia Motor Lines. After January 1, the subsidiary companies will be dissolved and United Utilities will take control, it was reported, but the present status of the Eastern as a corporation will remain the same.

The board of directors of the John H. Wilkins Co., coffee merchants, have declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent on outstanding preferred stock and a dividend of $1.50 per share on the outstanding common stock. Both dividends are payable January 10, to stockholders of record, as of December 31.

George O. Walson, president of Liberty National Bank and Washington Stock Exchange, has returned from a holiday trip to New York.

8 UNIONIST FAMILIES EVICTED IN DANVILLE

Three Leave Voluntarily as Illness Saves Others; 27 Face Ousting.

GREEN VIEWS AWAITED

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Dec. 29.—As eviction orders covering families using homes owned by the Dan River Mills became effective today, eight families had their effects put into the street, three moved voluntarily, eliminating any difficulty, and three were permitted to remain, because of illness. No trouble was experienced by the officers. Most of those evicted had found new homes today while the others were expected to do so tomorrow.

R. M. Foster and four Negroes were busy all day moving furniture. The union provided trucks to move the effects of those ousted, and carried them to the homes of strikers, who rent from private persons or who own their own homes. None of those evicted went to other company-owned houses.

During the course of the activity Magistrate R. S. Fitts, of Schoolfield, whose home recently was bombed, signed dispossession writs, which become effective January 9, against 27 striking families in the mill village.

Contests Eviction.

The courtroom was crowded. Charles L. Anderson, captain of the mill pickets, called first; alone contested his case, arguing that he had given 15 years of service in the mill, had been notified last June 15 that his job was at an end and that he would be told when he could come back.

He asked W. Howard Dodson, mill village superintendent, why he was being put out, and was told that company wanted his house. Anderson said that he thought the reason was more deep-seated. It was one of the few occasions when a striker has come in open contact with a mill official, since the strike began and the air was tense. None of the others opposed the orders. Judgment against them was then entered. The union is preparing to provide homes for this group when the time comes for them to leave.

Observers at the mill gates today said more people went to work today the first since the Christmas holiday, than at any other time since the strike began. S. B. Gaylord, union publicity agent, said that the picket count showed there were fewer than heretofore, and that many came out after going in. Figures were given by neither side. The resumption of operations was peaceful and there was no demonstration. Three men who were to be questioned in connection with the discharge of dynamite at Schoolfield last night, were released after they had given a satisfactory account to the military authorities of their activities.

Green to Be Heard.

The message of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will be delivered at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the Producers' Tobacco Warehouse. The meeting is to be an open one and the address will be broadcast by the Danville station, WBTM. It is to last for half an hour.

Speculation as to the message ranged all the way from a decision to call off the strike, during the present period of economic distress, to provision of more money to keep the strikers housed and fed, until unionism is recognized by the mill management. Gaylord, when asked this evening if he had any inkling of the tenor of the address, said: "It's Mr. Green's speech, you know."

The last communique of the union failed to indicate any lowered determination. "The tide of business in textiles is beginning to turn," C. W. Bolick said, "and this company can not stay off the market much longer. Good times are coming for the Danville textile business and the workers are going to share in these good times."

Acting Adjt. Samuel Waller, of Richmond, paid a brief visit to the local militia today, but he said it was an informal call.

Monticello Debt Now Is $100,000

Mortgage for This Amount Will Pave Way for Improvements.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 29.—Only $100,000 remains to be paid on the purchase price of Monticello by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, it was announced today by Stuart G. Gibboney, president of the foundation, through Robert W. Jackson, of Richmond, president of the Virginia Trust Co., which has taken a mortgage for this amount on the historic estate.

A debt of $500,000 was incurred when Monticello was purchased six years ago.

In 1929, net income of the foundation was more than $20,000. The indebtedness had been reduced to 20 per cent of the purchase price and arrangement has been made for settlement of the remainder over a ten-year period. This will enable the foundation to spend a large part of the yearly income on improvements to the mansion and grounds.

Monticello was visited last year by 66,000 persons, and it is estimated this year the number will be 75,000.

Father Knupfer Dies In Wheeling Monastery

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 29.—The Rev. Philip Knupfer, O. M. Capuchin, former pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, this city, died yesterday, at St. Alphonse Monastery, Wheeling, where he had been stationed the last four years.

He was a brother of Father Simon, who was pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Church here from 1922 to 1930. The funeral will be held tomorrow from St. Alphonse Church, Wheeling.

Chillum Heights Denied Bus Service Extension

A request of the Chillum Heights Citizens Association that the bus service of the Washington Rapid Transit Co. be extended from Grant Circle to North Capitol street and New Hampshire avenue was refused yesterday afternoon by the Public Utilities Commission.

It was held the section was too sparsely settled to require expenditure for equipment necessary for the extension.

SCHOOLS PROGRESS IN PRINCE GEORGES

Many Changes in Staffs and Additions Made to Property.

WATER BASIN PROBLEM

Many changes were recorded in the school administration of Prince Georges County in 1930, and large additions made to the property of the system to take care of the phenomenal growth in attendance.

Eight building projects, costing $306,000, were completed. Some comprised new buildings and others were additions. In all, 42 rooms and 5 auditoriums were built with the money raised through a bond issue.

Two junior high schools were established to supplement the one at Maryland Park, and vocational and educational classes were added to the courses at those schools. The new ones are at Mount Rainier and Bladensburg. Classes are being given in wood working, metal working, electricity and masonry. Agriculture also is studied, although this is not a new subject.

At Maryland Park, the vocational students are building a structure to house their own classes and shops. All the subjects taught are for boys.

The new classes were established under the Smith-Hughes act of 1919, whereby the Federal government pays half the expenses of the courses. The State pays 10 per cent, so only 40 per cent of the cost rests on the county.

Following the principle of consolidation of schools wherever possible, the institutions at Croome and Croome Station were merged with the Mariboro school. A bus line was established to take care of the transportation of the pupils from the Croome section. This was the only addition made to the number of school bus lines.

Bus Service Improved.

The bus service was improved by the purchase of closed bodies for the vehicles. Six of the bodies, costing $550 each, were bought and placed on trucks belonging to the contractors. Each school bus was insured for $40,000 against injury to passengers on other persons, and against claims for property damage. The largest single award is fixed at $5,000 for injury.

There are 20 bus lines in service, over about 150 miles of road. The yearly cost to the county of this transportation is $24,000. The average run of a bus is about seven miles.

Twenty teachers were added to the staff of the system, to care for more rooms and for the increased enrollment. There were 500 more children in school than there were in 1929.

Likelihood that the drainage basin of Oxon Run would be taken into the Suburban Sanitary Commission area was seen yesterday after the report of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for 1930 was made public.

The report says that while nearby Maryland can be supplied with water from the present reservoir at Burnt Mills, on the Northwest branch, the supply will be outgrown in a few years. Oxon Run then will be a logical supplemental source of water for the Sanitary Commission's mains. Use of the run would mean steps must be taken at once to safeguard it from pollution.

Plans have been made for a park along the stream, and the laying of sewers must go along with this work to keep the water pure. Unfortunately, while Oxon Run rises in Maryland, it crosses the District line several times before it empties into the Potomac from Washington territory. This will make the administration of the area more complex.

The land to be taken into the Sanitary Commission's district probably will run from District Heights along the Suitland road to Suitland, then south along the Oxon road to the river, a line roughly paralelling the District line.

The report also tells of the necessity for extending Anacostia Park along the three branches of the Anacostia River—Sligo Creek, the Northwest Branch and Indian Creek. The Indian Creek development probably will include a new road to Baltimore to supplement the Baltimore boulevard.

Another need emphasized by the commission is a plan to safeguard the sources of the Patuxent, which also may be called on to contribute water to the sanitary commission's system.

A free typhoid fever clinic will be held this morning at 10 o'clock in the colored school at Laurel. Toxin-antitoxin will be administered to all who apply. Three injections are necessary. The two additional will be given on January 6 and 13. Three cases of typhoid have been reported in the vicinity. Through prompt preventive measures, public health officials hope to be able to stave off an epidemic.

Invasion of the Sanitary market in Riverdale was discovered yesterday morning by employes who opened the place. They reported several cartons of cigarettes had been stolen. The thieves failed in their attempt to open a safe. They got in by breaking a glass in the front door.

At the tailor shop of A. Elmo, in Hyattsville, marauders took suits of clothing and threw them into the muddy road. Nothing was stolen. Empty bottles were left by the intruders.

Civic associations at Hyattsville have announced their intention of filing with the State Roads Commission a protest against plans made for widening the Baltimore boulevard in that town. At present, the corner of a building juts into the road, narrowing it from 50 to about 12 feet.

Plans of the commission are said to contemplate widening this point to 30 feet, which would still leave it 20 feet narrower than the road, and 10 feet narrower than Rhode Island avenue. It is suggested the commission believes enough traffic will be diverted from the boulevard across the bridge over the railroad to make the 30-foot width sufficient. But there should be no narrowing of the street where Rhode Island avenue joins the boulevard, citizens of the town contend.

Cumberland Raises Dam Workers' Pay

Mayor's Objection Fails to Stop Action by City Council.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 29.—The city council today by a vote of four to one, at the request of Allegany Trades Council and Local No. 7, Baltimore & Ohio Federation of Shop Crafts, increased the wages of the laborers employed on the site of the auxiliary dam to be built by the city from 40 to 50 cents an hour. Mayor Thomas W. Koon opposed the move, saying the work was being done simply to relieve unemployment, the city borrowing the money to do it. He said he was ready to stop dam clearing work now, that money could be saved by waiting until summer to do it and even a smaller force could be employed then with equal result.

W. J. Jones, president of the shop crafts, sent in the resolution, calling attention to an ordinance passed March 10 last, fixing pay at 50 cents an hour on public improvements. The resolution, as adopted, also calls for the men who worked for 40 cents an hour, to be reimbursed to date.

City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett indicated that since the city could only borrow a limited amount of money to pay a higher rate, fewer men would have to be employed. Irvin C. Hamilton, president of the trades council, was present. About 700 men are employed at the dam.

NEW BILL IS SOUGHT ON RAIL DISPOSITION

No Agreement Reached as to Track Condemnation at Conference.

PLAN FURTHER SESSIONS

Unable to reach an agreement after a day's conference on the condemnation and disposition of the tracks of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway Co. in Washington, the conferees decided yesterday afternoon to permit attorneys representing all interests involved to draft a new bill, for submission to the whole committee.

The conference was called by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride, following a request by Gardner L. Boothe, attorney for the railway company. Among those present were Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, and Harleigh Hartman, of the Public Utilities Commission; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d and Charles W. Eliot, of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission; Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, representing the District Commissioners, and a representative of Ferry K. Heath, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of public buildings.

Counsel for the railway concern had previously drawn up a measure providing for the condemnation of the property in the Mall area by the Federal Government, should no agreement as to price be reached.

Eventual abandonment of the line, which runs now only between the Capital and Alexandria, in favor of bus service was considered, along with other proposals, among them a new route over Fourteenth street, G street, Eleventh and E streets, but no decisions were made.

The next conference of the attorneys will probably be held on Friday, according to Mr. Bride. It is expected that several meetings will be necessary before an agreement is reached.

SURVEY IS PLANNED OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

NEW MASONIC OFFICERS

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 3224-W-2.

Complying with the request of the Fairfax County authorities, the Virginia State Corporation Commission has promised to send a valuation expert into the county after the first of the year to make a survey of the public utilities operating within the county limits. It is hoped that this survey will bring forth new valuations that will be more in keeping with actual values than the schedule now effective.

The action of the State Legislature some years ago abolished the State tax on real estate, but failed to make any change in the section of the law which required the State to assess the real estate holdings of the utilities companies. This leaves the State in control of the valuations on which the counties may levy taxes, but it receives no financial assistance for such work. It has been proposed that the law should be amended allowing the counties to control all valuations within their limits, but other authorities oppose such action claiming that such a change would result in a chaotic condition because of the varying percentage valuation of real estate in the different counties, especially where utilities operate in more than one jurisdiction. This group of authorities urge that the State code be amended so as to provide a State-wide basis for ascertaining the current values of the public utilities.

The Fairfax County board of real estate reassessment began its work last summer with an intention of equalizing all assessments on a basis of one half of the actual value of the property. The final result of its work shows that the reassessment is nearer 40 per cent of the actual value. The final survey of the reassessment shows that the total real estate value of Fairfax County was increased from $9,966,989 to $17,218,574. The latter figures are subject to the changes that are being made by the county board of equalization and review, which completes its work tomorrow. The members of this board stated they believed that there would be very little change in the total valuation because the decreases would practically be offset by the increases.

Increases In Valuations.

The largest increase in valuations was made by the assessment board in Mount Vernon district. Here values were raised from $1,535,441 to $3,545,052. The white holdings in the district were jumped from $1,458,864 to $3,387,321; in the town of Mount Vernon, from $3,100 to $10,850; Mount Vernon district colored, from $55,487 to $146,881.

In Falls Church District, which showed the second largest percentage increase in values, the total of $1,906,789 was increased to $3,508,899. The district's white holdings increase from $1,095,982 to $2,106,056; town of Falls Church, white, from $661,121 to $1,129,945; colored property valuations increased from $127,491 in the district and $22,195 in the town to $236,673 and $36,225, respectively.

Providence District has been revalued at $5,506,840, as compared with $3,257,301 of last year. The white holdings in the district at large jumped from $2,553,898 to $4,381,394, in the town of Fairfax from $274,858 to $469,025, in the town of Vienna from $235,826 to $344,965 and in the town of West Falls Church from $43,985 to $61,610. The property owned by colored residents of the district increased from $115,331 to $196,006, in the town of Fairfax from $8,877 to $17,060, in Vienna from $22,901 to $35,630 and in West Falls Church from $1,625 to $3,150.

In Drabesville District values have increased from $1,587,130 to $2,255,846. White holdings in the district have increased from $1,136,858 to $1,648,374; in the town of Herndon, from $412,571 to $551,244; colored holdings in the district, from $30,156 to $46,823, and in the town of Herndon, from $7,545 to $9,105.

Centerville District Valuations.

In Centerville District the total valuation of $984,639 was increased to $1,401,057. This includes Centerville Diarict, white, jumped from $859,326 to $1,236,702; town of Clifton, white, from $60,811 to $75,785; Centerville District, colored, from $63,067 to $88,570. The latter figure includes also the town of Clifton, colorde, which was assessed at $7,405 in 1929.

The smallest percentage increase in values was made in Lee District, which jumped from $704,764 to $1,001,180. This included $676,810 for white and $27,974 for colored, as compared with $963,187 and $27,974, respectively.

Under the new assessment, the valuation of the Fairfax County portion of the town of Falls Church, located partially in Falls Church and partly in Providence Districts, has increased from $728,926 to $1,231,030. The increase in values raises the total amount for which the town can bond itself.

The Fairfax County board of supervisors has assured the residents of the county that it would decrease the tax rate so as to correspond with the increased valuation; but as the personal property assessments have not shown a corresponding increase the nearly doubled real estate assessment in the county does not mean that next year's tax rate can be cut in half, but there will be a material decrease, and the final result of the reassessment will be a more equitable distribution of the tax burden among the property owners of hte county.

Allocation of one-half of the 15.53 miles of new State highway for Fairfax County under the provisions of an act passed by the last session of the Virginia State Legislature is contained in an announcement from the office of the State Highway Commission at Richmond.

The announced distribution contains allotments which will complete the Ox road into Occoquan. With the completion of this road from Fairfax to Occoquan, Ox road will be the shortest distance from Washington to Occoquan and the South. The statement also shows that the section that will be taken over for maintenance tomogrow will be 1.98 miles long and that to be taken over July 1, 1931, will be 1.82 miles. Another road in the present distribution will be the Old Kings Highway. This road will be taken over to morrow and begins at the Penn Daw Hotel on the Washington Richmond Highway, and goes northeast to Telegraph road and is 1.90 miles long. When this route is hard surfaced it will afford tourists and citizens from the northern portion of Fairfax County along the Little River Turnpike an opportunity to avoid the congested traffic in the City of Alexandria. It will also shorten the distance between the Lee Jackson highway and the Washington-Richmond highway by several miles.

The balance of the allotment totaling 2.05 miles, will be taken over July 1, 1931, along the Alexandria-Leesburg pike, beginning at Tysons Crossroads toward Alexandria.

The allocations this year aggregate 7.76 miles of State highway. The remaining portion of the Fairfax County allotment will be distributed by the State Highway Commission in December, 1931. Half of which will be taken over for maintenance at that time and the remaining portion on July 1, 1932. According to this year's allotments the State Highway Commission acceded to the requests of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors and if these recommendations are followed next year the balance of Fairfax Countys' allotment will take in the remainder of the Leesburg Pike through the town of Falls Church to the corporate limits of the City of Alexandria, a distance of approximately eight miles.

SECOND GAS BLAST INJURES WORKMAN

OTHER TOILERS SPARED

Newport News, Va., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—An acetylene gas tank blew up with a terrific detonation at the Virginia Gas Products plant today seriously injuring Joe Cooper, Negro workman, who was on top of the tank. It was the second tank to blow up at the plant within a week.

The explosion had great force but the damage to property was small inasmuch as all windows and doors in the neighborhood had been smashed by the previous explosion.

The explosion a week ago came at 1 o'clock in the morning, sending hundreds screaming from their homes into snow and frigid air in their night clothes.

W. B. Darden, advertising manager of the Portsmouth Star, was passing the plant at the time of the explosion to show his mother-in-law the damage caused by the previous explosion.

"Just as I pointed to the tank to tell her that it was similar to the one that blew up last week, there was a tremendous detonation," Darden said. "The huge tank rose about 50 feet in the air and veered over to the east, landing in a vacant space. Had the tank veered off to the west it would have landed in the midst of a group of men standing nearby."

PROPAGANDA AMONG CHURCHMEN.

Through an ingenious combination of wheels within wheels an attempt is on foot to concentrate the influence of all the Protestant churches of America in behalf of a political question now before the Senate. A "commission on international justice and good will," apparently created by the "Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America," and engineered by a skilled propagandist, now announces that an alarm is to be sent throughout the country, calling upon all church members to bombard their senators in behalf of the so-called world court.

In the name of peace and international good will the churches are to be drawn into a political agitation. The circular note accompanying the blank petitions which are distributed does not hesitate to make a misleading statement of fundamental importance in connection with the world court issue. It asserts that the reservations made by the Senate "have been met by the protocols submitted by the President on December 10, 1930. * * * If action thus taken by the Senate after careful and thorough deliberation is now to be repudiated, the foreign relations of the United States can not be carried on."

This statement is so grossly misleading that it can hardly be the product of ignorance. It deserves the immediate attention of the gentlemen who have lent their names to the propaganda, in order that they may not be criticized as deliberate participants in a scheme to delude members of the churches.

Instead of "meeting" the Senate's reservation, the formula now submitted to the Senate proposes to reverse the conditions imposed by the Senate. The Senate insisted that the world court, without the consent of the United States, should not consider any request for an advisory opinion on any question affecting the United States. The formula now proposed would permit the court to consider such requests, notwithstanding the objection of the United States. A careful scrutiny of the formula by any church member will substantiate the fact here asserted. But the propagandist who is handling this plan to embroil the churches in this political question now tries to make it appear that if the Senate should insist upon its reservation it will be "repudiating" its action of January, 1926. He adds the preposterous statement that unless the world court treaty is ratified the foreign relations of the United States can not be carried on. In other words, unless the Senate ratifies the world court treaty, the United States will find itself cut off from diplomatic communication with all other nations!

Such propaganda, directed at church members who can not be expected to make individual examination of the facts concerning the so-called world court, is nothing short of a swindle. It is an attempt to take advantage of the peace-loving sentiment of citizens in order to push through a scheme to entangle the United States in a foreign political system. Every church member who receives one of these circulars should take the time to study the question personally. He can soon verify the fact that clever propagandists are at work attempting to deceive him.

LOOKING TO AMERICA.

Dr. Julius Klein's address on the economic status of Europe is variously interpreted. The New York Times uses it as an argument against the American protective tariff. Others recognize it as an exposure of the propaganda intended to show European resentment against American policies. As a matter of fact, Dr. Klein found Europe looking eagerly toward America for a solution of the current economic depression.

Clever propagandists have tried to make Europe believe that by protecting its own interests the United States was putting on an air of superiority. But they have not succeeded. Much political nonsense is talked in parliamentary halls, and many deliberate attempts are made to ruin American trade by arousing resentment against the tariff, but the people give them little heed. Alleged foreign enmity against the United States is largely mythical, according to Dr. Klein. He found "little real bitterness" on account of the American tariff, but "a deepening appreciation that in America's economic stability lies the greatest single hope for world recovery."

The fact that the United States chooses to protect its domestic markets, raise its wage scales, protect its labor and maintain high standards of living can not arouse any rational resentment in the people of foreign countries. Ought the United States to limp along with antiquated machinery, unbusinesslike methods, inefficiency, low wages and small scale production to avoid piquing other peoples? Is American industry and trade to be directed according to the whims of other countries?

The American economic policy has had no higher compliment than the attempt to form an economic alliance in Europe. This country has pointed the way toward a higher economic plane. There is no element of egotism in recognition of that fact. Europe recognizes it when the nations of that continent look toward the United States for leadership during the depression.

Individuals who are denied the privilege of making fortunes by flooding the American market are naturally disappointed. But they continue to trade with the United States up to the limit of their ability. As a result, Dr. Klein is able to report that "in almost every single case, the percentage which we enjoy of the trade of the Old World nations in both directions has held steadily in spite of bitter agitation regarding tariffs, immigration, war debts and other issues."

The attempt to make world trade a sentimental issue has failed in both this country and Europe. Economic relation between the two continents are on a sound business basis. Let those who have been representing the United States as a shylock contemplate for a time just what condition the world would be in without the American market and American industrial genius.

TAX REFUNDS.

A considerable reduction in the amount of money refunded to taxpayers because of overassessment may be noted by the report of Secretary Mellon to the joint congressional committee on internal revenue taxation. Only $126,836,333, including $37,971,711 in interest, was refunded during the last fiscal year, compared with $190,164,359 for the previous year.

Apparently this reduction has been brought about by a more rigid interpretation of the law. It is reasonable to suppose that the total of refunds will decrease as the fine points of the law become better established. During the nine years that reports of these refunds have been made to Congress a total of $1,415,290,609 has been repaid to taxpayers. The refunds made this year are about $20,000,000 below the average for that period. It is to be hoped that this downward trend will continue.

Administration of this phase of the internal revenue laws has been sharply criticized. Publication of last year's figures will doubtless be the signal for another attack upon the Treasury for returning to taxpayers money that rightfully belongs to them. Congress has already thrown every safeguard around this function. Refunds in excess of $500 must be reported to Congress; and a refund of more than $75,000 must be certified by the joint committee. Yet partisans and radicals continue to assert that refunds are made to promote political ends.

The absurdity of trusting the Secretary of the Treasury to collect more than $2,000,000,000 in taxes annually, and questioning his impartiality in refunding a very small fraction of that sum to taxpayers who were overcharged by mistake or misinterpretation of the law, is not apparent to critics of the administration. It has been hoped that some members of Congress who have shown such keen interest in the subject would get busy and iron out some of the ambiguities and technicalities of the income tax laws. But they prefer to waste their breath in twaddle about the "favored interests." If Representative Garner and his cohorts will read the list of persons and corporations to whom refunds have been made they will find that Democrats have not been neglected.

"HIGH FINANCE."

Judge Jenkins, of Youngstown, Ohio, presiding in the case involving the proposed merger of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., has granted an injunction to the minority stockholders of the latter corporation, restraining the proposed combination.

The testimony in this case, and the comment of the judge in granting the injunction, reveal a state of affairs that reflects seriously upon the ethics of men who have reached conspicuous places in "big business." It appears that misleading reports were made to stockholders by the board of directors of the Youngstown company; that the accountants were so limited by the board that the expert reports were conflicting and misleading; that the board of directors acted illegally, besides withholding information from stockholders; that a director of the Bethlehem corporation sat as a director in the Youngstown company when the proposed merger was approved; that the enormous bonuses voted to Bethlehem executives, amounting to $3,600,000 in the single year 1929, "entered materially into the consideration for the sale and into the value of Bethlehem stock to be received in exchange for Sheet & Tube stock."

A study of the testimony in this case reveals, in short, such extraordinary flights of "high finance" that the decision of the presiding judge seems to be mild, indeed, in its comments.

Whether or not the case presents features which call for action by Congress, in the form of legislation that will prevent similar adventures, it may be taken for granted that the revelations will be discussed in Congress.

ENCOURAGING IDLENESS.

Indications that a fight for unemployment insurance will be made in the near future come from several different sources. Senator Wagner, of New York, has introduced a resolution, calling for a study of systems set up in other countries, and a bill providing for Federal and State cooperation in the administration of an unemployment insurance fund. Edward F. McGrady, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, has issued a statement favoring corporation "reserve funds" for the benefit of the unemployed. He intimated that this proposal will have the support of the federation's executive council.

Why Senator Wagner should ask for a study of unemployment insurance and at the same time introduce a bill dealing with the subject is not clear. It is certain, however, that his bill would have a better chance of enactment if it could be taken up before Congress had a chance to investigate the demoralizing effect of the dole on the laboring class of Europe. Fortunately, enough is already known as to the results of the dole to condemn it.

Mr. McGrady's suggestion is particularly interesting because the American Federation of Labor has consistently opposed any sort of insurance that approaches the dole. Organized labor wants jobs, not hand-outs. The proposed "reserve fund" would be set aside for wages to the unemployed in slack times, just as reserves are accumulated by some corporations to pay dividends during unproductive periods. This is a novel variation from the usual unemployment schemes, but since it would tend to subsidize idleness, it is no less obnoxious.

"If when unemployed he (the workman) is to receive something he did not pay for," says Calvin Coolidge, "no one can say how that would affect the will of the wage earner to hold his place by doing his best. Evidently the morale would be lowered."

Why does not industry or organized labor launch a plan whereby the working man could secure himself against periods of idleness without submitting to compulsory arrangements, and without living on charity from his employer or the Government? Insurance benefits ought not to come in the form of gratuities. A working man should be able to purchase insurance out of his own earnings. Industrious workers can not afford to support the shiftless and lazy who are willing to exist on a dole.

If a reserve fund is to be built up by industry, why should it not be used to guarantee jobs rather than to pay benefits to men while they are not working? It is work that ought to be guaranteed. To pay any kind of benefits that workers themselves have not earned is like applying a salve to the surface while the sore underneath festers and poisons the whole system. There is urgent need for joint action by industry and labor that will go to the deepest roots of this problem. In the meantime quack remedies should be ignored.

Sinclair Lewis' proposal to banish all reformers makes him the greatest reformer of them all.

Mr. Edison's latest advice on diet suggests that he might be waiting the pleasure of some dentist to get a pair of false teeth.

THE RAILROAD CRISIS

From the Christian Science Monitor.

"We have come to a crisis in the affairs of the railroads," declares Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railroad Executives; and from so many parts of the United States come similar statements that Americans can hardly longer ignore them.

Motor truck and bus competition has cut deeply into the short-haul passenger business and the less-than-carload freight tonnage of the railroads. Waterways carry increasing amounts of heavy commodities which have been the bulk of rail traffic. Aircraft are bidding for long-distance passenger travel. And pipe lines for oil carried in 1928 more ton-miles of "freight" than did intercity motor trucks and waterways combined.

Much has been said about men being put out of work by new inventions and methods, but here is a whole industry, one of the largest in the Nation, threatened with this technological unemployment. There is such a thing as unemployment for invested capital as well as for men. Here is approximately $26,000,000,000 of it facing, to some extent, that situation. This capital includes some 60,000 locomotives, 2,350,000 cars, 425,000 miles of tracks, besides stations and shops, all of which would be difficult to turn to other uses. And naturally the possible abandonment of such useful equipment would bring a more serious displacement of thousands of men.

Each of the rival carriers has some special field of usefulness but none can entirely fill the place of the steam railroad. The question confronting American and other nations is one of adjusting the various transports to their proper spheres and equalizing the terms of competition between them. Indeed, if the terms of competition are equalized, the adjustment of the services into various fields to form a complete transportation system will follow.

The plea of railroad men has lately been stated thus by Prof. William Z. Ripley:

"Almost without exception these competitors (waterways and motor transport) enjoy some form of subsidy giving them advantage over the railroads, while the railroads have been penalized in the form of taxation; even to the extent of maintaining highways for certain competitors."

Prof. Ripley recommends, in the case of motor truck and bus lines, "adequate taxation, regulation of rates and hours of labor." Regulation undoubtedly can be carried somewhat further than it has been, particularly by passage in Congress of a bill to regulate interstate motor carriers. But there may be doubts as to whether mere issuance or refusal of licenses can keep an excessive number of trucks off the roads. If denied a permit as a common carrier the truck operator can go on as a contract carrier for certain of his customers.

Hence taxation seems the most feasible way of placing motor and rail transit on even footing—not taxation arbitrarily to handicap a new industry and protect an old, but taxation to reimburse the State fully for use of the roads, besides ordinary property taxation. True motor buses now pay taxes which, according to the Automobile Chamber of Commerce, average $686 a year per vehicle and constitute two-fifths of the cost of maintenance of the highways used. Carl W. Stocks, editor of Bus Transportation, reports that intercity motor buses pay an average of 6.7 per cent of their revenue in taxes and motor trucks pay as high as 14 or 15 per cent in some States.

The motor carrier receives for this payment the use of a ready-made roadbed. But the steam railroads in 1929 paid 6.32 per cent of their revenue in taxes and still had to pay 13.66 per cent of their revenue for maintenance of way and structures and 8.26 per cent in interest on funded debt, much of which is for roadbed.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

GRANDPA.

When I am being scolded for
The things I've done or didn't do,
Like leaving dirt on carpets new,
Or sometimes being fresh and smart,
My grandpa always takes my part.

It seems my grandpa understands
Why boys of eight or nine years old
Sometimes forget to wash their hands,
And fail to do as they are told.
I'm certain that I've heard him say:
"When I was small I was that way."

Sometimes he says: "Oh, let it go.
When I was just a little kid
My parents used to worry so
About the awful things I did."
And when they can not see him, he Will grin and wink his eye at me.

Perhaps I will come out all right
And learn to do the things I should,
And wash my hands and face at night,
And grow up gentle, kind and good,
Because my grandpa did, and he
Was once a bad boy, just like me.

The Ablest of Railroad Presidents Can't Make a Coal Burner Run Without a Fireman.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

On a certain black Friday two men at court were filled with bitterness. Each sat in his accustomed place and brooded, and to each the flavor of life was bitter.

The first and greatest was the king. Before him on the desk lay a paper that would determine the future of his kingdom. He had only to affix his name and seal and his subjects would be content. His better nature and his common sense urged him to sign, for the paper granted just and reasonable rights for which his people had petitioned. But the petition had been presented by an impudent lawyer who had addressed him uncivilly and made threats. When he thought of the lawyer his brow darkened, and outraged dignity urged him to tear the paper into fragments. That, he knew, might lead to revolution. How hard it is to think clearly when the mind is heavy with smoldering wrath!

The other man who sat brooding was the court jester—a fool, he was called, and a fool he called himself.

"I am of all men the most worthless," said he. "I have wit and learning, and yet in a world full of great matters I sit here in idleness, useless alike to myself and to the world. A professional fool! Surely it is the most contemptible of callings! Other men no more capable than I are serving the state and the people, and I am doomed to make sorry jests and tell droll stories. In all this kingdom there is not a smith's apprentice nor a milkmaid so utterly worthless as I."

His self-abasement was interrupted by the sound of a gong. It was a summons from the king. Never had he gone to his sovereign with a heart so heavy.

"Fool," said the king, "do something, if you can, to clear the cobwebs from my brain; for the fate of the kingdom is in the balance and my poor wits are heavy and dull."

"Once upon a time," began the fool," there were two Irishmen named Pat and Mike."

The king leaned back to listen. When the tale was finished, he laughed a great laugh that shook his fat sides, and his diaphragm massaged his liver and his mind was cleared as if by magic. Still chuckling, he reached for his goosequill pen.

"Precious fool," he said, "you have saved a kingdom! Next in importance to a great servant of the state is the servant who sharpens his sword."

Norris' Latest Nostrum.
New York Times.

Before the consent of the House has been wrung, if it is to be wrung at last, to the submission of his "lame duck" amendment to an expectant Nation, Mr. Norris declares his purpose to introduce into the next Congress a resolution for an amendment to substitute for the present electoral system direct election of the President and Vice President by the people. He wants to make things easier for independent candidates. "You know," he says, "that national conventions seldom pay any attention whatever to the wishes of the rank and file of their respective parties." Unfortunately, we don't know it. Nor do we know why his next amendment is necessary to "enable the voters to get control of the parties any time they are minded to."

The House conferees have gone to great, and, in the opinion of many persons, to unwise extremes with their compromise, but it is understood it does not meet with Mr. Norris' approval. He will be satisfied with nothing less than putting the Government into the business of distributing commercial power over its own lines. Since the House will hardly consent to this, the deadlock on Muscle Shoals is not likely to be broken when Congress comes back from its vacation.

Whether Mr. Simpson can prove his charges against the Farm Board, which include that of following a policy of depressing farm commodity prices to promote restriction of acreage and help manufacturers, we have no idea. And whether, having proved them, he will have proved that the Farm Board has betrayed those for whose relief it was organized is another question. However, since Mr. Simpson, a veteran leader of farm organizations with a considerable reputation as a relentless antagonist, makes his objective a disclosure of the facts, with vituperation a side line, he is a far more formidable antagonist than most Mr. Legge has stirred to action during his career as head of the Farm Board. Indeed, in his latest invitation to battle it looks as if Mr. Legge has roused a really tough guy.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Ambassador; of Fandom Delivers Diplomatic Note Defending the Rabbit Ball.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was surprised, and I might even say disappointed, to read in a newspaper interview today that Ban Johnson, former czar of baseball, now happily convalescing from a serious illness, is opposed to what is popularly known as the rabbit ball.

He has examined the rabbit ball and he thinks the rubber in it has been greatly increased from that "found necessary in other days when scores were low, home runs were fewer and there was some skill and strategy required to win a baseball contest."

Unless the rubber is reduced, he said, the ball "will continue to result in meaningless home runs and hurt both infield and outfield play."

My idea has been that it required more skill to win games with the rabbit ball in play than with a less lively one. Otherwise, if it is fair to follow Mr. Johnson's implication to its logical conclusion, we might improve the game to the point of perfection by substituting a turtle ball for that to which the pallid proponents of pitcher's-battle, low-score games object.

I am very certain that the multitude of red-blooded, pop-eyed fans are satisfied with their favorite sport as at present played, and I don't think our present day fielders are particularly scared of the rabbit ball. Yet to hear the low-score antihome-run experts talk, you might think the rabbit ball partakes of the ferocity of the rabbits of which we now and then read, which attack bulldogs on sight and which would rend our husky infielders and outfielders limb from limb is caught in the nearby Virginia and Maryland woods.

HENRY WARD BLEACHER.

Commends Senator Reed for Postponing World Court Question. Root-Hurst Formula Described as "Weasel Words."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Happily, in the urgent necessity to look after the distress of our own people first, the Senate committee on Foreign affairs has, at the very sensible motion of Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, postponed the issue as to whether we shall join the League of Nations' advisory court, sometimes, and even by high authorities called the "world court," until a year hence.

It is to be inferred that the senator as a member of the American delegation to London at the conference which resulted in the treaty of London for the further limitation of naval armaments observed what he saw. He went once as an officer of the American Army to help settle European quarrels, and he is not quite certain in his own mind that he wants to go again or to vote to send other American soldiers when he would not want to go himself.

If, as is quite possible, the shade of that great president of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt, may look down on the present activities of his fellow Americans, what a perfect example he must see of "weasel words" in the Root-Hurst formula for the proposed adherence of the United States to the "world court."

Dangerous Drunken Driver Let Off Without Fine, While Minor Offenders Are Penalized.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Friday night, December 19, 1930, in the 4800 block of Georgia avenue northwest, a man driving a car with a Maryland license was so drunk while going north that he did not know what he was doing. He drove on the wrong side of the street, colliding with a southbound car, and then collided with a car parked at the curb. The man was so drunk that he went to sleep at the wheel. Three policemen came in answer to a phone call. After taking the names of the owners of the damaged cars, one of the police drove the drunk away.

Next morning in court, Saturday, December 20, I had occasion to be there. This man was let off with the words, "Have you learned your lesson?" Others who were brought to court for minor offenses got fines ranging from $2 to $25.

Federal Employe Says Superannuated Clerks Prevent Advancement of the Younger Ones.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Just a word to say that I am in perfect accord with everything that "Federal Employe," in a recent issue of your paper has to say concerning the evils of the extension system under the civil service retirement act. Now that the ban on more than two extensions has practically been removed, just what chance has the younger generation of finding employment, to say nothing of advancement?

Now, for a practical illustration: Perhaps if the adjudicating division of the Pension Office were not filled with clerks considerably past the retirement age, there would not have been such a delay in getting out the checks of recent annuitants.

Squirrels Like Chocolate, Says a Veracious Fisherman.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One of the naturalists whose interesting notes appear occasionally in The Post letter column, says: "Of course, the natural food of squirrels is nuts of any type, but they are also fond of corn."

I discovered some years back that the squirrel has also a sweet tooth. I had gone down to the Tidal Basin to fish for the big one, which didn't get away because they wouldn't bite. Just before I made my first cast, a gray squirrel came wandering by, apparently on the lookout for food. Having nothing better, I offered him a good-sized portion from a chocolate bar I had brought along for lunch. He ate it without hesitation, and wanted more. I was tempted to see how much of it he would eat, but refrained from further experiment for fear it might make him sick.

Col. Cockshutt May Be Envoy From Canada

Popular Leader Much Discussed as Choice by Premier.

WILL the New Year chronicle the appointment of a new envoy from Canada to the United States? Dispatches from Ottawa yesterday indicate the possible choice by Premier Bennett of Col. Harry Cockshutt, popular Canadian leader and former lieutenant governor of the Province of Ontario. While international relations between Canada and the United States move smoothly along in the usual even tenor of their way the status of the Canadian envoy, who, to all intents and purposes, still is Mr. Vincent Massey, remains somewhat vague and undetermined.

When Mr. Massey left Washington late last spring, ostensibly to take up his duties as high trade commissioner from his country to London, he did not pursue the usual procedure of presenting his letters of recall to the President, but left the legation under the supervision of a charge d'affaires, expecting the newly appointed envoy to cut the red tape of letters of withdrawal, presenting them with his own credentials.

With the election of R. B. Bennett as premier, there followed a complete upset of the "apple cart" in Canadian politics. Mr. Massey failed to land the London plum and instead of sailing immediately for England, with Mrs. Massey, he spent some time at their estate near Ottawa and then left for Europe where they were until a few weeks ago, having returned to Ottawa to spend Christmas. Listed in the diplomatic blue book as the Minister of Canada, Mr. Massey's resignation is an accepted fact although his letters of recall still are lying in blueribboned and grandiose state somewhere.

Should Premier Bennett select Col. Cockshutt from the half dozen men of affairs already mentioned for the post to Washington the choice would meet with favor throughout much of the Dominion, according to stray bits of information current here. Although never a servant of the Dominion nor appointed to any federal post Col. Cockshutt's coadministration of affairs as lieutenant governor of his province has gone down in history as one of unusual achievement.

Should Premier Bennett delay longer the appointment of some distinguished Canadian to the berth in Washington it might be interpreted as an amusing anticlimax of the long drawn out postponement of Mr. Hanford MacNider's appearance across the border as envoy to Canada. Everybody remembers the diplomacy exercised by the State Department in delaying the formality of Mr. MacNider's presentation at Ottawa as minister until the outcome of the Canadian elections—which blew to the skies the selection of Mr. Massey as High Trade Commissioner to London. With complications liable to arise relative to tariff and other borderline difficulties it was deemed feasible to await the final decision of the electors of the dominion to the north before sending Mr. MacNider in state to the Court of Canada.

Mrs. Martha G. Hall was hostess last evening at a large ball given at the Mayflower for her debutante daughter, Miss Katherine Hall, who made her formal debut at a tea given at her home on November 28.

Mrs. Hall and the debutante, assisted by the latter's sisters, Miss Mary Lewis Hall and Miss Anne Byrd Hall, received their guests in the Chinese room of the hotel. James Monroe Tokens Found By Mrs. Johns Returns From Quest in Europe for Souvenirs of Virginian.

With the arrival from France a few days ago of Mrs. Jay Winston Johns, of Ashlawn, home of former President James Monroe, near Charlottesville, Va., further impetus has been given to the collection of souvenirs of the father of the Monroe Doctrine and fifth President of the United States. Mrs. Johns, who arrived on the Bremen, brought with her several souvenirs of Monroe's stay in France while he served as minister there.

Although the object of her trip abroad was to see and purchase a bust of Monroe done by Houdon, which art connoiseurs had believed portrayed by the great sculptor, it developed the former President never sat for Houdon. Mrs. Johns did succeed, however, in locating a bust of Monroe, made after the portrait by Gilbert Stuart. As the bust is in a private collection in France and is not for sale, Mrs. Johns hopes to have a copy made by the national manufactory of Sevres.

Mr. and Mrs. Johns intend to present a bust of President Monroe to the State of Virginia, to fill one of the niches in the Capitol surrounding the Houdon statue of Washington. Gov. Pollard hopes that all of the niches will be filled before the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Yorktown, which will take place next October. The first bust to be placed in the hall of fame will be that of Thomas Jefferson. Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, will deliver the oration at the unveiling early in the new year. Mr. Claude Bowers, author, will deliver the address at the unveiling of the bust of President Tyler.

Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Moulden announce the engagement of their daughter, Misss Marian Alice Moulden, to Ensign P. P. Blackburn, jr. The wedding will take place in May.

The day will also mark the seventieth wedding anniversary of Mrs. Donald MacDonald, sr., who celebrated her ninetieth birthday on Christmas Day.

Miss Anna L. Stovel, Miss Betty C. Wright and Miss Josephine B. Timberlake are now in residence in their new home, 1538 Forty-fourth street, Foxhall Villege.

Col. and Mrs. Brainerd Taylor will entertain a large party of young folks at dinner this evening for their two sons, Mr. Brainerd Taylor, now doing post-graduate work at Harvard, and Mr. Harold Taylor, an undergradute at Harvard, both of whom are spending the holiday period in Washington.

Anderson Ball For Anne Perin Attended by 100

Hosts Are Unable to Be Present at Dance for Niece.

Despite the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson were unable to be present as host and hostess at the dance given last night at Grasslands for their cousin, Miss Anne Perin, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Perin, the fete was held as scheduled, with about 100 guests, including members of the smart younger set and their beaux, in attendance at the dinner beforehand.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have been detained at their home in Brookline, Mass., and were unable to come to Washington for the party. And, as the invitations were issued some weeks ago and plans made, they decided to give it by proxy.

The palatial Anderson home on Massachusetts avenue will remain closed this season, for Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will not come to Washington again before they sail, within a short time, to the Dutch East Indies and Indo-China.

Miss Perin was formally presented to society by her parents at a tea earlier in the season.

While in the Capital the youthful visitor made a wide circle of friends who regretted her departure after the season was over to Carlsbad, N. M., where Miss Thomas has made her home for a number of years. Dr. and Mrs. Hoover now are living in Carlsbad, although it is presumed they eventually will make Pittsburgh their home, as Dr. Hoover is on the staff of the Alleghany General Hospital. Mrs. Hoover is a graduate of the University of New Mexico.

Mrs. Volney O. Clark, who has been in Washington since her return from Europe last month, has gone to Boston to be with her husband, Lieut. Comdr. Clark, until he leaves for Cuba at the end of January.

Gayety Marks First Assembly In Georgetown

"Casedweller" Holiday Party Is Held in Linthicum Hall.

Old Linthicum Hall, which embodies all the splendor of the Mid-Victorian era, was the scene of the first of the Georgetown assemblies last night, where the elder and more youthful members of the "cavedweller" group gathered for the holiday party.

The other dances included in this annual series are usually given over to the older members of this dancing set, but the gayety of the Christmas fete centers around the young girls and their beaux, home for the holidays, and the dance last night was no exception to the rule.

Smilax and Christmas greens were used to decorate the high-ceilinged ballroom, which had been transformed for the evening from its usual Victorian appearance. The atmosphere of "lavender and old lace," however, could never be done away with in the old building, which has been the scene of the assemblies so dear to Georgetown's residential group for many years.

The receiving line was headed by Mrs. Robert S. Beale, chairman of the assembly committee. Others receiving were Mrs. S. Percy Thompson, Mrs. John Blake Gordon and Mrs. John H. Hanna.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. McReynolds entertained at a buffet supper in honor of their daughter, Miss Alice McReynolds, later, taking their guests to the assembly. Mr. and Mrs. John Minor were hosts at dinner beforehand. Others entertaining were Mrs. H. G. Bull and Dr. and Mrs. William Earl Clark. Your Name
WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

The family name "Vaughn" (also spelled "Vaughan) is derived from the Welsh adjective "vychan," which means "little." Old records show that this name was often given as a personal name to children, but in the great majority of cases it was first given as a nickname to persons of small stature. It was introduced into Ireland sometime before the sixteenth century by a Welsh family some of whom settled in Dublin and Wexford. In England it is found especially in the border counties of Cheshire, Shropshire, Hereford and Monmouth. It appears to be first recorded as a family name in the year 1248. Its common spellings in thirteenth century West English records are "Vachan" and "Vaghan." A certain William Vachan is mentioned in the Hundred Rolls.

The family name "Parnell" (also spelled "Parnall" and "Purnell") has come into English through various French diminutive forms of "Pierre" (English "Peter"). "Peter" is ultimately of Greek origin, and means "rock" or "stone." "Parnell," which was often Latinized as "Petronilla," was once a common personal name for girls. It went out of fashion, however, because it gradually became associated with certain unpleasant types of women. Various forms of this name are found in the Hundred Rolls. Some of the entries in that famous document are Petronilla de le Le, Pernel Clere, William Peronel, Alexander Pernel and Johannes Peronele.

The family name "Luden" has come down to us from two German sources. In most cases it is a shortened form of the old Germanic personal name "Liuto" (also spelled "Luto") which means "people" and "nation." Occasionally it is derived from the Germanic "Hluthas" meaning "famous."

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Paris, Dec. 29.

SINCE nothing is more important to the well-dressed woman than her hat, and since a hat can make or mar any costume with the greatest of ease, let's see what is happening in hatdom right now!

Well, tricornes and bicornes keep right on happening. The tricornes are more tricky than before, due to the unusual and happy feather treatments Paris is using more and more, and to the more conservative self-trimming. The bicorne shares its popularity (and why not, as it is so becoming to the average woman?)—and on these, too, feathers are used very frequently. And on many of these off-the-face hats I saw the charming and coquettish half-veils. But before you indulge in half-veils, or large and floating feathers, be sure you're the type, my deahs. They are too awful on the wrong people!

Felt, after a brief abdication in velvet's favor, is back again more strongly than before, and many of the spring hats I saw were of heavy panne satin. And black outnumbered all other colors about ten to one.

And speaking of hats, who wouldn't welcome an adjustable hat, made to be worn in many different ways. Agnes has made such a new hat—it is two-toned and can be worn over both ears or off the forehead or tucked up in back. And when not in use, it can be stowed away without fear of crushing it!

* * * *

O-o-o-h, the loveliest sleeves in the whole wide world are these of transparent silver mesh! This sleeve is held to the arm by large black jet beads, and bordered with them. But there's nothing heavy and awkward in all this jet trimming—the beads are hollow and lightweight!

* * * *

The New Year's resolution of Miladi Elegante, 1931 model, is, "It's smart to be economical." And Dare starts the year off with a New Year's Eve gown—o-o-oh the most adorable evening gown you can imagine! And the "smart and economical" part is that after the party it can be permanently converted into an afternoon frock that is just as delightful as it was as an evening gown. Better get that stamped, self-addressed envelope right off to Dare Department, of The Washington Post, for the illustrated leaflet that shows you just how to make an evening gown that can be made later into an afternoon frock—taking just four yards of material—and no more when the dress is made over!

* * * *

O-o-o-h, I'll bet the lovely lady who owns this smart Lenief coat I show you today spends most of her time wishing for blustery white blizzards to rush about in—as the proper complement to her vivid chic! For this coat is just as practical as can be, though it looks far too stunning for that. And I wanted you to see how cleverly the red wool was combined with beaver to form the upstanding collar and the wide cuffs. Not to mention the interesting belt and side tab details!

HOW TO KEEP WELL
By DR. W. A. EVANS

DIET AND MIND.

IN an investigation of the school children of Joliet, Ill., Hoefer and Hardy developed proof that breast-fed babies develop into bright school children, while the bottle fed supply the laggards in school. The tests showed the "artificially fed were inferior in all standardized measurements to those breast fed from four to nine months. In learning to talk, the artificially fed were the most retarded of all the groups. Not a child artificially fed rated as high as 130, while 5 per cent of those breast fed were above this score."

Further tests showed the benefits of proper artificial feeding and the harm from improper artificial feeding.

Note that the quotations relate solely to the mentality of school children. The observations were paralleled by another group which covered physical condition. These observations caused Drs. Maurer and Tsai to try some experiments on rats.

The intelligence of rats is of a high order, superior to that of many animals and ranking pretty close to that of humans. A professor has written a book on the brains of rats and men. In this he disclaims intention to compare these brains, to reflect on his enemies, or to libel the plain people, but the very fact that he hooked rats to man in his study showed that, consciously or unconsciously, he admired rats and did not regard all men as Daniel Websters.

The intelligence of rats is measured by a standardized procedure known as the maze test. Properly fed rats worked this test in standard time and in accordance with other standards. Improperly fed rats fell far below the standard. After the effects of improper feeding had gone to a certain point the rats not only were low in intelligence but they lost initiative as well. Not even great hunger would cause them to try. The same results, or even more marked ones, followed when mothers of suckling rats were improperly fed. If a young female was improperly fed her subsequently born progeny were dumb.

Up to a certain point the ill effects of improper feeding could be overcome by subsequent proper feeding. These experiments indicate that to prevent nitwits and repeaters in school, school children should be properly fed. The proper feeding should begin at birth. It should extend to prospective parents.

There are possibilities of raising the mental level of some feeble-minded children by diet.

METABOLISM TEST.

J. A. B. writes: I would like to know what is meant by a metabolism test and what knowledge is gained by going through one?

REPLY.

It is a test to determine the rate at which the fires burn. It is of service especially in goiter myxedema and other diseases of the thyroid gland.

AVOIDING STOOP OF AGE.

E. F. B. writes: Noticing that my friends in the fifties were becoming bowed, settled in the hips and developing prominent abdomens and heavy tread, I devised the following method to prevent:

On retiring I place my pillow under my back, extend my arms freely above my head, stretching all the muscles of my trunk. When I am ready to sleep I shift my pillow to the usual position. When I awaken in the morning I repeat this program.

REPLY.

Your plan should help you to keep from developing a stoop and showing some of the changes in posture which goes with advancing years.

Wives of Tomorrow
FRANCES M'DONALD

Something About Roasts.

HERE'S some help for the girl who wrote this column asking how to warm over a roast so that it would look like food and not a piece of old boot. We asked for help on the subject as we had never personally ministered to the flagging spirits of a cold roast. Today Mrs. C. E. L. volunteers the needed help. It sounds as if it would never work but evidently it does. And probably will help keep down one budget.

Dear Frances McDonald:

If it will help the young person orient herself any I shall be glad to pass on some hard-bought experience as to "warming up" food.

I came of a family who loved cold meat and always ate it with huge satisfaction. Also we were large enough an aggregation to use roasts economically, but when I married—whoops, my dear (until I got him educated to cold meat and cream potatoes and salads, &c.).

If the young woman will either get a very large double boiler or improvise one with whatever saucepans and baking dishes she may chance to have, she can put in her cold roast and cover tightly so that the steam generated by the meat itself or what leaks out from the bottom vessel in an improvised one comes back onto her cold roast and helps make some more juice. She does not want a regular steamer that will cook her meat any more, just hot surroundings. Putting it on with cold water under it so that all heats together and then putting over her simmerer, if she has one, or over a good hot radiator, or even on the opening of a pipeless furnace does the trick best, or so I found even if it does take longer. If she has saved any gravy she can warm it at the same time, or if not she can make a good substitute with soup cubes. I suppose a big double roaster would do the same thing only I never had one.

Most men like either roast beef or beef steak hash. When the next stage comes and a jelly gravy made with currant jelly and enough Worcester sauce to give it an individual flavor makes odds and ends of lamb or mutton food for the gods.

My husband was a city salesman and never knew when he'd get in to a meal so I had to learn to keep things hot and inviting and my son, who takes his food much more casually (thank heaven), says I've a "hot food complex."

If this is too indefinite and she cares to write me I'll give you my address even if I sign only initials (I'm in a big office and everybody talks so if they see your name anywhere off the pay roll).

You would have been amused, I think, at the bride who came nearly weeping to my sister to know what to feed her husband, and "Bob" was always talking about J.'s wonderful meals. She said he was generous and she was spending "an awful lot of money" but he always looked hungry. J. asked what the dinner had been the night before and when she told her, said it was delicious but all woman food. J. asked if her father were alive, or if she had brothers and she said no, so J. led her to a butcher shop and introduced her to a porterhouse steak ("Bob" is very well to do) and Spanish onions and I've forgotten what other matters, and told her what to do with them and the next day the bride fell on her with allelulas and marketed with her for weeks.

Hoping this will help a little bit, I am, interestedly, C. E. C.

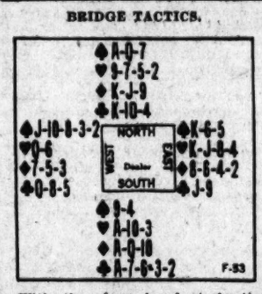
BRIDGE TACTICS.



With the above hand at Auction Bridge South would bid one No Trump and doubtless obtain the contract.

At Contract Bridge either one No Trump or one Club would be sound for an opening bid by South; but one No Trump would more accurately picture the hand. In this case South bid one No Trump and North bid three; if South had bid one Club, North would have bid two No Trumps and South three.

The hand affords rather satisfactory evidence of the advisability of a Jack-lead instead of fourth-best from Jack-Ten-Eight. West led the Jack of Spades, North covered with the Queen and East won the trick with the King. East returned a Spade and dummy held up until the third round and then led the King of Clubs, followed by another Club. South passed the Jack of Clubs played by East, but West won his partner's trick and led two Spades, thereby saving game.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Declarer should have played the Spades as described, but to trick 4 should have led a Diamond from dummy, winning in closed hand; and to trick 5 should have led a Club from closed hand, and played the Ten if West played small—not with the idea of winning the trick, but of losing at once the one Club trick that must be lost by the East hand.

Played in that way, Declarer would make game—one Spade, one Heart, three Diamonds and four Clubs.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.
Poor Conduct.

When Johnny comes home from school regularly with a report card marked "conduct poor," his parents are likely to assume either that he has been willfully naughty and that his difficulties are all his own fault or that his teacher is simply trying to make life hard for him.

They do not realize what is often true, that neither teacher nor child is to blame.

A child generally brings into the classroom all those attitudes toward authority which he has acquired in his relationship to his own parents.

If they have been consistent, firm, reasonable, just and kindly, he will expect much the same treatment from his teachers and will be prepared to respond to their demands in a friendly, cooperative and naturally respectful way.

But if at home he has been bullied or indulged, flattered or made to feel inferior, he will expect the same treatment of his teachers. Even though they approach him with kindliness and tact, he may respond with insolence, sulkiness, petulance or disobedience, according to his nature.

Although there is no doubt that the personality of the individual teacher tends to bring out either the best or the worst in her charges, there is on the other hand no side-stepping the fact that the responsibility for the child's behavior at school rests largely with the parents.

The cure for bad behavior in the class room generally lies neither in punishing the child nor in changing his teacher but in the improvement of parental tactics. Until his parents learn how to handle him at home, he will continue to be a problem at school.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me what is the matter with my rubber plant, all the leaves of which are like the one I am inclosing. This happened overnight. My fern seems healthy, only the fronds are not as large as they were a few months ago. The leaflets of the individual frond always fall off close to the roots of the plant. It is surely an unsightly plant with about one-quarter of each frond only a stem. MRS. S. B. S.

Your rubber plant has been frozen. You had better remove the leaves which have been frozen and for about ten days keep the plant in a cool place. If it does not send out new growth, cut back one-third of the growth. It may be entirely frozen, in which case all you can do is to discard the plant.

Your fern should be transplanted. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to send you a circular on the "Care of Ferns," which we have prepared for readers of this column.

This is my first experience with peonies. When should the tops be removed and do they require a heavy dressing of well-rotted manure? Can the leaves of the trees be gathered and treated so as to make a reliable fertilizer which can be used in May? THOMAS B.

You should cut down your peonies as soon as the leaves stop growing and begin to look unsightly, which is generally late September. In fact, it is better to cut them down than to leave them upon the plants, as many times the tops carry the peony bud rot, which is so fatal in the spring time to the developing buds. There is a proprietary preparation on the market which, if added to leaves or lawn clippings, will produce a clean, odorless manure. We can not publish trade names in this column, but if you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed envelope, I shall be glad to send you the name of this material.

Please tell me what to do with my fern, which is covered with runners, which push up through the center of the plant. The plant is an old one. MRS. A. F. B.

Your plant should be transplanted. Before repotting, better divide the root into three pieces, planting each piece in a separate pot.

Can you tell me whether I was correct in placing my dahlia roots in boxes of garden soil? Do you have to moisten them during the winter? Is there any particular way to put my gladiolus bulbs away? MRS. J. A. N.

If you have a place in your cellar partitioned off to keep vegetables, it will make a splendid place to keep either dahlias or gladiolus roots. In a place of this kind they can simply be in boxes and keep in perfect condition. But in an open cellar with a heater they should be covered with soil, ashes or sawdust, but it is wise to examine them about once a month. If they are commencing to shrivel they should be taken out and moistened a trifle. If they are too wet give them a chance to dry off. Another good way of keeping them is to put them in boxes that are lined with several layers of newspapers and then covered with paper. This is to keep dry air from them and the air in the cellar with a heater becomes very dry. In this case, if they dry too much, it is an easy matter to sprinkle them with water and cover them again. Gladiolus will keep in any place where dahlias keep. As a rule, a place where the temperature does not go below 40 degrees or above 45 degrees will do.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

JANET GAYNOR

She refused to come to work at the Fox studio, where she has been under contract for several years, because she didn't like the kind of roles assigned her. A truce was declared after nearly four months.

Janet said she was through being a sweet little ingenue in picture after picture, and that if she didn't get dramatic roles like those of "Seventh Heaven" and "Sunrise" the strike was on again as far as she was concerned.

"The Man Who Came Back" has been completed, her first picture in nearly six months, and in it Janet plays the type of part she wanted, a highly emotional one that she handles capably. She and Charles Farrell are teamed again, after a long separation.

If the response to the picture is what it should be, Janet undoubtedly will be allowed to continue being emotional. But if it isn't a success at the box office, the final judge, the question then will be: Will Janet be an ingenue again or will she strike?

Will Perform Eclipse.

As might be expected, Will Rogers is putting his own humor into "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," giving it the pithy touches that often characterize his unofficial political expressions.

In the story the Yankee is taken back to King Arthur's time and is about to be burned at the stake. But he is saved by an eclipse of the sun, telling Arthur that only magic words will bring daylight back.

Rogers expresses his sorcery differently than Mark Twain's original hero did. Looking up at the darkened skies, he mutters:

"Coolidge! Hoover! Knute Rockne!" But without success. Then suddenly, as if inspired, he shouts "Al Smith!" and the sun shines fully once more.

Bits About Stars.

Another graduate of the Sennett school of comedy who is capitalizing on her education in the two-reel lot is Carole Lombard. After a year and a half in comedies the striking blonde stepped into dramatic roles that have since been increasing in importance.

Edmund Brees and Robert Edeson, actors who are close friends, resemble each other slightly.—Marlene Dietrich plays the musical saw, of all things.—N. G. Silent is a sound expert.—Jack Mulhall used to be the "bouncer" in a restaurant.—Conrad Nagel has been a leading man ten years.

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF December 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 1:45 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m.

December 30th promises to be full of contradictions. What is regarded as important will prove to be insignificant, and what is considered a trifle will have serious consequences. Travel is indicated, as well as some financial worry, which, however, will adjust itself, if dealt with frankly and promptly.

Children born on this December 30 will be phlegmatic, and, apparently, indifferent. They will never reveal spontaneity, nor display enthusiasm. Quick, at their studies, and possessing retentive memories, their brains will be storehouses of information, of which they will make good use in after years.

If born on December 30, you are gifted with a striking and charming personality. This, if used in the right manner, can become your chief asset. You are, however, prone to depend upon it in order to shirk doing those things which you ought to do. An attractive smile and a pleasing mannerism are poor substitutes for work. The mere fact that others are willing to help you, should not make you dependent on them, and render you indolent. You have it within you to make good. You will never do so, however, so long as you rely solely on your personal magnetism.

You are rather superficial in your knowledge; you never take the trouble to go to the bottom of things. It is too much bother, more especially as you have discovered that superficialism is, in most cases, as advantageous as fundamentalism. You are a ready talker—humorous and witty. In all social gatherings, you are considered a prize package. You have a large number of acquaintances—but very few real friends. True friendships demand giving as well as taking. The signs denote that a fair measure of success in life awaits you. They also portend that a far greater prosperity would be yours if you would work more and play less.

Successful people born December 30:

1. Stephen H. Long, engineer, for whom Long's Peak was named.
2. William R. Alger, Congregational clergyman.
3. Frank Carlos Griffith, theatrical manager.
4. Rudyard Kipling, author.
5. Alfred E. Smith, former Governor of New York.
6. John Francis Anderson, bridge builder.

HINTS FOR BOILING FOODS.

(Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce.)

When water is kept boiling for cooking foods the object is to keep the food hot enough for cooking; that is, at the temperature of boiling water. But the water also prevents the food from getting too hot, because no matter how fast water boils it gets no hotter, and the cooking will proceed no faster. Whenever heat is used up in boiling away more water than necessary it is entirely wasted, not to mention the disastrous effect of allowing all the water to boil entirely away. Therefore after boiling has begun a gas or oil flame can be turned down considerably without delaying the cooking, provided the water keeps boiling. To save heat keep the cover on.

But there are other processes where the boiling away of the water is the main object, as in the boiling down sirups, the making of candies or jellies, &c. Here instead of saving heat by boiling slowly that may be saved by boiling briskly, since by so doing it will take less time, therefore less gas or coal to boil away the required amount of water. Here no cover should be used since a cover would prevent the escape of some of the steam.

A FINE RECORD OF FAIR DEALING

FAIR adjustment and prompt payment of losses are of course prime functions of insurance.

Every day Stock Fire Insurance adjusters meet people who have suffered misfortune. Whether or not the adjuster be greeted cordially, he must use tact and exercise fairness in the handling of each loss. The good reputation of his company is ever at stake under such circumstances.

A Million Fire Loss Reports

On an average, a million fire loss reports are filed annually with Stock Fire Insurance companies—not including an almost equal number of loss claims under other forms of insurance which these companies write—such as hail, windstorm, automobile, earthquake, and the like.

That more than 99 percent of fire loss claims—from the most disastrous conflagration to the smallest blaze—are adjusted without controversy is a splendid tribute to the fairness of property owners and the companies.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

adjusters and officials appreciate the value of good will in the adjusting of losses as much as they do in the acquisition of business.

They are sincerely desirous of settling claims in keeping with the rights of all concerned.

FORWARD again in 1931

FORWARD.... our pledge in 1930.... and again in 1931!

The Board of Directors and Officers of this Company again give evidence of their faith in the prosperity, business stability and future growth of the Nation's Capital.

During 1931 a total of $4,591,392.00 will be expended for proper and necessary developments to make "Matchless Service" of greater benefit than ever before to our many friends and customers. Of this liberal development budget, it is noteworthy that over 25% or $1,240,000.00 will be used for the extension of service to the great suburban area. This extension of service is in itself indicative of the confidence of the Board of Directors and Officers in the fundamental strength of the business structure of the District of Columbia and its environs.

In addition to the Company's development budget, wages to be paid employees during 1931 will once again place in circulation more than $2,500,000.00.

Again we say, "FORWARD"

COACHES VETO SWEEPING REFORM IN FOOTBALL

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The vicarious school of literature, composed of authors who can not write and have nothing to say that is worth writing anyway, has been declining rapidly this year. There was an abrupt curtailment of sales during the last world series and the business was further discredited just after the close of the football season, when Yale University decided that thereafter nobody officially connected with athletics at Yale would be allowed to compose or pretend to compose articles for sale to the newspapers.

This will spare Yale some embarrassment in the future, as the members of the football division of the vicarious school of literature, apparently worried about their royalty reports from the literary junk dealers who handle their material, were going in for scandalous matter this year to enliven their essays. Thus, feuds, discreditable to large schools, were fomented in some instances because when a man is prominently identified with a famous institution, though he is only an employe like the janitor, his remarks which purport to be his, naturally impress the readers at the other school as being either official or semiofficial. It would be well for all the schools to let it be understood that such literature is irresponsible.

THUS, FEUDS ARE NOT RISKED

The technique of the football division of this branch of journalism has been slightly modified this year. Some of the authors have been writing their own articles by hand and, in one instance, an anxious dealer, hoping to impress a detachment of journeymen journalists covering a football game, broke into a room excitedly waving a page of scrawl, crying, "See! Here is the wizard mentor's own story of the game, in his own handwriting. I just wanted to prove that he is writing his own material, and if you don't believe me you can peek into his room and watch him write before your very eyes."

But there has been slight disadvantage in this. When the various wizard mentors employ ghosts to compose their articles the professional touch bertays the phoney character of the literature, but when the wizard mentors write their own the unprofessional touch again discredits it and the customer remarks that if his own little boy could not write better with his spelling blocks he would take him down to a specialist to have his head examiner for dents and nicks.

I am not certain but that a technical case could not be made out against Yale on a charge of interference with the freedom of the press, but the charge is not likely to be pressed.

ADMIRATION OF COACHES MUTUAL

For the most part, the vicarious journalists of the football division, having no thoughts and not knowing how to express any thoughts which they might have had, imposed upon thier customers not only a a back slap of their ostensible rivals, but actual colleagues. Their articles read like the minutes of a mutual admiration society, save when their were promoting their grudges. The general effect of their venture into a line for which they had no qualifications was that the game of football was victimized again.

I never have had any apprehension that journalism must eventually become a profession for ghost writers only. In the seasons when every player, both bat-caddies and the bachelor utility outfielder's landlady were appearing in the papers at World Series as the authors of articles described as living human documents, it seemed certain to me that in time the deception would go too far, although I did not see how much further it could go. There are various kinds of newspapers, but the most playful of them, with their intimate, autographed life-stories of prominent female love mass murder defendants must have newspaper men to write the pieces and get out the paper.

But, frankly, it was a little depressing to have put one's heart's blood into a story of a fire over on the West Side — something for posterity and the annual collections of the best news stories of the year—and to find it cut to the length of a cigarette in the same edition that carried a large head over Babe Ruth's story, written in Perth Amboy, about a world series game played in Cleveland. One was not angry, mind you, but terribly, terribly hurt.

NOT ANGRY BUT QUITE HURT

This year's vicarious world series literature was small in volume and sales and there were fewer spooks in the press box than at any other world series in five years. Even some of the

Seven Million Dollar Bet Decrease

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 29.—Parimutuel wagering on horse racing in Maryland fell off nearly $7,000,000 in 1930 over the year of 1929, according to the annual report submitted by the Maryland Racing Commission to Gov. Ritchie. In 1929, the total pool wagered at Pimlico, Bowie, Havre de Grace, and Laurel was $54,419,867, as against $47,754,676 this year, a difference of $6,665,191.

While more than $47,000,000 was wagered, yet the actual amount of money that was in circulation over the 92 days of racing would be one-seventh of that amount; that is, because the same money is utilized during the seven races run every day.

The State also will receive less money this year than in 1929 because the profits were less. The State is entitled to a $6,000 daily license fee and to 15 per cent of the profits of each racing association. In 1929, the State received $727,849.89 from both sources, while this year it will get $663,228.71, a difference of $64,421.18, due chiefly to the falling off in profits. The 15 per cent last year totaled $192,096.98, and in 1930 it fell to $136,213.73, a defference of $63,883.25.

According to statistics, more money always has been wagered at Pimlico than at any of the other tracks. Bowie runs second, Havre de Grace third and Laurel fourth. The biggest shrinkage this year was at Pimlico, the amount of money wagered being $2,793,950 less than a year ago. Bowie was next, with nearly $2,000,000, and Laurel third, with $1,666,000 less.

Over a span of five years, Havre de Grace has run nearest to what is termed form on race track. Its total revenue fell off only $353,231—from $12,508,191 in 1929 to $12,155,960 in 1930.

Philadelphia Crowds Boost Betting at Graw.

Havre de Grace's spring and fall meets come at ideal periods, the last two weeks of April and from the latter part of September to the early part of October. The track conflicts with others running elsewhere but it draws particularly large crowds from Philadelphia. This, undoubtedly, is one o the reasons or its continued prosperity.

Pimlico suffered the severest in profits, according to the report. In 1929, it paid to the State $57,870.08, breaking all records for the tracks, while this year it dropped to $29,572.58, a difference of $28,297.50. The State's share from Laurel's profits fell off $16,000 and from Bowie's nearly $13,000.

Havre de Grace once more ran right to form. In 1929, the track paid the State $44,819.35 and this year the sum was $44,714.43, a difference of only $104.92.

Under the heading of general admissions, Havre de Grace ran in front of its 1929 figures in the amount of money taken in. The total was $10,221. Pimlico fell of more than $53,000, Laurel $24,000 and Bowie nearly $20,000.

Havana Track Muddy, But Choices Hold Own

Havana, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Despite a sudden tropical storm, which turned the track into a sea of mud, the favorites came through at Oriental Park today. Because of the heavy condition of the course, the six races, which had attracted large fields, were riddled by withdrawals.

The New York contingent started off the day with a victory when the Bee Bee Stable's Mirage, a Widener cast-off, won the opener, a six furlong sprint. Jockey Fisher brought the winner, the 6 to 5 favorite, from the rear to show the way to Beau Ideal and Our Sweetheart.

Rare Charm, from the Paradise Stock Farm, held at the short odds of 8 to 5, romped off with the second event, while A. G. Larn, who cut a wide swath here last winter, scored in the third with Marshal Seth, well played at 5 to 2. Col. Seth, the favorite, ran second.

School Heads May Abolish Grid Camps

High Advisory Body Urges Principals to O. K. Ban.

Overemphasis and Desire to Put All on Equality Reasons.

THAT the high school football training camps are doomed was asserted last night by John Paul Collins, Eastern's representative on the high school advisory committee. The recommendation of the committee, adopted 4 to 1, has been submitted to the Board of High School Principals, which will decide upon the issue at its next regular meeting, scheduled for the morning of January 17.

Overemphasis was brought forward as one of the reasons for the move, but the motivating spirit behind the recommendation of the advisers is one of fairness. Tech and Central, which admittedly need preseason training least of the five schools, have requisitioned the two logical training sites within a reasonable distance of Washington. Tech spends a fortnight at Maryland University each year, during which its players take further steps away from the caliber of the other high schools. So, theoretically, does Central—which trains at St. John's College, Annapolis.

Keener competition in the high school series was promised if the proposal is adopted. It was stated that the move would be a real blessing to Business, Western and Eastern, who, for any of several reasons, find it impossible to mock the practices of the two larger schools.

If the measure becomes a feature of the high school constitution, there is little doubt that a compromise on the question of early season training will be reached. One week in advance to the opening of school was considered a logical standard by Mr. Collins.

Another amendment on the high school athletic books is impending, Mr. Collins also stated, in referring to the probable removal of the ban on the participation in sports of former junior high school students until they have served a six-week apprenticeship in their chosen high school

Coincident with the appointment of Jack Ray, former Eastern and Maryland athlete, as assistant baseball coach of Eastern High, is the announcement that Mrs. Ruth Martinez, a member of Eastern's faculty and ranking No. 2 tennis player of the District, would assume charge of the racqueters of the Lincoln Park institution.

Mrs. Martinez has come to the fore in local tennis in rapid fashion in the last three years, exhibiting a more than ordinar" effective back court driving game, with strokes produced in the most orthodox of modes.

Eastern's hopes should perk up in tennis. Gilbert Hunt, one of the two best boy players in town, is enrolled in the school.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Dec. 29.—Robert McDonald, manager of the R. F. & P. basket ball team, announced today he had practically completed terms for a three-day trip for his tossers. The Railroaders will perform in Cumberland, Hagerstown and Martinsburg. Eight men under the leadership of Coach Freddy Messmer, will be carried on the trip.

On New Year's night the Railroaders will clash with the Mercury A. C. in the feature attraction hree. In the preliminary game the Alpha Delta Omega Club will mix with the Washington De Molays. A dance will follow the games.

The St. Mary's Celtics' football campaign for their club has closed. The game pending with the Richmond Arrows on New Year's Day has been called off.

The Virginia Juniors will be tendered a football banquet on January 3, at the residence of President R. P. Whitestone, on Duke street. An excellent program is being arranged for this occasion.

Episcopal High School basketers will officially open their season on January 10, when they mix with the Technical High School tossers, of Washington, here. Active training for this game will begin immediately after the holiday period.

ALDRIDGE WINS CLAIM.

Vic Aldridge, former Pittsburgh and New York Giants' pitcher, won his claim over the Newark Bears of the International League from Commissioner Landis. Vic convinced the commissioner the Newark club was not justified in suspending him when his arm was injured a year ago and the Bears were ordered to pay his back salary from August 19, 1929, to the end of the season.

THE giant frog of Africa is exceedingly rare and the legs, which are as big as mutton chops, are prized as a food. In French West Africa natives preserve the thigh bones for religious ceremonies. In contrast with the world's largest frog is the smallest, which is found in Cuba, Santo Domingo, and throughout the tropics. As a rule frogs are formed from tadpoles, but, Strange as It Seems, the tiny tropical frog emerges from the egg a fully formed frog about half the size of a house fly.

Next to Gen. Calles, Gen. Joaquin Amaro is the most powerful military personality in Mexico. Twenty years ago this full-blooded Tarascan Indian was a mere unknown and shoeless boy, but today he heads an army of 50,000 men. Amaro was appointed secretary of war under Calles and has held that position since 1924.

It took centuries to convince the English that the "spud" is an excellent food. Sir Walter Raleigh introduced the "Irish" potato to England from America, but it was despised and a society was organized to discredit it. It was this society that gave the potato its more common name, "spud."

CHARITYGRID FOES VISIT MOVIES

By BRIAN BELL.

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Football players from the University of Alabama and Washington State College saw the inside of another great amusement enterprise today when they visited Hollywood to witness motion pictures in the making.

The big boys from away down South in the land of cotton and the lumber-laden slopes of the Northwest found embryonic movies different from the hundreds of football plays in diagram form on blackboards, but they seemed to enjoy the novel skull practice and it gave them an opportunity to forget their game for a time.

Players, on Edge, Benefit From Outing.

The two coaches, Wallace Wade, of the 'Bama contingent, and Babe Hollingbery, of the Cougars, were well satisfied with the result of the outing, from a football standpoint. The mentors thought their pupils needed a rest, as both squads were reported on edge for the big New Year's game featuring the annual Tournament of Roses.

No charge of fraternizing could be made against the two undefeated teams, for they were entertained on different "lots."

Alabama saw Will Rogers at work and heard the philosophical humorist wise-crack according to script and ad lib. When the luncheon call was sounded, Rogers presided as master of ceremonies in honor of the Tuscaloosa tourists.

The Cougars witnessed the shooting of scenes in a picture in which Dorothy MacKaill and Mary Astor appeared and then were entertained at luncheon on the set.

The big parade of famous football players through the working section of Hollywood created considerable excitement and general amazement at the size of the warriors. This was not surprising, as the two teams will offer as much poundage on the hoof as any two first-ranking elevens in the country.

Alabama Team Choice to Win.

With the charity game between Notre Dame and a West-South aggregation out of the way Saturday and a clear football field left to the Tournament of Roses battle, interest increased noticeably today, and it was announced the ticket sale had passed the 60,000 mark. Estimates of a crowd of approximately 75,000 were made. Sparse wagering reported continued to favor Alabama.

7 NEW COURT COACHES IN SOUTH

Va., W. & L. Among Conference Schools Making Change.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Seven conference basket ball teams will have new coaches this season and hopes are high for better results.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute is trying out its third hard-court mentor in as many years. Charles "Dusty" Rhoades, former Polytechnic star, is to have charge of the cagers. He succeeds Bob Warren, who returned to his alma mater, North Carolina State, to handle the freshman aspirants.

Ed Walker, who took over the football duties at the University of Mississippi last fall, also is to have charge of the university basketers. Several veterans returned and Walker started cage practice shortly after the close of the gridiron season.

Tebell Needs Center at Virginia.

Gus Tebell, who brought North Carolina State a Southern title in 1929 and finished well up in the standings last year, has moved over to Virginia. The Cavaliers won but two games last year, but Tebell hopes to improve the mark this year. His greatest need is a center.

Kentucky, which made its best basket ball showing in years in 1930, is to learn a new system under Adolph Rupp, former Kansas star. Rupp follows John Mauer, who resigned after the 1930 campaign.

Dr. Ray Sermon, the handy man at North Carolina State, is to coach the Wolfpack. Dr. Sermon, athletic

Lewis Points Out Grid Evils, Suggests Remedies.

Lack of Moderation Is Main Fault, Says Lafayette Head.

By FOSTER HAILEY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—The ideal of sportsmanship as opposed to that of "championship" must be restored to intercollegiate football if it is to attain its proper place in collegiate life, President William Mather Lewis, of Lafayette College, today told the annual luncheon of the sportsmanship brotherhood.

Speaking as a friend of football, Dr. Lewis both pointed out the evils and suggested some remedies. The evils he saw were lack of moderation—a common American failing—an overemphasis of championship teams, on record crowds and record gate receipts, on intersectional games and too heavy schedules.

Formation of More Sectional Groups Urged.

He suggested formation of more such sectional groups — traditional rivals—as the Big Three and the Little Three, the Big Ten and the Big Six. And he also suggested conferences among the undergraduates, among the alumni and among faculties, who, he said, are not the enemies of football or the know-nothings many commentators would have the general public believe. From such discussions he said should come a saner view of the whole problem.

"The lack of moderation in the field of athletics, particularly football, has led us away from the ideals of sportsmanship," Dr. Lewis continued. "We think in terms of championships, and record crowds of spectators and millions of income. As a result, what should be recreation for school and college students, and of some educational value in giving them skill which they can turn to good account in their future leisure time program, becomes serious business. The student does not play at his games; he is required to work at them."

No Reference Made to "League of Nations" Plan.

The coaches, graduate managers and others interested in sports warmly applaud Dr. Lewis' remarks. Dr. Charles Kennedy, director of athletics at Princeton and president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, and others echoed them.

No direct mention was made of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's recent suggestions for an athletic "league of nations," and an intended discussion on points raised by him and by Dr. Lewis had to be dropped because of lack of time.

Would Strip Official of Power to Award Point on Foul.

Reject Bezdek Plan to Place Athletics Under One Head.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—The master minds of the gridiron meeting in convention as the American Football Coaches Association, found time today to favor two changes in the playing rules along with retention of the point after touchdown in between rounds of a strenuous battle over the bugaboo of overemphasis.

After the coaches in heated debate shelved in the morning session the sweeping recommendations of Hugo Bezdek designed to curb overemphasis, a series of softened resolutions proposed by W. W. Roper, former Princeton head coach, were adopted almost unanimously on second thought in the afternoon meeting.

The sweeping reforms suggested by Bezdek, Penn State athletic director, centralization of all college athletics under a department of physical education, adoption of athletic budgets, abolishment of spring practice and fall workouts until September 15, establishment of football coaches as bona fide members of college faculties were finally reduced to three points, dealing chiefly with fall and spring practice and postseason games.

Reaffirm Faith in Game.

"We, the members of the American Football Coaches Association, reaffirm our faith and belief in the virile qualities of the game of football and its influence on the youth of the Nation in building character, courage, team play and clean living. In view of the earnest discussion among all interested in the future welfare of the game, and in a sincere desire to rid it of some of its objectionable features, Be it

"Resolved (1) That fall football practice start approximately September 15 and that there be no organized practice prior to that date;

(2) That postseason games be kept to a minimum and that the best interests of football are against charity games, except in exceptional cases;

(3) That spring practice be not compulsory upon the players and be organized in moderation so as not to conflict with other sports. The practice during the fall season shall not exceed two hours a day, including night and afternoon sessions."

Award of Point on Foul Disapproved.

The resolution, coming out of the fire of bitter debate, has the effect only of putting the coaches on record as favoring these changes in the pigskin system. Nevertheless their vote indicates a willingness to support policies already in effect in most of the big conference groups.

In between the overemphasis debates which struck deep into tender spots in many sections of the meeting hall, the coaches adopted by unanimous vote recommendation of the rules committee headed by Lou Little, of Columbia. These recommendations would have the National Collegiate A. A. committee retain the try for the extra point after touchdown, but would strip from officials the right to award or take away the point because of a foul on the extra play.

The second change in the rules would give the privilege of advancing the ball after recovery, to a team that has one of its kicks blocked. Under the present code the defending team alone can advance the ball after recovering a blocked kick.

Point After Touchdown Favored, 182 to 89.

Seven recommendations, all embodying the answers to questions sent out in a questionnaire to every member of the association, were accepted with little or no debate. The coaches voted, 182 to 89, in favor of retaining the point after touchdown and, 208 to 71, in favor of taking away from officials the right to award the extra point.

The coaches suggested that the usual penalties for fouls governing the play for extra point be substituted, the ball being advanced to the 1-yard line and the play being made over again if the defense is offside, while the offense would try again from the 7-yard line if offside on the first attempt.

Rules governing the screen pass were acceptable to 184 of the coaches while 88 favored changes, and the shift was favored in its present form by 213 votes to 49. The coaches also favored asking the rules committee to meet not later than February, with an interpretation of rules meetings in March instead of September, so that coaches and officials alike would have an opportunity to study changes some time before they went into effect.

Hours Devoted to Practice to Be Basis of Report.

Paul Schissler, coach at Oregon State, opened the afternoon barrage on overemphasis with figures that showed his eleven devoted 118 hours to football last season as compared to the 120 hours set by a mathematics professor at Oregon State as the minimum of study required in one of his 12-week courses. The association adopted a resolution asking 100 colleges and universities to time their

Miami Sharkey Bout Agreeable to Stribling

Ocholocknee, Ga., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—The Striblings are ready for Sharkey—in Miami. Pa admitted today he had advised William Carey, of Madison Square Garden, that W. L. was willing to face the Boston sailorman under the spreading palms.

Pa also said W. L. was ready and willing to meet Sharkey or Schmeling in Chicago. He favored February or March as the time for the proposed bout.

D. C. College Teams Meet Navy in 14 Winter Events

ATHLETIC teams of Washington and immediate vicinity will furnish more opposition for Navy this winter than teams of any other section. Fourteen contests in basket ball and rifle shooting have been scheduled by the Tars with Capital teams.

The invasion of Annapolis by local athletes will be led by George Washington's basket ball team, which is slated to engage the embryonic admirals on January 7.

Thereafter the major foes for Navy's quintent from this area will be Georgetown on February 4, American University on February 18 and Maryland on February 21. Last year the only Capital team able to take Navy's measure in basket ball was Maryland, which rallied late in the game to win by a score of 43 to 39.

Emerson Institute will lead an assault on Navy's Plebes on January 10, following which Business, Western and Maryland Freshmen will tangle with them in the order named. The Maryland varsity and freshmen teams will perform in Dalhgren Hall on the same date.

The rifle shooting campaign will be opened on January 24, when Georgetown's marksmen visit the Naval Academy range. The varsity and freshmen shooters of Maryland will follow on February 28, George Washington varsity and Western High on March 7 and Central High on March 14.

Showmanship of Shires Opens Jail Doors—Inward

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—The motion picture career of Charles Arthur "The Great" Shires bumped to a sudden halt today—to allow its principal time to get out of jail.

And in getting into jail during the wee hours of the morning on charges of drunkenness and carrying concealed weapons, "Whataman" proved he was a showman, as ever.

Desk Sergeant Gordown Towne, in charge of the Hollywood station, said Shires weaved in and began to regale him with a monologue.

Towne remarked, "G'wan home."

Shires announced he would stay, Towne said, and in a high crescendo of shouts, declared, "I've got rights as a citizen, haven't I? Try and put me out if I want to stay in this hoosegow."

Towne didn't. He took the ball player to sunrise court, where he pleaded not guilty to charges of drunkenness and was ordered to trial next Wednesday.

Shires was declared to have possessed a pair of brass knuckles, a felony in California, the penalty for which may be one to five years in prison. But the district attorney refused to press the concealed weapon charge, saying Shires was not a known criminal.

Shires later said he went to the station to report he had been held up and robbed of $50. Towne said if he came to the station to report a robbery, he apparently forgot it.

Shires, former major league ball player and boxer, came to Hollywood to enter pictures. His first picture was in a boxing serial. His last one to date was behind the bars with newspaper photographers doing the shooting.

WILSON'S EXTRA-BASE HIT AVERAGE OF .723 LEADS

17 Batted in More Than 100 Runs

Cub Star Also Tops Rivals in Passes, Strikeouts.

Giants Best Road Club; Cards Top in Home Stays.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—As nearly every baseball fan knew long ago, Hack Wilson, of the Chicago Cubs, was the leading slugger of the National League last season. The release today of the official percentages and other miscellaneous records of the National League prove that fact.

Wilson, going to bat 585 official times during the season, hit for 423 bases and his average percentage of hitting for extra bases was .723. His nearest rivals were Chuck Klein, of Philadelphia, and Babe Herman, of Brooklyn, who had slugging marks of .687 and .678, respectively. Wilson also batted in 190 runs to eclipse the former league record of 159 he set the year before. He drew 105 bases on balls and struck out 84 times to top the league in both respects.

17 Bat in More Than 100 Runs.

Another league record fell when seventeen players had 100 or more runs batted in. The old mark was sixteen men. Wilson accomplished the feat for the fifth successive year, while Jim Bottomley, of St. Louis, after doing it for six years straight, fell 3 short of the 100 mark.

In the club marks, Chicago made the best slugging percentage, .481, and had the most bases on balls, 588, and the most strikeouts, 635. St. Louis batted in 942 runs to establish another new league record. The former mark of 933 was made by the Cubs the year before.

The New York Giants proved themselves the best road club in the league by winning 41 games and losing 36 away from home, but three teams made better records when performing on their home fields. The St. Louis Cardinals led in this respect by winning 53 contests and losing only 24 at Sportsman's Park.

Brooklyn participated in the greatest number of shutout games during the year, 22, and won 13 of them to top that list as well. Cincinnati was held scoreless ten times.

Sixteen players are listed as playing with two National League clubs during the 1930 season.

athletes actually concerned in the games had failed to establish literary contacts, the first time since 1924, and by the time the series began a dealer could have had first-string pitchers for literary purposes for $25 a day.

I have not been as attentive to my reading as I might have been, but I do not think I have overlooked any of Jack Sharkey's thoughtful prose these last four or five months. Sharkey lost the fight to Schmeling, and when a heavyweight loses a big fight he also suffers automatic loss of journalistic standing.

Boots and Saddle's (Reg. U. S. Patent Office) —Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Kenner Purse, an allowance race for 2-year-olds, at 6 furlongs, has the place of honor on the Jefferson Park program today. Ten juveniles have been named for the purse, the best of which appears to be Admiral Cary T. Grayson's BRIGHT COMET, which has run with better horses, but which was beaten last out by an outsider, Flying Nancy, although an odds-on favorite against the winner, which paid $45.

In the previous race, BRIGHT COMET was second to Chene, which was a faster race than is necessary to win the Kenner Purse today. BURGOO, a winner in Maryland, should hold the others safe, and may be hard to catch with his early speed. ANNE ARUNDEL, a recent winner, should get the show money. She started once in Maryland, and won her first out after being sent with the S. W. Labrot winter horses to New Orleans. She beat ALL GIRLS, the favorite, in her winning race by three lengths. POLYLITH'S last race was bad, but he may improve over that.

FIRST RACE—The first race is for 2-year-olds. WIGROSE, having the benefit of apprentice allowance and of E. James as rider, should win again. In her last race she beat My Sweets and Delco Del and was favorite. She was tiring badly at the end, but should go on for the 6 furlongs in this race, the strongest rival being PRINCIPIO, which, although he failed in his last start, has some good races to recommend him. PETABIT won on a heavy track at this course, but third is the best placing for a fast track, on past performances.

SECOND RACE—FOREIGN RELATIONS has the edge in the second race, with CASH PLAY the chief contender. In his last race FOREIGN RELATIONS beat a large field, showing unusual speed on a heavy track and having a margin of two lengths over One Cent at the finish. Poly was one of the horses he distanced. CASH PLAY was third to Take Off last time out, leading most of the way, but tiring near the end. MY BEAUTY, winner of her last two races, should be a contender again and might be closer than third. Saturday she beat Knockabout and Betty Bux. In her previous winning race she beat Shasta Lad.

THIRD RACE—ELIZABETH SULLIVAN is well placed in the third race. She was won twice at this meeting and this seems to be the easiest field she has been asked to meet. She beat Bourbon Maid a length last week and that points to an easy victory in this. GUIDE RIGHT is the contender. He galloped home in front of Joan K Friday on a heavy track in 1:15. THEO ROCHESTER has been running below form and may improve suddenly. He should be in the money. His second to High Score recently was a good race and it gives him a chance here.

FIFTH RACE—RUANE will have ORMON BIRD to beat in the fifth race. Both ran in Maryland this fall. ORMON BIRD won two races, but RUANE failed. He, however, ran in stronger fields, and at the Jefferson Park track has shown that he is rounding into best form. He was third to Rocket Glare in the feature there Saturday, and should earn brackets in this gallop of a mile and a sixteenth. Only six horses are to start. ESSIE should get third money.

SIXTH RACE—The sixth race appears to be a good spot for WESTERN PRINCESS. She was well up in a better field last Friday. SANDY LADY is best of the others. She was beaten a length by Madcap Marvin her last start. That was early in December. GOV. SETH has a money chance. He was fourth to Hula in his last race.

SEVENTH RACE—VOLE looks best of the large field in the seventh race. He ran second to Water Fowl at this track in his last start, and has won at the meeting. There is nothing in this field that could beat Water Fowl. YARGEE should have the place. He beat Luck Piece and other platers at the same distance last week. HERB ASHBY will have backing and he also won his last start, beating Sorrento and others.

CHOICE WINS JEFFERSON FEATURE

Eil Weir Comes From Rear to Win; Two Longshots Cop.

JEFFERSON PARK RACE TRACK, New Orleans, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—With Kenneth Russell giving a great exhibition of horsemanship, F. F. Brant's Eil Weir, the heavily played favorite, won the 6-furlong sprint that featured today's racing at Jefferson Park.

Russell, a great judge of pace, allowed the peacemakers to wear each other down in the first three furlongs, and then in the stretch let Eil Weir run. The Brant three-year-old responded with a burst of speed that carried him past the judges' stand a half-length in front of P. O'Keefe's Celtic Prince, with Mrs. F. Farrar's Bob Rogers third. Eil Weir stepped the 6 furlongs in 1:13 and paid $7 for a $2 win ticket.

Today's racing opened the final three days at Jefferson Park, the thoroughbreds moving to the fair grounds for a 41-day meeting starting New Year's Day.

Long-shots had their inning in the second and third events. Mary Eloise, paying $21.40 for a $2 ticket was an easy winner of the second a 6-furlong sprint. Miss Peggy was second and Lady Partridge third. Sun View led to the stretch, where the field closed on him and Mary Eloise, coming from far back, won going away by two lengths. Miss Peggy beat Lady Partridge one and a half lengths for the place.

Fair Orb, with G Rose up, won the third race, in which 12 platers ran over the mile and a sixteenth route. Smiling Princess was second and Sterling Silver third.

John P. (Chick) Meehan, of New York University, was elected president of the association, succeeding W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech. William H. Cowell, of New Hampshire, was reelected secretary-treasurer. Dr. Marvin Stevens, of Yale, was chosen first vice president and McGugin second vice president. Trustees chosen were: Knute Rockne, of Notre Dame; Dana X. Bible, of Nebraska; Edward L. Casey, of Harvard, and Bernie Bierman, of Tulane.

The honorary memberships in the association were voted to Maj. Charles Daly, former Army and Harvard player and coach; Amos Alonzo Stagg, of Chicago, and Fielding H. Yost, of Michigan.

director, took charge of the football team in midseason, after John Van Liew resigned, and is also to fill in as basket ball coach, since the school has not found a mentor to take Tebell's place.

McAllister Holds Out Hope for Auburn.

Auburn, always a threat in basket ball, is to have Sam McAllister, formerly of St. Viator's College, Bourbonnais, Ill., as mentor. McAllister coached for four years at St. Viator and his cage teams were either champions or runners-up for the Illinois intercollegiate title each year. He has six of last year's seven letter men back to form the nucleus of his team.

Washington and Lee, which won the Virginia championship last year, starts the new campaign under Ray Ellerman, former Wisconsin court champion and assistant to Dr. W. E. Meanwell at that institution.

Two important cogs are missing from the championship quintet, but Ellerman has Leigh Williams, lanky center, and two forwards, Cox and Barasch, back on the squad.

ONE OF THE PENALTIES OF MODERN CIVILIZATION — A FLEA UNDER THE

INDUSTRIALS FINISH FIRM AS RAILS SINK

U. S. STEEL UP SLIGHTLY

New York, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Without much support from investment buying, the floundering stock market charted a bumpy path today, closing irregularly lower.

Most of the larger losses were in the rails and a few utilities and specialties, for pivotal industrials finished steady.

Weakness of wheat in the world markets was a disturbing element. The July option at Chicago sagged to 81½ cents, the lowest since 1896, when the price was 54½. Liverpool, reopening after the Christmas holiday, saw sharp declines and students of that venerable market reported that the December delivery had gone to the lowest quotation, with the sole exception of 1894, since 1654. Chicago corn also was heavy.

Loan Rates at 4 Per Cent.

A year-end spurt in day loan interest rates to 4 per cent, the highest in eight months, reflected the calling of about $100,000,000 in loans by banks. These were chiefly out-of-town institutions, which wanted their money to meet the billion dollars, more or less, in dividend checks and bond coupons payable in a few days, and also to augment the cash balance item in their annual condition statements. Considering the recent course of rates, it was tight money; but at this time in 1929 call loans went to 6 per cent and in 1928 to 12. In both those years, however, the demand was much larger.

The stock market paid little attention to the injunction in the Bethlehem-Youngstown merger. Shares of the former company eased to a new low, but the decline was fractional, while Youngstown Sheet & Tube, lightly traded, held firm. The coppers edged up when a quarter of a cent was added to the domestic price of the metal, bringing it to 10½. Virtually complete returns from the class 1 railroads on November net operating incomes showed that the percentages of loss as compared with November, 1929, and October, 1930, were much the same as had been indicated in the statements of the first lines to report, although a few roads made an improvement.

Late Covering Aids List.

In general, the stock market had two fair rallies. The first followed a heavy opening and lasted until early afternoon. Prices then gave way again, with U. S. Steel dipping a point. There was a recovery from these lows, but the market softened in the final hour, when the rails weakened. Covering in the last 15 minutes helped most of the list, with the exception of the carrier stocks.

Some of the day's heaviness was ascribed to tax selling, but the more fundamental reason was obviously the lack of demand. Weekly advisory services urged caution and careful selection of commitments, pointing out that although a measure of business recovery seemed assured next spring, the process of building up trade would be slow and possibly irregular.

With the exception of the new July contract, which lost 1¾ net, wheat closed steady. Losses in corn amounted to nearly 2 cents a bushel, reflecting easier cash markets and an increase in the visible stock. Cotton opened lower in sympathy with Liverpool, but the movement thereafter was generally upward and final prices represented advances of 45 cents to $1 a bale.

Atlantic Cost Line Loses.

Declines of 1 to 3 points prevailed in such rails as Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Delaware & Hudson, Lackawanna, Nickel Plate, Frisco, Union Pacific, Pennsylvania and Southern Railway. New York Central cut a drop of 2⅝ to ¾. Louisville & Nashville, after touching a new low, was up 2 points net. Frisco lost 4.

There were small fractional advances in U. S. Steel, Anaconda, American Smelting, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, General Electric and Kennecott, and losses of equal size in American Can, American Telephone, Radio, Montgomery Ward and Bethlehem Steel. Consolidated Gas and Columbia Gas were off a point. Eastman Kodak lost nearly 8 and International Silver, an inactive, dropped 11. Sales totaled 2,788,820 shares.

CONVERTIBLE GROUP HEADS BOND LOSSES

Tax Selling and 4 Per Cent Call Money Blamed for Depressing Day.

U. S. GOVERNMENTS SAG

New York, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Tax selling and 4 per cent call money had a depressing effect upon the bond market today, and a majority of the changes were on the downside.

Railroad obligations were very irregular and narrow fluctuations either way gave a fairly steady tone to prime domestic issues, but the rest of the list was heavy.

Year-end disbursements amounting to more than a billion dollars, a portion of which should flow into the bond market, and bank withdrawals for window-dressing purposes brought an advance in the call money rate from 2½ to 4 per cent. While regarded as indicating a temporary stringency, United States Governments, which more than any other section reflect conditions in the money market, softened. Liberty 1st 4¼s and Treasury 4¼s reacted ⅛ of a point.

New York Transit Bonds Active.

Special activity developed in New York transit companies' obligations on announcement that a tentative plan for unification had been agreed upon for submission to the city. Turnover was unusually large and helped to swell the day's volume of business, which was one of the best of the month.

Brooklyn Manhattan 6s advanced nearly 2 points and closed ¾ net higher, and Interboough Rapid Transit obligations advanced about 3 points before selling off slightly. The 6s closed a point higher, and the 5s advanced 1½ points.

Stock privilege issues dipped sharply. A feature was the heavy activity in Alleghany Corporation issues. The 5s of 1944 reacted 2½ points, and the 5s of 1949 and 1950 yielded one each.

Rail Convertibles Decline.

Most of the railroad convertibles followed the downward trend of carrier shares, and speculative industrials were reactionary, some dipping to new lows for the year. Oil and sugar company issues were under pressure.

Foreign loans were irregularly lower. Australia 5s reached a new year's low in a large turnover, and Latin-American obligations were weak. Bolivian, Brazilian and Peruvian Governments and some of the municipals gave ground readily. Losses ranged from 1 to 3 points.

In the European list, French 7½s sagged ¼, and German 5½s lost more than a point and closed ⅝ lower.

Curb Review

New York, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—The curb market churned about uncertainly in the most active session in nearly a fortnight today.

The more active issues in the utilities and oils were generally steady to firm, but a long list of industrials and specialties broke sharply in light offerings, reflecting little save an absence of bids for issues which have not been popular trading mediums of late.

Short covering evidently imparted much of the strength to the more active issues. A total of more than 500 issues was traded, and the turnover embraced 879,600 shares.

Electric Bond and Share, United Light and Power A, Utilities Power and Light and American Gas and Electric were among utilities to close about ½ of 1 point higher. Nevada-California Electric, a comparatively inactive issue, shot up 25 points in a few sales. Duke Power and Tampa Electric dropped about 4 to new lows.

In the oils Imperial gained a point, and Gulf, Humble and International Petroleum, each advanced fractionally. Cities Service and Indiana closed about steady, off ¼. Vacuum lost 2 points. In the coppers, Newmont sagged nearly a point, but Noranda closed up slightly.

Some of the investment company issues penetrated new lows. American Founders sold off nearly a point to duplicate its previous low, in anticipation of the announcement of discontinuance of stock dividends. Goldman Sachs eased a fraction to a new minimum. Securities Corporation General declined 2, and Continental shares preferred made an extreme loss of 5, both going to new lows.

Among the lightly traded industrials, L'Aair Liquide lost 15 points, Parker Pen, 9½; Fajjardo Sugar, 8, and Aluminum Co., 5, all breaking to new bottom levels. Dohler Die, Miles Bement Pond, Acme Steel and Safety Car Heating sagged a point or two to new lows.

There were a few firm spots. Columbia Pictures, Heyden Chemical, Triplex Safety Glass and Tung Sol Lamp gained a point or two. Ford, Ltd., rose a fraction.

An interesting transaction in the curb bonds was the purchase of a block of the old Imperial Russian 6½ per cent certificates of deposit at 1½, off ½, to the lowest ever. This was equivalent to 1½ cents on the dollar.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Prohibition received blame in some quarters today as sending largely responsible for a fresh collapse in grain values down to new low records. Early wheat fell to 61½ cents a bushel, a bottom level heretofore touched in 1914 for nearby trading. Miscellaneous all-round drops in corn to the lowest point since 1921. With the price crashing were reports that persistent downward swings of grain values were rendering able to prohibition having shut off a large amount of business with Europe and having forced European countries to increase production of foodstuffs, with consequent lessened demand for American products.

Wheat closed irregular, 1¼ cents to 2 cents lower than Saturday's finish, December 61½@61¾; May 69@69⅛; corn 1@1½ cent off, and provisions from 15 cents setback to a rise of 20.

Sensational upturns preceded the late collapse of wheat and corn. Wheat derived temporary strength from reports that too much rain was hindering harvest operations in Argentina and Australia. There were also reports that the outlook for winter wheat in the United States from North America had improved, and that alternate freezing and thawing conditions in domestic belt territory were causing crop damage. Later, however, advices showed North American export buying had nearly halted. Disappointment was general that a decrease of the United States visible supply proved to be only 375,000 bushels, an amount too small to have any stimulating effect.

Corn traders were surprised toward the last to find that 7,446,000 bushels increase in the visible supply. Earlier, corn was showing upward on apparent indications that receipts had declined in spite of the movement away from farms.

Heaviness shown by the Winnipeg market much of the time exercised a further bearish influence on the Chicago July delivery, but on Chicago deliveries continued to be upheld by Government-sponsored organizations. Selling of Chicago July wheat was ascribed to sources North-west, and disclosed that the market price for July was without supporting orders. At this stage of endless selling which developed in corn added momentum to the action of wheat.

Provisions were unsettled, and were mainly responsible to year-end adjustment of accounts for December lard.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Dec. 29 (A.P.).—An opening decline promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables was followed by advances on covering and some trade or commission house buying in cotton today. March contracts, after selling off to 9.82 at the start, advanced to 10.12 in the late trading or 23 points above Saturday's close, but lost more than half the gain under a spurt of realising in the last few minutes. That delivery closed at 10.01, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 17 to 20 points. The maximum advance was in old January contracts, with other months showing net gains of 9 to 12 points.

The opening was steady, 5 to 8 points lower under selling promoted by the relatively easy showing of Liverpool which reopened after a holiday today after the December holidays. Offerings were not heavy, however, and as soon as they had been absorbed, prices turned upward on some trade and commission house buying. More or less covering was also reported and prices worked quite steadily upward, notwithstanding the weakness in grain and irregularity in stocks. The new January contracts advanced to 9.85, while May sold up to 10.38 with the present crop positions generally showing net advances of about 20 to 23 points early in the last hour while October at 10.70 was 11 points net higher. Demand and stop orders ran ahead of these figures and there were reactions of several points in the last few minutes under realizing.

The advance was accompanied by reports of small offerings from the South and the opinion was expressed in some quarters that any distressed lots of spot cotton had been liquidated before Christmas. This led to some talk of a probable scarcity and contracts developing in the event of any improvement in demand, particularly in the spring and summer positions. Additional notices estimated at about 7,100 bales were issued against new January contracts without appreciable effect on the market.

Liverpool cables attributed the decline in that market to hedging and liquidation promoted by the weakness of Egyptian cotton in Alexandria. Exports today 35,417 bales, of which 8,467,400 so far this season. Port stocks, 30,681. U. S. port stocks, 4,213,644.

TWO BADLY INJURED AS ARMY TRUCK HITS SIDE OF LOADED BUS

DRIVERS, PASSENGERS WILL APPEAR IN COURT

Ten-Foot Hole Torn Through Vehicle's Side; Small Auto Struck.

The lives of more than a dozen persons were endangered and eight persons wer einjured, two of them seriously, when a 6-ton Army truck crashed into the side of a loaded bus at the intersection of Twenty-first and K streets northwest, yesterday morning.

The bus was coming to Washington from Virginia, loaded with Government employes and others on their way to work, and was going east on K street when the Army van struck the side of the bus, tearing a 10-foot hole in the side and careening off to hit the side of a small sedan owned by Private Ferdinand Martin, of the Third Police Precinct.

Miss Marie Duehring, of Cherrydale, Va., was the most seriously injured. The woman, who is 20 years old, sustained a fractured left leg and a possible fracture of the pelvis. Louise Etta Cheney, 44 years old, of Ballston, Va., also received a fractured leg. Both of the women remained at Emergency Hospital, following the accident, where they were taken with the others who were injured shortly after the collision.

Others injured in the crash were: Nora Benhow, Cherrydale; Walter C. Kerlin, 32, Lyon Village; Lois Heath, 23, Cherrydale; Lottie Miller, 24, Cherrydale; Arthur Herd, colored, 25, 121 K street northwest, and Thelma Bates, 17, of Cherrydale.

ROVER IS CRITICIZED ON SHAPIRO'S CASE

Senator Blaine Says Law Clerk Could See Defect in Indictment.

CONTRASTS SMITH CASE

Criticism of the work of United States District Attorney Leo A. Rover in the Shapiro case, involving charges of fraud against Jacob Shapiro, real estate dealer, was voiced yesterday by Senator John J. Blaine, Republican, of Wisconsin, chairman of a subcommittee of the Senate District committee in charge of real estate, securities and related legislation.

Even a good clerk in a lawyer's office would have seen that the indictment on which Shapiro was tried was fundamentally defective, Senator Blaine said. Shapiro was acquitted by a jury at the direction of the bench.

In contrast with the handling of the Shapiro case, Senator Blaine pointed to the trial of the F. H. Smith Co. officers, handled by Nugent Dodds, Special Assistant Attorney General. He said, however, that he believed local matters should be handled by the local district attorney's office and he would not seek to have any matters which might be developed for action by his subcommittee handled by a special assistant to the Attorney General. That would be bad practice, the senator said.

Move to Get Land For Library Begun

Condemnation Actions Are Started; Hearings Set for Jan. 28.

Proceedings to condemn land for the proposed extension to the Library of Congress were begun yesterday in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The action was brought by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Special Assistant United Attorneys Arthur G. Lambert and Alexander H Bell, jr. The petition presented to the court specifies that they are acting on instructions from the Department of Justice, which in turn has been requested to take action by the committee on the Library of Congress.

Property sought is designated as the south half of square 760 and all of Square 761. It is located south of the Folger Shakespearean Library, on East Capitol street, and extends south to B street seoutheast, between First and Second streets. Justice Joseph W. Cox signed an order directing all owners of property in the affected area to appear in court January 28 for hearing before a jury of five citizens.

Court Authorizes Church Land Sale

Vestry of Christ Parish Holds Property Not Suitable Now.

Sale of the real estate of the Vestry of Christ Church parish located at Fourth and M streets southeast, was authorized in an order signed yesterday in District Supreme Court by Justice Jesse C. Adkins.

The order was signed on a petition filed by the vestry through Attorney George C. Gertman. The court also directed that part of the proceeds of the sale be used to create a fund, the income of which would be used for religious purposes.

The petition set out that part of the land involved was donated in 1878 with the provision that it be used forever for religious purposes. It also was explained that the property no longer is suitable for religious purposes since all parishioners have moved from that vicinity.

HEARINGS TO START TODAY ON ELECTRIC SCHEDULE FOR 1931

Public Utilities Commission to Act as Referee in Studying Arguments.

RATE CUTS ARE BASED ON EXCESS EARNINGS

Board Will Decide Whether Other Factors Should Be Considered.

The public hearing on the proposed 1931 schedules of rates of the Potomac Electric Power Co. will open this morning before the Public Utilities Commission.

It is probable only Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, and William McK. Clayton, of the Federation of Citizens Association, on the one side, and counsel for the power company on the other, will be heard, as the Utilities Commission has decided to act merely as a referee. It is problematical whether Corporation Counsel William W. Bride or William Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel for the Public Utilities Commission, will take an active part. The accounting division of the commission has prepared some historical data, however, for use, if requested by either side.

May Conclude Today.

Unless complications develop, the hearing may be concluded in a day and will in all probability end before the New Year's holiday. Whether there will be a session tonight depends on the progress of the hearing.

The schedule of proposed rate reduction for the average electric light consumer is from 4.7 to 4.2 cents per kilowatt hour. Other cuts are similar, in the various classes of service. The amount of the reduction was arrived at, as in the past five years, by devoting half of the excess earnings of the power company for last year, which in 1929 were $830,000, to such a purpose.

Public Gets Share.

The consent decree held that this was the public's share of the excess profits; the other half has been going into the treasury of the Potomac Electric Power Co.

The question to be decided by the commission following the hearing is whether probable increases in business during the new year, and other elements, should not be considered, as well as the public's share of the excess earnings.

Injunction Asked On Compensation

Terminal Company Tries to Prevent Payment of Injuries Award.

In a suit for injunction filed yesterday in District Supreme Court the Washington Terminal Co. asserts its employes are covered by the employers' liability act of 1908 and not by the District of Columbia workmen's compensation act.

Robert J. Hoage, deputy commissioner of the Compensation Commission, is named defendant, the company trying to prevent payment of an award to John C. Payne, an employe, for injuries incurred at the Union Station, August 4. Payne was awarded $142.86. This, it is contended, is illegal.

Attorneys Hamilton & Hamilton, for the company, say that the same allegation of illegality was made at the hearing before the commission.

Following the District Building ceremonies, a group from the club will visit the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. A wreath will be laid and a member of the Boys Club will sound taps at the tomb.

THE ONCE OVER

THE FLIGHT BY RADIO.

(An invention has been tested by which aviators will be able to get their bearings by tuning into radio stations.—News item.)

I.

'TWAS a perilous flight through the storm and the night,
And we knew we had lost our way,
Ev'ry compass we had seemed excessively bad,
And the fog was a sickly gray.
We couldn't make out beyond possible doubt
The course that we sought to go,
So we quickly agreed in our desperate need
To depend on the radio.

II.

Altitude had been lost as we'd pitched and we'd tossed,
And our motor was short of pow'r;
But we managed to rise (through a conference wise)
By resort to a yeast eaters' hour.
Through the darkness we flew through "Embraceable You"
And the encores of "Three Little Words;"
In the skies up above we stood "This Thing Called Love"—
And the bunk about flowers and birds.

III.

Due to static, we found, we were flying around
Without gaining a single mile,
And we gave forth a groan when we found we had flown
Through a Women's Club Talk on Style;
Then the shivering ship took a terrible dip
And it nearly pitched out the crew;
We had hit, it appeared when the atmosphere cleared,
A radio Book Review!

IV.

"We are lost!" I exclaimed from the plane badly lamed,
"There is nothing can save us now;
If we don't get our course we'll bring woe and remorse
In a moment or two—and how!"
"We must find," said my mate, "if it isn't too late,
The Amos 'n' Andy chat,
And a course we can keep (if we don't fall asleep),
I'm inclined to believe, by that."

V.

"Get the Nut Club!" I shrieked as the aerials squeaked,
"It will show us the South and North,"
But the best we could get was a meat house quartet
When a tenor was holding forth:
"Try for Roxy!" I roared as we aimlessly soared,
"We can head for his sweetest tones"—
But the next thing we hit was a musical skit
With a tune on some saxophones.

VI.

Then a violent gale rode us hard by the tail
And we ran into ice and snow;
Next we heard a guy play in a sweet girlish way—
And my bloodstream ran cold and slow;
As we struggled to steer we were startled to hear
A STEIN SONG PROMOTER
CRO-O-O-O-ON * * *
So we took a deep breath and pitched headlong to death—
Which was not in the least too soon!!!

Court Refuses Order To Halt Poli's Razing

Building Is Partly Demolished; Army of Pigeons Loses Home.

A decision of the District Court of Appeals yesterday countersigned, in a single stroke, the death warrant of Polis Theater and consequent eviction of an army of pigeons.

As to the legal side, the tribunal refused a special appeal from a decision of the District Supreme Court which denied an injunction to prevent razing of the old landmark. Poli's is being demolished to make way for a park which will grace the front of the new Department of Commerce building.

Sylvester Z. Poli and Lee and J. J. Shubert, who leased the building from the Government several yeais ago, sought to stop its demolition but Justice Jesse C. Adkins, of District Supreme Court, refused their plea for a permanent restraining order.

The subsequent appeal met its doom when United States Attorney Leo A. Rover advised the court that the building had been partially destroyed since the lower court's action and pointed out it could not be restored except by Congressional appropriation.

As for the feathery factor, its going to be "L" for them, viz: the court's action replaces their "eave" with "leave." The early part of this week will find the playhouse reduced to so many bricks and piles of plaster and when the pigeons come home from their daily jurneys to the Ellipse and White House grounds, the old homestead will have disappeared. Only the walls now afford rest for the weary birds.

Of course, a nice new Department of Commerce building is going up nearby and will afford more roosting space but it is a lot of trouble to move. Then, too, when the new building becomes occupied, Uncle Sam may not appreciate his friends and may take steps to force them out.

2,500 GUESTS ENJOY JUNIOR POST PARTY

CHEERS REWARD HOSTS

Washington children, 2,500 in number, guests of The Junior Post, stormed the Fox Theater yesterday morning and had a glorious hour and a half there at a special show put on for them through the kindness of Hardie Meakin, manager of the theater, Paramount-Publix and John Hix and the Universal Film Service.

Their shouts of joy could have been heard a block or so away when the dashing "Candy Cabaret," a Paramount film with a group of juvenile actors appeared on the big Fox silver screen. The children enjoyed every scene of the cabaret and then were ready for more.

Film Full of Wonders.

The next event was a "Strange As It Seems" film, loaned by John Hix, who supplies that feature to The Washington Post, and the Universal Film Service. Wonders of all kinds were shown in that film. Cries of surprise went up as the children saw a man who ate easily with his toes, a six-footed sheep and other odd and curious facts which Mr. Hix had heard of, investigated and drawn for his newspaper service and his films. This educational feature was easily one of the most popular of those shown yesterday.

As a surprise for their little guests the Fox Theater management put on the feature film "Rough 'n' Romance," a story of lumberjacks in the frozen North. How the cheers rose when the hero, Billy West, rescued his sweetheart from the icy waters of a log jam!

The editor of The Junior Post addressed the boys and girls briefly at the conclusion of the perfoomance. A hearty three cheers were given by the audience of children for the Fox Theater management and others who contributed in some form to the big Christmas show.

John H. Edwards, Jr., Begins Plot Sentence

John H. Edwards, jr., yesterday began his three-year sentence at Lorton Reformatory for conspiring to embezzle funds of the F. H. Smith Co. He was taken from the District all to the reformatory with a dozen other prisoners in the prison van.

Edwards, who was vice president of the company, was convicted with G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the company, and C. Elbert Anadale, another official of the company, by a jury in the District Supreme Court. Pitts and Anadale are still in jail pending appeal of their convictions. Pitts was sentenced to fourteen and Anadale nine years in the penitentiary.

The double shift attendance plan, designed to relieve overcrowding, was voted on favorably yesterday by the executive committee of the Home and School Association, Western High School.

At a general meeting of the association on January 21 the committee will report that after considerable study it sees no alternative other than adoption of the plan which is authorized by the school board

Western High School has at present 1,800 pupils, 450 above its normal capacity. Opening of the midyear term, with several hundred boys and girls enrolling from Gordon Junior High, will result in a net gain of 210, it was pointed out at the meeting.

After February 1 no new nonresidents will be admitted, but the 280 now enrolled will be permitted to remain.

Dr. Elmer S. Newton, principal of Western High, attended yesterday's conference, which was held in the office of Charles V. Imlay, president of the group.

PERSONNEL BOARD REPORT MAY HELP FEDERAL PAY FIGHT

WILL BE SUBMITTED TO CAPITOL HILL SOON

Government Workers Are Anxious to Have Congress Study It.

The fight of Federal employes for elimination of existing discrepancies in pay in different bureaus and departments of the Federal service is expected to be aided materially by a report of the Personnel Classification Board which is in the hands of the Government Printing Office.

This report is to be submitted to Congress as soon after it reconvenes after the Christmas holidays as the printing office completes its part of the job, William M. McReynolds, chief of the Personnel Classification Board, said yesterday.

Findings Called Accourate.

Everything in the report probably will not be palatable to those in the Government service who are striving to get pay boosts but responsible leaders of the employes, as well as members of Congress familiar with the subject, concede Mr. McReynolds to be an expert in his field and the report is likely to be accepted at its full worth as an authoritative document.

The report contains the result of a Nation-wide survey of the Government field service which heretofore has not been brought under the classification act as has service in the National Capital.

Preparation of the report was directed by Congress in a law approved in 1928. Publication of details of the report will be withheld, Mr. McReynolds said yesterday, until it is formally submitted to Congress.

Want Reports Studied.

Representatives of government workers are anxious that the report be studied by members of Congress and Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, is one of those who describe the report as another step in the direction of the ideal state for the employes in which salary and other working conditions will be determined on the basis of facts rather than on generalizations.

Those who have followed debates on government personnel problems have complained on several occasions that sufficient detail and accurate information was not available to each member of Congress to enable them to form judgment. Too often, it is said, members of Congress who have not taken a large amount of time from their other business to make a thorough study of government personnel have been forced to accept generalities from committee chairmen of others.

76 Scarlet Fever Cases Reported for District

Seventy-six cases of scarlet fever have been reported at the District Health Department during the last three weeks, it was learned yesterday, following two deaths from the disease, one at Sibley Hospital and the other at Providence Hospital. It is the first time the malady has been prevalent in the District for three years, acording to Dr. James G. Cumming, contagious disease officer at the health department.

Some of the reported cases, however, have been brought to Washington hospitals from nearby Maryland and Virginia. There are said to be several other cases in Alexandria, Va., and in Prince Georges County, Md.

Marital Race Is Extended; Boyers Lead

The Post's Wedlock Contest, which in the brief period of its duration has uncovered records of marital felicity ranging from 50 to 70 years, will be extended to Saturday to give all eligibles in Washington and suburbs an opportunity to make their bid for the silver loving cup The Post will award the winners.

To date, no other entrant in the contest has approached the wedlock record of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boyer, of 1458 Columbia road northwest, married since August 28, 1860. As this goes to press it appears that they will win The Post trophy.

Due to the application of a number of couples from points in Maryland and Virginia far distant from Washington, one of whom had a married career that surpassed even the Boyers, The Post thinks it necessary to point out again that the contest is limited to Washington and immediate vicinity.

The contest editor will be glad to receive additional entries up to midnight, January 3, when the contest will be regarded as officially closed.

More than 130 poor families in Washington were provided with fire wood Saturday and yesterday as the plan to unload the Quantico barges at the Municipal Fish Market wharf by hiring unemployed men and using army trucks got under way, according to George Adams, secretary of the District committee on unemployment.

Thirty men were at work unloading the fuel Saturday and an additional five men were hired yesterday. Each one is paid $3.50 a day and given lunch. The wages are being taken from $5,000 set aside by the committee from the proceeds of the recent Marines-Coast Guard football game.

More than 175 trucks have been loaded by the workers, but part of these went directly to the Salvation Army posts for distribution. Wash Williams, coal dealer, has loaned several trucks for transporting the wood.

MODERN LANGUAGE PROFESSORS HEAR G. W. U.'S HEAD TALK

Past 100 Years Have Been "Age of Observation," Says Speaker.

4 UNIVERSITIES HERE ARE HOSTS TO GUESTS

French and German Envoys to Attend Banquet of Groups Tonight.

The last century has been miscalled "the age of reason," according to President Cloyd Heck Marvin, of George Washington University, who last night told the Modern Language Association it should have been called "the age of observation."

Addressing the convention of linguists at the Willard Hotel, Dr. Marvin said "never before have men given themselves with such complete abandon to observing and recording systematically."

Midde Ages Cited.

He said the appellation "age of reason" should have bene given to the Middle Ages, when reason, as against authoriyt, was first championed.

Dr. Marvin welcomed some 1,000 college and high school language teachers from all over the country to the convention, held jointly under auspices of George Washington, American, Catholic and Georgetown Universities. Frederick Tupper, of the University of Vermont, president of the association, spoke on "Authors and Arts."

Attributes of Age.

Discussing the attributes of "the age of observation," Dr. Marvin said the scholarly world should stop now "to review the many parts of the structure it has been building and bring them into a unified whole." He termed modern language teachers "the instruments of unity and peace among scholars and among men."

Tonight the French Ambassador, Paul Claudel, and the Ambassador of Germany, Friedrich von Prittwitz und Gaffron, will be guests of the association at a banquet at the Willard. The convention will close Wednesday.

GAS COMPANIES SUE FOR REFUNDS OF TAX

$60,342.69 IS INVOLVED

Alleging that the District of Columbia had arbitrarily and unlawfully forced them to pay excessive taxes on their gross incomes, the Washington Gas Light Co. and the Georgetown Gas Light Co. yesterday filed suits against the local government, seeking to recover the difference betwen what they claim was rightfully due and what they were compelled to pay.

Both companies, through Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert and R. H. Yeatman assert that the sums the District made them pay were based on excessive assessments. The Washington Gas Light Company seeks to recover $55,034.69, while the other plaintiff asks judgment in the sum of $5,308.

The Washington Gas Light Co. explains its gross income from July 1, 1929, to June 30, 1930, amounted to $1,464,958.74 which at 5 per cent should have compelled it to pay a tax of only $73274.84. This sum was due in two equa payment on September 1, 1930, and March 1, 1931

But, the company states, the District computed its gross income for the fiscal year at $3,630,043.69 and demanded a tax of $181,502.20. It also asserts that on October 31 under duress it paid one-half of the sum the District demanded, or $91,658.61. This also represented, it was set out, a 1 per cent penalty for failure to pay on time.

The Georgetown Gas Light Co. asserts that its gross earnings were $236,346.40, and that its tax should have been $11,817.32. Instead, the company says the District fixed its gross earnings at $444,224.20 and assessed the tax at $22,211.21.

This plaintiff also asserts that on October 31, under duress, it paid the District government $11,105.60, or one-half of the amount the District claimed, and which was due in September.

The Washington Gas Light Co. claims that it owed only $36,623.92 and the other plaintiff claims it owed only $5,908.66 at the time.

New Officers Elected By Dixie Chapter, U.D.C.

Election of Mrs. L. K. Ettinger as president of the Dixie Chapter, No. 1231, United Daughters of the Confederacy, was announced yesterday by the District chapter. Mrs. W. R. Cole was elected first vice president.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Philip H. Hooff, second vice president; Mrs. D. A. Settle, treasurer; Miss Carolyn I. Wildman, corresponding secretary; Miss Lillie Tucker, recording secretary; Margaret Daniels, registrar; Miss Evelyn Daniels, parliamentarian; Miss Laura V. Ruff, historian; Miss Elizabeth Ballou, custodian, and Mrs. W. W. Garner, chaplain.

New York Editor's Wife Granted Divorce in Reno

Reno, Nev., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—Mrs. May C. Woodworth was granted a divorce here today from Melvin J. Woodworth, editor of the New York News Bureau and connected with financial news bureaus in New York, Chicago and London.

The papers in the case were sealed at the request of Mrs. Woodworth principally because of the condition of a property settlement out of court, but made a part of the record. The complaint charged mental cruelty, it was said. The couple was married September 6, 1906, in New York and have one son.

Jamestown, N. Dak., Dec. 29 (A.P.).—A new faction of the Republican party in North Dakota, committed to a militant program on behalf of agriculture, was organized today at a meeting attended by more than 300 political leaders from all sections of the State.

ALABAMA, COUGARS PRIMED FOR GAME TOMORROW

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—William T. Tilden 2d, has turned square at last and from now on will commercialize quite frankly the remnant of his prestige and talent in tennis not only in the moving-talking pictures, but also as a member of a barnstorming troupe of tennis stars under the management of Jack Curley.

Mr. Curley is the round, moist, restless adventurer who from a beginning as a waiter in a beer cellar in St. Louis in his early days in this country, became a promoter of prize fights and wrestling bouts and presently settled down to a life of suburban domesticity on Long Island, with only a small herd of beefy Bulgarians, Greeks and Turks in his stables to remind him of his more active career.

The other night he presented a championship bout in Madison Square Garden between Jim Londos and Ference Holuban and to his own astonishment and that of the Garden corporation, drew 20,000 customers who rioted in the corridors.

Now Mr. Curley says he has made a deal with Mr. Tilden and expects to enlist Vincent Richards, Karel Kozeluh, Jean Borotra and Henri Cochet and possibly Suzanne Lenglen for a tour of the United States and foreign parts.

PRO TROUPE IS PLAN OF CURLEY

Mr. Tilden's amateurism has been obscure and a matter of controversy for several years and in the last few seasons he has been an amateur only in the finest technical interpretation of the term, but all that is past now. He has decided, like Bobby Jones in golf, to turn in his amateur card and make no further claim to classification as one who derives no profit from sport.

This decision was communicated to Holcomb Ward, of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, in a letter announcing his betrothal to the moving picture business. Of course, the moving picture business is no new field for Mr. Tilden, but hitherto he always insisted that he was an actor in the movies and a tennis athlete only on th etennis courts, contending that his artistic qualifications alone were responsible for his employment in the drama.

In literature, also, Mr. Tilden spurned insinuations that his revenues were due in any degree to his distinction as an amateur athlete, and, altogether, his contributnce to the commercial success of the Lawn Tennis Association were accompanied by compensating embarrassments and spats. Often the tennis association seemed to be guided more by a regard for Mr. Tilden's drawing powers at the tournaments than by the spirit of the rules of amateurism in deciding that if he was not an amateur, then, anyway, by some microscopic margin, quite invisible to the naked eye, more amateur than pro. Due to a remarkable popular optical illusion, the margin often seemed to lie on the other side of the definition, and there was widespread skepticism as to Mr. Tilden's amateurism.

It was an interesting controversy, and its sudden solution and extinction will be mourned by many a sport page essayist in the bleak winter days on which it used to serve as an alternative for the proposition that Ty Cobb was the greatest ball player of all time to date.

Moreover, as a pro, Mr. Tilden will have nobody but his promoters with whom to aregue as to whether he will or will not play at a stated place at a given time, a distinct decline from that importance which he achieved when the French tennis association induced the United States Ambassador to intercede with the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association so that he could appear and draw the customers. The French conception of amateurism is no more mercenary than the American lawn tennis but only a little more frank. The French love their gate receipts and say so.

Just why Mr. Tilden waited until he had lost the American championship to renounce his technical state of amateurism is a mystery and his cardiness suggests that he had made his first business faux pas since he became a famous performer. If he avowed his professionalism when he was the dominant playing character of the game in the United States and abroad his price probably would have been proportionately higher so it seems that he waited too long and sacrificed some of his potential earnings. The customers pay high for titles and Mr. Tilden will not be able to endow his billing with the title, "tennis champion of the world," though he

7 Days Grace Extended to Schmeling

Must Sign to Fight Sharkey or Forfeit Title, Say Chiefs.

Commission Bent on Final Action; Frown on Florida Bout.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 A.P.)—The blast that may blow Max Schmeling right out from under the heavyweight championship crown was touched off today in the offices of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Like a spark drifting into a curtain of black damp in some coal mine, Joe Jacobs, spokesman for the Teuton clouter, strolled into the den of the solons and the charged atmosphere flashed lightning. "Mister Yokupa" wandered out dizzily a few minutes later, faced with the problem of accepting within seven days the ultimatum of the commission that Schmeling must fight Jack Sharkey here in June or find himself bereft of recognition in this State as the heavyweight king.

Farley Hints Again

Of Foul Episode.

James A. Farley, chairman of the commission, told Jacobs that Schmeling must keep the promise he made the commission shortly after he won recognition as the title holder by the simple process of claiming foul in his match with Sharkey here last June. That promise for an immediate return bout with the Boston sailor was not kept, and later was amended to read "Next June."

The commission let Jacobs know that it was rather eager to take Schmeling's title away and, on second thought, had come to the conclusion that Der Maxie could have risen with little effort and continued after Sharkey struck him low in the fourth round in the Yankee Stadium.

Almost continually since his arrival here three years ago the German heavyweight has been embroiled at the commission in either managerial or personal difficulties, and the fathers seem determined to bring him to heel now, once and for all.

Elimination Tourney

Now Improbable.

The stand of the commission, opposed by promoters who would have to stage the match without popular support, and by critics who believe that Young Stribling, the sensational Southerner, deserves consideration as the challenger, may wipe out definitely all plans for an elimination tournament with the winner fighting Schmeling in the spring.

Bill Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, sought approval for a bout between Stribling and Sharkey for Miami, Fla., this winter, but this was frowned down.

The developments of the day increased the probability that Sherkey will not get another title chance at all. Schmeling has a $500,000 offer for a championship defense against Stribling in Chicago next June, and his refusal to kneel to the dictates of the local commission probably would be accompanied by acceptance of the bid from the Midwest. Stribling already has agreed to terms for the Chicago match.

Commission Recites

Kindness to Max.

Commissioner Farley, talking the matter over after the meeting, left no doubt that the commission, right or wrong in its conception of the situation, was determined to force Schmeling to battle Sharkey or lose his title standing here.

"We've been very kind to Schmeling," Farley said. "Although he was under suspension here last June we permitted him to fight Sharkey for the championship because the bout was for charity. At Schmeling's request we removed the clause calling for payment on a round basis in case of a foul from the contracts made for that match. We promised that the winner would be recognized by us as the heavyweight champion and even though the bout ended in a foul we were good sports and kept our promise."

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

Dodds, who is now 51 years of age, believes that his latest invention will revolutionize the work of carpenters. He has perfected a small electric portable saw which weighs only a few pounds and fits neatly into a tool kit.

If some one should ask you if you could lift a 6½-foot ball of cork to your shoulder you'd probably say you could. It would be rather difficult to keep your promise, for although the composition of cork is over 50 per cent air, a ball that size would weigh at least 2,000 pounds. Cork comes from irrated oak trees, which would seem to make "sick" oaks more valuable than the well ones. If properly stripped from the tree, more cork will grow right back again and the tree can be stripped every eight or ten years throughout its life.

Ruth's Famous Waistline Under Control On First Day of Winter Workouts in Gym

Expects "Panning" if He Doesn't Set New Homer Mark.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The great man was flat on his back, more or less at the mercy of his interviewer, when the subject of baseball finally was brought up.

Strange as it may seem, it isn't so easy to pin the eminent George Herman Ruth down to the discussion of the game in which he has achieved his greatest fame. The great man has other and quite varied interests besides the responsibility of being an $80,000 a year outfielder for the New York Yankees.

Squash racquets, for example. He had just finished a few sets, or whatever they play in squash racquets, with his friend and physical counselor, Artie McGovern, at the latter's gymnasuim. As the muscles of the big barrel-chested giant rippled under the vigorous labors of Bill, the masseur, conversation switched to golf.

Babe Finally Admits

He's a Golf Nut.

"I guess I'm a golf nut," the Babe finally admitted, after we had debated everything from the new ball to the sand wedge, both of which have the approval of the southpaw slugger.

"I can't belt 'em quite so far with the bigger ball, but it's great to putt with and I guess I'll have to worry along by socking 'em around 250 or 260 off the tee.

"Say, kid, it's a pleasure to get into a trap with this new tool. I use it like a putter out of the sand."

It should be remarked in passing that when in normal health and hitting up to average form, Mr. Ruth thinks nothing of poking the ball up around 300 yards off the tee. Recently, on a course at the Meadowbrook Club, where two holes measure something like 290 and 300 yards, the Babe was on each green from the tee.

Snowstorm Drives

Ruth Indoors.

Only a snowstorm or two prevented Ruth from continuing winter golf and forced him to seek the Gymnasium for exercise. His first workout of the winter today at McGovern's place marked the beginning of his real preparations for the 1931 baseball season. His adopted daughter, Julia, shared some of the gym play with him. After a month of regular workouts he will go South with his family to get in a lot of golf at the Jungle Club near St. Petersburg, Fla.

The Babe is in fine condition now. He scaled 233 today, 6 pounds less than at the same period two years ago and about 2 pounds under his weight a year ago this time. His famous waistline measured a mere 42½ inches, less than at any time since the winter of 1927-1928.

"If I don't bust the ears off that home run record of mine this year, I hope they give me a good panning," volunteered the witness when cross-examined on the subject of pending events.

Hurt Finger Slowed

Pace Last Year.

"I would've done it last year but for that bum finger. I was going great until August and that accident happened. I made the mistake then of trying to play with the finger still in bad shape. The result was it didn't heal fully until the season was nearly over.

"My legs? Say, they are better than ever. I lasted on 'em a lot longer than some of the boys expected last season and barring some accident, I figure to play every game next season. Cutting down the regular season workouts from two to one a day has given my pins a new lease on life. They can't be very weak, can they, when I can knock off 36 holes of golf a day right along?

"I'll still be playing baseball when a lot of these boys are through. Why, say kid, I never felt better in my life."

Carideo Accepts Post As Grid Aid at Purdue

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Daniel E. Halpin, manager of the 1930 Notre Dame Football Team, has announced that Frank Carideo, all-America quarter back of the "Irish," has agreed to act as assistant coach of football at Purdue University next year.

Halpin arrived here to attend a party of the Connecticut Valley Notre Dame Alumni, flying from Los Angeles, where the Notre Dame All-Stars played on Saturday.

Bad News Bob Sets Entire Pace at Havana

Havana, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The well-backed favorite, Bad News Bob, entry of H. C. Hatch, captured the Quanajay Purse, feature of Oriental Park's card today. Bad News Bob won without particular trouble with Miss Desmond, from the Anall Stable, second, and L. Mascia's Ulverston a driving third.

Jockey G. Riley took Bad News Bob through on the inside around the first turn, set all the pace and the Hatch entry had plenty of speed in reserve at the finish. Miss Desmond responded when called upon entering the stretch but was not equal to the task of wearing down the winner. She was giving her best to stall off the closing rush of Ulverston at the end.

Hack Wilson in Court Game Here Tomorrow

Hack Wilson, leading slugger of the National League, will be seen in a new role tomorrow afternoon when he leads his Martinsburg All-Stars against the Census Bureau Enumerators, crack local basket ball team. The game will be played at Silver Spring High School, starting at 3 o'clock. Wilson, who is manager of the mountaineers, will play a guard position, where he will be faced by Micky MacDonald.

Earle Moser, manager of the Enumerators, will start Jim Birthright, Mickey Macdonald, Warren Hayes, Larry Boerner and himself against the visitors. Pete Nee, sterling Central player of several years back, will also see action in the game.

The preliminary, starting at 2 p. m., promises to develop strong play. The strong Stewart Bros. Photographers will play host to the Oakley A. C. of Baltimore, that city's A. A. U. champions.

Train Muscles and Forget Them If You Would Be Golf Champion

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The same sense of muscular activity that leads a golfer to dub his shots can make the college athlete the scholastic champion of his class, Dr. Herbert S. Langfeld, of Princeton University, told the American Psychological Association tonight.

Dr. Langfeld, president of the association, said the difference between the duffer and the athletic-thinker lies in the balance between brain and muscle. Ultimate perfection in golf, as in all learning and doing, he said, comes from so training the muscles that one can forget all about them.

Too much consideration for the way your arms and hands will work is fatal, Dr. Langfeld said in discussing the response interpretation of consciousness—the theory that makes of the brain the generalissimo of muscles, nerves, sense organs, and the guiding light of emotions, training and ability.

The secret in golf, as in typewriting, learning to read, or in doing anything, comes from being clearly conscious of the thing to be done, and not the way to do it. Thinking about yourself and your muscles makes you a poor golfer, Dr. Langfeld said.

By the same token, the ability the athlete has in using his muscles implies a mental and muscular coordination that is synonymous with intelligence. "Muscular activity," Prof. Langfeld said, "is the objective of thinking. Thought is the commencement of muscular activity."

amateur tennis, to take effect immediately.

"Wishing the game of amateur tennis and the United States Lawn Tennis Association all success in the future and thanking you for many courtesies to me. Sincerely,

"WILLIAM T. TILDEN 2d."

Tilden, now 37 years old, generally has been rated as the greatest player the game of tennis has produced. He has dominated American tennis for a decade and has been a prime factor in America's success in Davis Cup competition.

He captured the American singles championship seven times, first breaking through in 1920 and ruling for six years before Rens Lacoste, of France, broke the spell in 1926. Lacoste repeated in 1927, and Henri Cochet won the title in 1928, but Tilden returned to the heights in 1929 for his seventh singles crown. This year he was beaten by John Hope Doeg, of Santa Monica, in the semi-final round, and Doeg went on to win the championship.

Tilden won the British singles title three times, amazing the sports world by conquering a strong field at Wimbledon this summer for his third British championship.

The veteran also won many doubles titles, and all the important tournaments at one time or another in his long career.

Reading Club Bought By Clarence Rowland

Chicago, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Clarence H. Rowland, former manager of the Chicago White Sox and later an American League umpire, concluded the deal for the purchase of the Reading, Pa., Club of the International League today.

The transaction will be closed tomorrow with the signing of the agreement, William L. Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, owners of the Reading team, said. The Cubs operated this ball team as a farm.

Rowland, manager of the Nashville Club of the Southern Association for the last two years, has had wide experience in baseball management. He will operate as well as manage the Reading team next season.

Pinehurst Golfers In Seminals Today

Pinehurst, N. C., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Four survivors of an original field of 60 today fought their way into the semifinals of the twenty-ninth annual midwinter Pinehurst Golf Tournament, which will be played tomorrow. In the top bracket, George T. Dunlap, jr., of New York, the medalist, will meet Philip S. P. Randolph, of Hempstead, Long Island. The lower bracket brings together Forbes K. Wilson, of York Harbor, Me., and Arnold White, of New York.

Dunlap, Princeton golfer and intercollegiate champion, hammered out a 71 in a tricky breeze to conquer Charles W. Swoope, of Philadelphia, 5 and 4. Randolph took the measure of Norfleet P. Ray, of Toledo, 1 up; Wilson had to go 20 holes to eliminate Walter Swoope, while White, a freshman at Duke University, celebrated his twenty-first birthday by beating William North, 1 up, at 19 holes.

DEALS NETTED $350,000.

It may have been a poor year in the baseball mart, but it is disclosed major league clubs paid Pacific Coast League owners more than $350,000 in a series of deals that brought considerable money into the coast tills, in addition to some valuable player material.

QUITS TENNIS

BILL TIDEN.

GRID TUTORS MOVING IN DIXIE

7 or More, Including Wade and Dehart, Quit Berths.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The annual moving season for football coaches is at hand in the South and new mentors will take up fresh charges at seven or more Dixie schools. This shift includes two coaches whose teams were among the best in the South.

Wallace Wade, whose eighth Alabama Team faces Washington State in the Rose Bowl Thursday, goes to Duke University, while Jimmy Dehart has finished his term at Duke with the school's best team in history. Friends report Jimmy has flattering offers.

Notre Dame Product Takes

Reins at Alabama.

A young Notre Dame product, Frank Thomas, back field coach at Georgia, takes over the responsibilities at Alabama.

Two Virginia schools are involved in the shake-ups. Earl Abell resigned at the University of Virginia recently, although his contract ran through April, 1932, while Gene Oberst resigned at Washington and Lee at the close of the campaign. Bill Raftery has signed a new two-year contract at Virginia Military Institute, but there may be some changes in the staff of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Mississippi A. and M. has been without a head coach since late in the last football season when Chris Cagle quit.

Dodd, Tennessee Ace, to Aid

Georgia Tech Coach.

Bobby Dodd, of Tennessee, Dixie's outstanding back field star, will be Bill Alexander's back field assistant at Georgia Tech and Tech authorities are looking for a line coach to succeed Bill Fincher, whose contract was canceled.

T. L. Gaddy, Biloxi, Miss., high school coach, has been named to follow Edwin Hale, who resigned at Millsaps. Russ Cohen is to return to Louisiana State for another several year period.

Boston and Jolliffe Reach Bowling Finals

Day Boston and James Jolliffe will clash tonight at the Columbia drives in the final match of the Columbia Alleys' elimination tournament, as the result of compiling the highest totals in the semifinals which were held last night.

Boston rolled a 621 total for five games, and Jolliffe, a 596, while Charles Young and Charles Stott were eliminated.

Montrose Five Wins Over Lyceum, 29 to 25

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Dec. 30.—In one of the hardest fought games of the local season, St. Mary's Lyceum five bowed here tonight to Montrose, of Washington, 29 to 25. The Saints, who recently joined the District of Columbia A. A. U., held a 12-10 lead at intermission but fell before an accurate goal shooting attack in the second 20 minutes.

The Alpha Delta Omega team swamped the Fort Myer Machine Gunners in the preliminary, 53 to 15.

Aerial Battle InRose Bowl Expected

Foes to Take Light Drill Today; Seat Sale Brisk.

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—With both teams reported in the pink of condition, Alabama and Washington State took no chance today of losing their edge before the Tournament of Roses football game Thursday. The opposing warriors from the South and Northwest indulged in the lightest sort of workouts and called it a day.

Tomorrow the same program will be followed and coaches Wade and Hollingbery expect to send their teams on the Rose Bowl turf New Year's Day ready for the fray. Before going to the practice field this afternoon the players relaxed, the Cougars going for a long sightseeing trip while the 'Bama boys lolled in the sun on the lawn of their hotel.

Forward Pass Battle

Looked For.

Unofficial observers have figured the big game will develope into a contest of forward passing, reasoning the opposing lines are so powerful, power attacks must fall to pieces.

"I would not be surprised to see the team received the kickoff pass on the first play," said a visiting coach today.

Interest continued to increase and prospective customers grew as the zero hour approached. A brisk sale of tickets developed Monday and Tuesday with a final drive of no mean proportions indicated for tomorrow.

Approval of N. C. A. A. Won by College Sports

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Leaders of thought in intercollegiate athletics, many of them grown gray in the service of sportsmanship, reported to the National Collegiate Athletic Association today that they found little wrong during 1930 either with the games as they are played or the rules that govern them.

There were a few dissenting voices but in the main the faculty representatives, the physical directors, and the graduate managers found less to criticise in football and other intercollegiate athletic endeavor than did the football coaches themselves.

"One institution reported there was much more interest in intramural baseball games than in intercollegiate baseball games," Prof. A. D. Penick, of the University of Texas, reported. Then he added: "If it were not for the large financial investment which we now have in our intercollegiate athletics, many schools would even now be easily persuaded to have only intramural activities. How our problems would disappear."

14 COMMUNITY CENTER FIVES ENTER POST TOURNEY

League Clubs Enter Play As Body

Outstanding Quintets Qualify for City Title Event.

Registration Blanks Now Available at The Post.

THE announcement that The Washington Post again would sponsor the Amateur Athletic Union tournament for the District of Columbia basket ball championships was greeted yesterday with the information that the Community Center League, comprising fourteen of the Capital's outstanding teams, would enter the tournament as a body.

Community Center League teams, competing under the direction of Winfree Johnson, have operated for the past two seasons under A. A. U. supervision and last year played a prominent part in The Post's championship tournament staged at Tech High School.

The Potomac Boat Club, winner of the Community title last year, is defending its crown and will be a contender for the unlimited championship of the city again in March when The Post's tournament is staged. The Boat Club reached the semifinals of the tourney last year.

—RULE A—

Other teams in the Community Center League which intend to enter the tournament are the Mount Vernons, Drakes, Clovers, Mercurys, Eastern Whirlwinds, Crescents, Tremonts, Pontiacs, Monroes, De Molays, Petworth Mets, Griffith Consumers and Company E.

With few exceptions in cases where the teams may be able to make the 145-pound limit, the Community clubs will enter the unlimited division of the tournament.

Team entry blanks for the 100, 115, 130, 145 and unlimited classes soon will be available. Individual A. A. U. registration blanks may be obtained either at the office of William Russell, registration chairman, at 1803 North Capital street, or at The Post sports department.

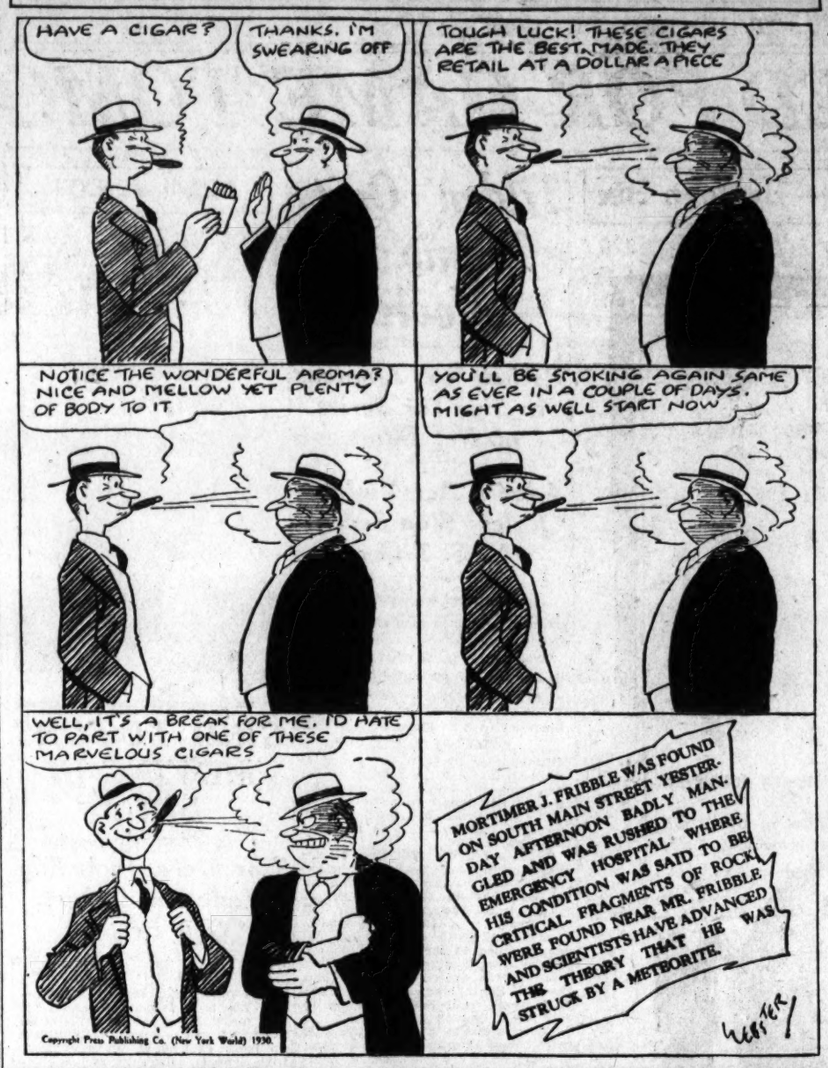
The Events Leading Up to the Tragedy —By H. T. Webster



Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

JEFFERSON PARK closes its first meeting today, the New Orleans racing shifting to the Fair Grounds for 44 days, after which there will be a short encore meeting at the Shrewsbury course. The Fair Grounds will have a better meeting than Jefferson Park, for it is a better track and influences the attendance of better horses, as the purses are larger.

The closing day feature at Jefferson Park is the Quaichita Purse for 3-year-olds and upward. Horses racing as 2-year-olds today will be in the 3-year-old division tomorrow and a large number of yearlings at the Fair Grounds are awaiting their birthday, which will put them in racing on the opening day. They have been training and are in readiness for the bugle, according to the announcement of the racing secretary.

In the feature today, which is at 6 furlongs, six horses are to start. MARTIS should win. His best winter race was in the French Hospital Handicap, being second to Supreme Sweet. Next out he was second to Thistle Ann. Either of those races repeated would land this purse. LADRONE is rated next best. COOTS has raced little recently and there is no immediate line on him, but on general form, he should hold his own with these and is rated third.

FIRST RACE—The first race is for 2-year-olds. LITTLE COVENTRY seems a shade best in a large field of abundant competition. He was beaten out by Dick Chevely last Friday and was well backed. That was on a heavy track and the son of Coventry will like the going better today. Previously he was third in a fast field. He won in Maryland. ALL GIRLS is regarded the most serious contender, finishing second to Ann Arundel the other day. MY SWEETS should hold the others safe. JARGON has a chance.

SECOND RACE—Thre will be no track record lowered in the second race, but PAGAN LADDIE looks best of the lot, even on a fast track, and he is strictly a mudder. His last race was on a fast course, however, and was good, he finishing third to Dodie Leighton. That was run in 1:13 2-5. SINCERELY ran Miss Ramsey to a close finish last out and is dangerous. The race was run in the identical time of the other referred to. FORTUNATE MANN seems best of the others, but would do better at a longer oute.

THIRD RACE — GREENWALD has not run his race at this track. He may do so in the third race, which is the last chance for 2-year-olds. He is a very fast colt on summer form, and seems to have gone into a slump at New Orleans. Maybe they have been saving him to move over to the other track. He is selected to win. Me may be another Principio, which paid $94 yesterday. JIMMIE L. won his last out and will be a dangerous contender. The next best is FLYING NANCY, which beat Bright Comet last out, but that filly has been beaten by everything she has run against in the South. JIMMIE L. beat a good field the other day.

FIFTH RACE—GREY GULL, which beat Miss Maryland in her last start, should repeat in the fifth race at a mile and a sixteenth with ease. The daughter of Grey Lag ran a mile and 70 yards in her last start in 1:44 3-5, and was going away at the end. STERLING SILVER, a beaten favorite, which finished third to Fair Orb Thursday, is the contender. It will take an alert rider on GREY GULL to beat him. FAIR FOLLY'S races have been good in the majority of starts, and she should be in the money.

SIXTH RACE — SORRENTO is picked in the sixth race. He was second to Herb Ashby last week. It should be easier in this field. TROMPE OF DAWN is the strongest of the opposition. He was beaten a head by Bardalid recntly. MY LAVA should improve, and is believed to be best of the others. SORRENTO has the class on this field and will not have to improve to win the race.

SEVENTH RACE — INTERIOR is favored ... the seventh race, and last out was third to a very good field of platers, of which Ole Man Sunshine was the winner. BIG GUN has been running in a way to give promise of brackets soon and last out was up against a harder field than this. A fortight ago he was second to Bright Flag. That gives him a chance here. REIGH OLGA has a chance for any part of the purse, but is inconsistent.

46-TO-1 SHOT JEFF PARK WINNER

JEFFERSON PARK RACE TRACK, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—A. Hirshfield's Brass Monkey ran a great race to land the purse in the fourth race, a six-furlong sprint here today. E. R. Bradley's Burgoo, coupled with the winner, was second and Tarzan third. It was the first time at the meeting that the Bradley silks were seen.

Brass Monkey displayed great speed. He was practically left and was lengths back of the field at the end of the first sixteenth. He did not appear to have a winning chance, so far back was he. However, J. Smith, who had the mount, let the colt settle into his stride and Brass Monkey began to close on the field. He made up several lengths in the run to the far turn and around the bend he was in the bunch and going very fast.

Come On Easy Winner In Fifth Event.

Come On, paying $5.60, was an easy winner of the fifth race, a gallop of a mile and a sixteenth. Searington was second and Ormonbird third.

Come On led all the way to win by a length and a half. Searington beat Ormonbird a head for the place.

Principio, paying $94.60 for a $2 ticket, was a nose winner over Sun Porter in the opening event. Petabit was third.

It was a spirited finish and the winner was in doubt until the numbers were hung out.

Petabit led the field to within a few strides of the finish, when she weakened and Principio and Sun Porter both got up to nose her out. The winner's time was 1:14.

Cash Play Outruns Marette in Drive.

Cash Play, well played, scored in a drive over Marette in the second race, a 6-furlong sprint. Foreign Relations was third. Supawana finished fourth. Marette led for the first quarter then Cash Play took command and won in a drive by a head.

The winner paid $8.40 and his time was 1:13.

Sandy Lady, 2 to 5 favorite, was an easy winner of the sixth race. Bear Cry was second and Western Princess third.

The latter led for 6 furlongs then the field closed on her. In the stretch Sandy Lady closed fast to win going away by half a length.

Scot Free won the last race by five lengths over Sharon with Betty Bux third. Jockey J. Renick was suspended for ten days by the stewards for rough riding in the last race. He rode Sharon, which crossed the field at the sixteenth pole.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

DECEMBER 31, 1905.

Thousands of persons paraded about the downtown streets with all kinds of noise-makers, as the New Year was ushered in at midnight. The event was celebrated throughout the city, but little rowdyism was reported.

Telegraphic signals announcing the New Year were flashed from the Naval Observatory to all parts of the country.

President Roosevelt returned to the White House after a hunting trip in nearby Virginia. His train was delayed for more than an hour due to a blinding snowstorm.

Mme. Bernhardt, famous French tragedienne, arrived at the Baltimore & Ohio Station and was greeted by the United States Marine Band.

Plays Boop-a-Doop, that grand old game;
Folks think that she is daffy.

She hides behind her fan;
But the Goofus IT is never blue,
She always gets her man.

WHAT ABOUT GOING OUT AND LOOKING IN ON A FEW PLACES TONIGHT, FELLAS?
SORRY, AVERY, BUT PHYLLIS SIGNED ME UP A MONTH AGO.
AMN'S GOT ME ALL SEWED UP, TOO. I'D RATHER STAY HOME AT THAT.
I HAD A DATE, AVERY, BUT IT LOOKS NOW AS IF I'M TO WATCH THE NEW YEAR IN DOWN AT THE HOSPITAL. I'M TO BE THE ATTENDING PHYSICIAN EVIDENTLY.
WELL THEN I GUESS I'LL GO OUT WITH BOB DAMPMORE.
YES HE'S POSITIVE ABOUT EVERYTHING EXCEPT MONEY. WHEN IT COMES TO THAT HE'S NEGATIVE.

STOCK PRICES RISE AS TURNOVER GAINS

Eastern Rail Consolidation Acts as General Impetus to Entire Market.

3,431,115 SHARES SOLD

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Although this was railroad day in the security markets, the carrier equities and lists unselfishly shared the legacy of good cheer made in their favor by the consolidation agreement, and stocks and bonds generally improved. Grains rallied in sympathy.

On the share market, the net advances of 1 to nearly 6 points—the average rise for 90 issues was 2.7 points—were the best since the big upturn on December 17. It was also the most active session since that date, for sales totaled 3,431,115 shares.

Reports to the effect that yesterday's conference of the Eastern railroad executives had been conclusive seemed sufficiently convincing to rally the market almost from the opening, so that President Hoover's formal announcement only added impetus to the upward movement. Rails soared 2 to 8 points and were joined, with more modest advances, by the industrials and utilities. Profit-taking, inevitable after so lusty a swing, cut down the maximum gains, but prices closed strong.

News of Steel Industry Cheerful.

News from the steel industry was cheerful, too. Iron Age said each week of December had added to confidence toward the 1931 outlook and that by the end of January ingot production should be about 50 per cent of capacity against the estimate of 30 per cent made for this week. Hopes are based on the appearance of delayed railroad orders, a pickup in the plate activity and the prospect that contracts for large construction projects will soon be let.

Steel output in 1930 amounts to about 40,000,000 tons, a drop of 27 per cent from the 1929 volume. Production averaged 63 per cent of rated capacity, the lowest since the 37 per cent average of 1921, when, however, capacities were smaller.

Other developments of the day were less stimulating, although none was particularly gloomy. Bar Silver went to another new low here. Department store sales in the New York Federal Reserve District for the first 24 days of this month were 4½ per cent under a year ago, but in view of the lower prices prevailing this year the comparison was relatively favorable.

The appearance of some good news affecting the long-suffering rails found that group well liquidated and harboring a fair-sized short interest.

Gains in Eastern Railways.

Eastern lines, directly involved in the consolidation plans, were naturally most buoyant and extreme gains of 5 points or more developed in New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Reading. New Haven closed 6¾ higher, while Delaware & Hudson, Lackawanna, Wabash, Atchison, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific closed 3 to 4 higher.

Miscellaneous shares rising 1 to 3 included U. S. Steel, American Can, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Telephone, Lambert, Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville, Liggett & Myers "B," American Tobacco B, Anaconda, Case, Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Gas and Goodyear. Public Service of New Jersey, North American, Coca-Cola, Crucible Steel, Allied Chemical and Western Union rallied 3 to 4, while Auburn auto soared 5 and Ingersoll Rand 9¾.

Wheat, closing unchanged ⅝ higher, reflected the firmness of Winnipeg and unfavorable Argentine weather as well as the strength of stocks. Corn gained about 1¾ cents, influenced by cold weather in the Southwest and a better cash demand. Cotton finished 3 points lower to 3 higher.

Year-end settlements depressed the foreign exchanges, the French franc sagged 3-16 and sterling cables eased fr. Far Easterns shaded off with bar silver.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Fresh evidence of much enlarged use of corn by industries led to higher prices today for all grains. Speculative purchasing of corn future deliveries broadened out to a notable degree with additional stimulus coming from the fact that at Chicago and other main centers corn receipts had been suddenly curtailed. A brace for wheat resulted from advices of moisture dearth in domestic wheat territory both winter and spring.

Corn closed unsettled 1¼-2 cents a bushel higher than yesterday, wheat irregular at a shade decline to ¾ cent advance, oats ¾-1⅝ cents up, and provisions from 35 cents setback to a rise of 17 cents.

Corn held a strong upward price trend except for some uncertainty at the start and during a few brief reactions later from extreme bulges. Announcements that the largest industrial consumer of corn would materially increase plant facilities to take care of prospective demand for corn sugar were given widespread attention. Meanwhile, also the fact that receipts of corn in Chicago had dropped to only 39 cars, compared with 184 a year ago, was coupled with rigorous assertions that corn at prevailing prices should be considered as on the bargain counter.

Helping to put firmness into the wheat market was news of 1,536,000 bushels decrease of the world's wheat available supply. There were likewise reports that the Canadian government would guarantee against loss the banks financing the Canadian growers' pool, and that the Ottawa parliament would be asked to vote large funds to assist farmers' purchases of seed grain and fodder. On the whole, however, coarse grains made a better showing than wheat both in price gains and volume.

Decided dwarfing of receipts was a good deal responsible for the situation being different as to corn and oats than was the case relative to wheat. Primary arrivals of corn were but 439,000 bushels against 925,000 a week back and 1,288,000 a year ago.

Provisions averaged lower, influenced by big deliveries of lard on December contracts, about 14,000,000 pounds so far this month.

ADVANCES IN RAILS FEATURE OF BONDS

FOREIGN LIST DECLINES

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—A broad advance in railroad convertible and mortgage issues following announcement of an agreement for consolidation of Eastern carriers, featured trading in the bond market today.

Domestic bond prices threw off the lethargy that has marked their movements recently and definitely resumed their upward trend in the largest turnover in four months. Sales exceeded $15,000,000.

It was the last day on which sales for income tax purposes could be made in the regular way, although cash transactions may be negotiated for that purpose tomorrow. However, there was a better demand so that offerings of all but low grade issues was fairly well absorbed. Those in the latter category showed some large declines, among speculative rails and industrials.

Rails Index Up ¼ Point.

The buoyancy of the carrier group company favorably with the advances of ten days ago when they made an abrupt recovery from the low levels of the year. As reflected in the average for ten rails, the day's improvement amounted to 1.3 points, and the advance of 30 domestic bonds, in the averages, was ½ point.

Obligations of the Baltimore & Ohio, the Van Sweringen group, and Pennsylvania, three of the four systems involved in the merger plans, were conspicuous in the advance. The New York Central was less affected. Virtually all of the high grade rails joined the upward trend, however, and some of the widest gains were in second grade issues that are not included in merger plans of the Eastern lines.

U. S. Governments Active.

United States Governments were very active and about steady in the face of the continued firmness in the call money market. Bankers feel that the present stringency is only ephemeral and expect funds now flowing to the interior will come back early in January to restore the extreme easy tone.

Foreign dollar bonds found the line of least resistance was toward lower levels. German International 5½s duplicated its record low at 68, but recovered partially to close ⅝ off. The 7s reacted ¾ and German Industrials declined. Cuban 5½s rallied 1¾ points. A shipment of $1,650,000 in gold arrived today to pay the interest on the bonds. Most of the Latin-Americans sold off, in some instances losing 2 or 3 points. Chilean 6s touched a new 1930 minimum.

RAPID TRANSIT CO.'S NET INCOME SLUMPS

C. & P. Telephone Officials Authorize Extensions to Service in Capital.

$3,309,812 IS TOTAL SUM

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

A continued decline in net income of Washington Rapid Transit Co. is revealed by its November statement of operations filed yesterday with the Public Utilities Commission. In this item for last month there was a deficit of $1,678.06 against a surplus of $210.80 for the month last year or a net decreas of $1,888.86. For the months of 1930, the item shows a deficit of $24,041.75 as compared with one of $6,868.80 for the comparative period last year, an increase in deficit of $17,172.95.

Extensions to telephone service in Washington authorized by the board of directors of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. at its meeting held yesterday, will involve expenditures of $411,992, officials of the company state. This appropriation brings the total amount authorized for similar work in the District of Columbia this year to $3,309,812.

Projects to Be Undertaken.

Included in the appropriation is the routine estimate for the first quarter of 1931. Under this project additional pole lines, wire, underground conduit and cable, aerial cable, switchboards and central office equipment, telephones and associated apparatus will be placed in every part of the city.

Extensions to the telephone system in Maryland just authorized by the board of directors of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Baltimore City at its meeting just held in Baltimore, will involve expenditures of $681,140. These projects bring the total amount appropriated for similar work in the State so far this year to $6,354,762, according to a statement made by Frederick J. Irish, general manager.

The projects just authorized include underground cable construction to provide additional facilities in the Wolfe, Curtis and Prospect central office areas, Baltimore; additional switchboard facilities at Essex; cable extensions at Elkton; pole replacements in the Emmitsburg area, and on that section of the New York-Baltimore-Washington long distance line in the State of Maryland; and additional toll circuits between Prince Frederick and Solomons Island.

First 1931 Quarter's Estimate.

Also included in the appropriation is the routine estimate for the first quarter of 1931, which involves expenditures of $635,000. Under this project, additional pole lines, wire, underground conduit and cable, aerial cable, switchboards, central office equipment, telephones and associated apparatus will be placed in every part of Maryland.

Operating revenues of this company for November amounted to $1,193,674, the report of operations just filed with the Maryland Public Service Commission shows. Expenses during the month were $950,248, making net telephone revenues $243,426, which was $23,379 under those for October and $16,250 under November of last year.

Operating revenues for the eleven months ended November 30 amounted to $12,969,841. Expenses during this period were $10,227,447, making net revenues $2,742,394.

Work's Radio Bridge Game

In the sixth radio bridge broadcast through Station WRC at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon Milton C. Work presented the answers to the questions given at the end of each of the five previous games. Mr. Work's system is so arranged that the players may grade themselves. Mr. Work said: "If you answer all questions correctly you belong in Class A; if you have one, two or three mistakes consider yourself in Class B; four, five or six mistakes put you in Class C, and more than six mistakes in Class D. Every question is one of play, so the answer is the same both at Auction and Contract."

The first two questions are based on this hand: South—Spades, A, K, Q; Hearts, K, Q, 2; Diamonds, A, J, 10; Clubs, A, K, Q, 10. West—Spades, J, 10, 8, 5, 3; Hearts, A, 9, 4; Diamonds, 8, 4, 3; Clubs, 7, 6. North—Spades, 9, 6; Hearts, J, 6; Diamonds, K, Q, 9, 7, 5; Clubs, J, 8, 3, 2. East—Spades, 7, 4, 2; Hearts, 10, 8, 7, 5, 3; Diamonds, 6, 2; Clubs, 9, 5, 4. Auction bidding: South, one No Trump, followed by three passes. Contract bidding: South, four No Trumps; West, pass; North, five Diamonds; East, pass; South, six No Trumps.

Questions—1. Which four cards should be played to the first trick? 2. Which card should be led to the second trick?

ANSWERS: 1. To the first trick West should lead the Jack of Spades, North should play the 6, East the Deuce, and South should win with any one of his three honors. 2. To trick two South should lead the Deuce of Hearts. The reason for this play is that Declarer is sure to win three Spade tricks, five Diamond tricks, and four Clubs, a total of twelve tricks. One Heart trick would give him thirteen tricks. If West holds the Ace of Hearts, he may not play it on a small lead toward Dummy's Jack; and if he holds it up a Grand Slam will be made by Declarer. If the other suits were played out first, the Ace of Hearts would be sure to take the last trick.

Questions 3 and 4 are based on these hands: South (Dealer)—Spades, Q, 10, 9, 7; Hearts, K, J, 5; Diamonds, A, Q, 9, 8; Clubs, A, 9. North—Spades, A, J, 8, 6; Hearts, 9, 8; Diamonds, K, J, 10; Clubs, K, J, 10, 2. South is playing one No Trump at Auction; three No Trumps at Contract. To the first trick West led the 6 of Hearts; Dummy played the 8; East the 10; South won with the Jack.

QUESTIONS: 3. Which suit should South lead to trick two and in which hand should that trick be won? 4. Which card should be led to trick three and which card should be played from the other of Declarer's hands, supposing the intervening adversary plays small?

ANSWERS: 3. South should lead a Diamond, winning the trick in the North hand. 4. To trick three, North should lead the Deuce of Clubs and South should finesse the 9. South has the Hearts safely stopped if led by West but not if led by East. Declarer has won one Heart and can count upon taking one Spade trick, four Diamonds and two Clubs without any finesse. If he should finesse in Spades, East might win, lead a Heart and save the game; but played as above described, the game must be won even if the Club finesse fails, as in any event trying the finesse will enable Declarer to take three Club tricks.

Questions 5 and 6 are based on these cards: South (Dealer)—Spades, A, 10, 6; Hearts, J, 6; Diamonds, 8; Clubs, A, Q, J, 10, 9, 8, 3. North—Spades, K, J, 2; Hearts, 9, 8, 4; Diamonds, A, Q, 10, 9, 2; Clubs, K, 7. South is Declarer playing a Club contract (at Contract Bridge five Clubs); West has bid Hearts, East has passed continuously. West tricks one-three, leads the King, Queen and Ace of Hearts; East follows suit.

QUESTIONS: 5. Which card should South play on trick three? 6. Which cards should Declarer play from his two hands on trick four?

ANSWERS: 5. South should trump the third trick with a high Club, being careful to retain his low Club in order to put North in the lead later. 6. To trick four South should lead a Diamond and win the trick in North with the Ace. The reason for this play is that there being five Diamonds in the North hand and one in the South, it is probable that the adverse Diamonds are divided 4-3. North, keeping three entries (two trumps and the King of Spades) probably can establish a thirteenth Diamond and thus avoid the necessity of risking a Spade finesse. When the Diamond is returned, trick five, South will trump high and lead a trump. North, winning trick six, will lead another Diamond to trick seven, and South will again trump high. It then will be known whether the Diamonds can be established. They can be if both adversaries follow the third round; and as Declarer must take every trick to make game at Auction, or fulfill his contract at Contract, this will avoid the risk of the Spade finesse. If the Diamonds do not break, the Spade finesse can be tried.

Questions 7 and 8 are based on this deal: South (Dealer)—Spades, 5, 4; Hearts, K, J, 4, 3; Diamonds, A, K, Q, 10, 8, 4; Clubs, J. West—Spades, A, K, 7, 6, 3, 2; Hearts, 10, 7, 5; Diamonds, 9, 7; Clubs, A, K. North—Spades, 9; Hearts, 9, 6, 2; Diamonds, 5, 3, 2; Clubs, Q, 10, 8, 7, 4, 3, 2. East—Spades, Q, J, 10, 9; Hearts, A, Q, 9; Diamonds, J, 6, 5; Clubs, 9, 6, 5. West is Declarer, Spades the trump (at Contract Bridge four Spades). South has bid Diamonds; North leads a Diamond; South wins and continues the suit. Trick three, South leads a third Diamond and West ruffs with an honor. Tricks four and five are trumps won in Dummy; tricks six and seven are Clubs won by West.

QUESTIONS: 7. What suit should West lead to trick eight and where should the trick be won? 8. Can Declarer make game against the best defense?

ANSWERS: 7. West should lead a trump, putting East in the lead, and to trick nine should lead a Club for West to trump. After that, West should lead a Heart; and if North plays small, take the double finesse. 8. This play will ensure making game against the best defense, as South, winning the trick, must lead another Heart up to the tenace in the East hand; or a Diamond which West will ruff, discarding the losing Heart Queen from East's hand.

Questions 9 and 10 call for this deal: South (Dealer)—Spades, Q, 10, 4; Hearts, A, K, 6; Diamonds, A, K, 5, 2; Clubs, K, J, 2. West—Spades, 9, 6, 5, 3; Hearts, Q, J, 9; Diamonds, Q, 10, 8, 4; Clubs, 7, 5. North—Spades, K, 7; Hearts, 10, 4; Diamonds, J, 9, 7, 6; Clubs, Q, 10, 9, 8, 4; East—Spades, A, J, 8, 2; Hearts, 8, 7, 5, 3, 2; Diamonds 3; Clubs, A, 6, 3.

QUESTIONS: 9. With South playing No Trump (at Contract three No Trumps) and West leading the 4 of Diamonds, which Diamonds should North and South play on trick one? 10. Can Declarer make game against perfect defense by East and West?

ANSWER: 9. To trick one North should play the 6, East the Troy, South the Ace. 10. Game can be made against perfect defense by East and West. With the Diamonds played as above, a Diamond entry is given to the North hand, and South will continue by leading a Club to trick two, continuing Clubs until adversaries play the Ace. This will establish the Clubs in the North hand and enable South to put North in with a Diamond. He might not be able to do so with a Spade. The making of the long Clubs in North assures game.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

5 ARRESTED IN RAIDS IN PRINCE GEORGES

Two Boys Reported Found at Still Which Police of County Smash.

3 TAKEN TO BALTIMORE

Two boys, one 18 years old, the other 19, were arrested yesterday in a raid by Prince Georges County police on a 300-gallon still in Surratts district, near the Oxon Hill line. The plant was in operation and the lads were tending it, County Policeman V. M. Nichols said.

Another raid in the county was made by six Federal men out of Baltimore, who wrecked a 500-gallon still in Kentucky Swamp, near Meadows, Md. Three colored men were arrested.

The two boys who were taken into custody are Carl Maske and Irvin Sandy, both of Capitol Heights. They were held in the jail at Upper Marlboro for bond of $1,000 each after a hearing before Judge Thomas D. Griffith. A third person at the still escaped.

The illicit plant was running at full blast. Police reported they destroyed the still, valued at $1,000, and nine 500-gallon boxes and three 150-gallon hogsheads of mash and seized 56 gallons of whisky.

The Negroes arrested were Charles Jackson, Alonzo Proctor and Charles Thompson. They were taken to the Upper Marlboro Jail, held until noon and removed to Baltimore. The still and mash reported taken in this raid were valued at about $1,500.

J. M. Hart, driver of a sand truck, was arrested after a crash on the Baltimore boulevard near College Park. Four persons were injured, none seriously.

Molly Herson, 13 years old, of 1653 Rosedale street northeast, incurred fracture of an arm. Others injured were Michael Feldman and wife and Mrs. Rosie Glazier, all of Baltimore. All were treated at Sibley Hospital.

Hart was held in $100 bond on a charge of reckless driving. The only passenger in the car who was unhurt was the Feldmans' 9-year-old daughter.

Richard Schall, son of Senator Thomas D. Schall, Minnesota, has made application to join the Berwyn Heights Volunteer Fire Department. Schall, 18, is a student at the University of Maryland.

Consent of the senator and Mrs. Schall to their son's application was attached to the document. The fire department went to the home of his parents a few weeks ago to extinguish a porch fire, and this brought their activities to the attention of the young man. The application will be considered at the next meeting of the department.

Festivities in two churches in the county concluded Christmas celebrations last night. The Sunday school of the Pinkney Memorial Episcopal Church, in Hyattsville, gave a tableau, "Even Unto Bethlehem," and the Oxon Hill Episcopal Church gave an entertainment.

Principal parts in the Hyattsville tableau were taken by Mrs. Irvin Owings, Hilda Lanhardt, Margaret Alexander, Herbert Dickey, Herbert Davis, Theodore Glasgow and Earl Livingstone. Mrs. F. Granville Munson was chairman of the committee which made arrangements for the tableau. The children's choir of the school sang carols. Candy was distributed.

It is regarded as possible that the county commissioners will be asked to include a new route from the Baltimore boulevard into Washington in their next recommendations to the State Roads Commission. Petitions have been circulated asking that University drive and New Cut road be paved with concrete, giving a new entrance into Washington from the northeast.

The proposed route would divert some traffic from the Baltimore boulevard at the University of Maryland along these two roads, which would connect with the Ram's Horn road not far from Ager road. It would relieve a condition because of which most cars on the Baltimore road must come into Washington by two fairly congested points, Fourth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast, or Fifteenth and H streets northeast.

Such a route also would divert traffic from the Baltimore highway before it reached Hyattsville, where a dangerous condition exists because of a narrow point in the road.

The most direct route from the Ram's Horn road into the city is by way of Queen's Chapel road, which has been repaved recently in Maryland. Unfortunately, this road and Bunker Hill road, with which it connects, are in rather a rough condition within the District.

Myrtle Snapp filed suit in the Prince Georges County Circuit Court asking for absolute divorce from Thomas W. Snapp. The couple was married in 1925. She was deserted ten months later, the woman said. There is one child, and the wife asks for its custody.

J. Frank Parran, retiring district attorney, is counsel for the woman; George Merrick for the husband. His answer to the suit also was filed. The husband asks the court to require strict proof of the wife's complaint.

The annual ball of the Bowie Volunteer Fire Department will be given tonight in the Odd Fellows Hall at Bowie. Festivities start at 8:30 and will continue until 1 o'clock. H. T. McClelland is in charge of arrangements, assisted by William Everett, Oscar Harmon and D. P. McClelland.

The Rescue Squad of the county also is giving a dance tonight in St. Luke's Parish Hall at Bladensburg. Proceeds will be used to continue the work of the squad, whose funds are reported as exhausted.

John Webster, an escaped inmate of St. Elizabeths Hospital for the Insane, was arested yesterday on the Baltimore boulevard near Laurel by Corpl. Kries and Private Bopst, of the Maryland State police. Webster was held by authorities at the hospital to have fled about four days ago. He is being held at the Laurel substation until he can be returned to the institution.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Collections of Richmond port for the calendar year 1930 were $4,160,567.86, as compared with $3,218,992.82 for 1929, W. Gay Smith, United States collector of customs, announced today.

ALEXANDRIA BOARD OF TAXES NEAR END

Equalization Group Will Sit Tonight in an Effort to Clean Up Task.

DONATIONS TO CHARITY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The local board of tax equalization will hold its last meeting tonight in the city hall, after which the board will automatically go out of existence, unless arrangements are made to continue into January. The law creating the board provides that its work must be completed by December 31, but there was considerable delay in beginning its work, due to the fact that the work of the board of assessors was not completed until later than expected.

The session of the equalization board Monday night handled 53 property owners, representing 153 pieces of property, the session convening at 7 o'clock and lasting until midnight. This was the largest number of complaints yet heard, and the assessed value of the 153 pieces of property is $976,040.

More complaints as to assessments are being filed this year than ever before, this being due in a large measure to the drastic changes made in valuations by the board of tax assessors. All the complaints have been taken under consideration, and within a few days, according to the board, each person filing a complaint will receive a letter advising of the action of the board.

The Alexandria United Charities has received contributions amounting to $384.02 since December 18, the date of the last report, according to Thomas Chauncey, treasurer of the organization. This money will be used for the work of the charities throughout the winter.

Lawrence Roland, chairman of the program committee of the Alexandria Rotary Club, addressed the meeting of the club at its weekly luncheon yesterday, in regard to the exercises which are to be held January 14, under the auspices of the Washington Society of Alexandria, the proceeds of which will go to a fund for the relief of unemployment.

Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, will be the principal speaker at the exercises, which will be held in the old Presbyterian Meeting House.

With the aid of two sticks, Policemen Suthard and Stewart, last Sunday, fished out of the river near the Fertilizer Company wharf, two half-gallon fruit jars filled with alleged whisky, which they claimed had been dropped overboard from a boat by T. J. ("Reds") Murray, who was later arrested and charged with violating the dry law.

Arraigned in Police Court yesterday, Murray denied ownership of the liquor and was acquitted.

Samuel Gerber, for a number of years past engaged in the clothing business at the corner of King and Alfred streets, has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, the trustees named being Carroll Pierce and John Barton Phillips.

The two vacancies on the police force caused by the recent removal of two policemen will be filled early in January, according to Police Capt. W. A. Campbell. It is understood there are a number of applications for the positions.

Wyoming Dog Is Air-Minded.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—"Squeezix," a bull terrier, is claimed by his owner, H. T. Beane, manager of the Cheyenne air service, to be the most air-minded dog in the United States. The "flying dog" has more than 150 hours in the air to his credit.

RECTOR ADVOCATES CLOSING OF EDIFICE

WOULD RETAIN SHRINE

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 30.—Old Monumental Episcopal Church will be closed and its members will distribute themselves among Richmond's other Episcopal congregations if recommendations advanced Sunday by its rector, Dr. A. C. Tebeau, are carried through.

The edifice would be preserved, however, as a shrine under the care of the Bishop of Virginia, according to Dr. Tebeau's plans.

Taking as his subject, "After Four Years," the rector, who has closed that length of service with the 116-year-old church, discussed its present weakened condition and recommended that it be disbanded, much to the surprise of his listeners.

Dr. Tebeau's proposal will be discussed this week when the vestry meets and later at the church's annual congregational meeting.

Monumental Episcopal, second oldest church in Richmond of same denomination, was founded in 1812 and completed two years later as a memorial to those who died in the theater fire of 1811. It is the mother church of two of the Virginia Capital's strongest congregations, St. Paul's and All Saints' Churches.

Less than half of its 400 communicants are active members, Dr. Tebeau declared, not enough to bear the financial burden without too great sacrifice. He told of preaching Sunday after Sunday to many unoccupied pews and of his unavailing efforts to increase the attendance by inviting prominent clergymen from other cities to fill the pulpit.

Dr. Tebeau said he accepted the call to Monumental Church after several others more familiar with the church's situation had declined to occupy the pulpit. It was, he asserted, on the advice of the late Bishop Brown, then bishop of the diocese, that he decided to assume the rectorship for a period of five years.

Dr. Hall Will Head Schools of Virginia

Dr. Jarman Reconsiders His Acceptance of State Position.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Dr. Sydney B. Hall, head of the department of secondary eduaction at Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., tonight was appointed State superintendent of public instruction by Gov. John Garland Pollard. He will succeed Dr. Harris Hart, who resigned last week, effective January 1, to enter private business.

At the time Dr. Hart announced his resignation, Gov. Pollard appointed Dr. J. L. Jarman, president of Farmville State Teachers College, to the superintendency, Dr. Jarman accepted. Today the governor said Dr. Jarman had reconsidered and would continue as head of the teachers institution at the urgent request of alumni.

Dr. Hall is a Virginian and still maintains citizenship in Norfolk County. He has been at ePabody two years.

Five Hurt in Crashes On Road to Richmond

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 30.—Five persons, four of them negroes, are in the Mary Washington Hospital as the result of two automobile accidents on the Richmond-Washington highway near here.

Inez Wayne, a Washington colored woman, suffered a broken back near Gayle's Bridge, Spotsylvania County, in a crash in which her companions, Alma Oldman, B. B. Burton and Burns Sens, all colored, of Washington, received minor hurts. Mrs. Goldwyn Starrett, of Scarsdale, N. Y., traveling southward with two women companions, suffered a severely crushed arm when her machine was in collision with a wagon on the highway south of here.

A state monopoly of present and future exploitation of natural gas deposits has been established in Roumania.

Later complaints have to be taken before the Fairfax County Circuit Court.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

REPORT OF A FIRE IN SANTA'S BEARD.

"If any guest or member of the household is impersonating Santa Claus be particularly careful that he does not get his whiskers near anything on the tree that would set fire to them."—From a list of warnings against Yuletide fire hazards.

FIRE broke out shortly after 8 o'clock last evening in the false whiskers of J. Prentice Glupper, white, 36, of 345 Adkins street. Mr. Glupper, a manufacturer of blottens, was playing Santa Claus for his three children, Prentice, 5; Hemingway, 4, and Jane, 2, at the time.

The flames were discovered at about 8:10, although an alarm was not turned in, according to Hose Company No. 8, for fully 25 minutes. When the firemen arrived they found the whiskers a mass of ruins. It was also pretty late to do much about Mr. Glupper's face, although by heroic work the flames were kept below the ears, with a loss which the firemen described as minimum, although Mr. Glupper was inclined to question this point. An investigation to ascertain the reason for the lateness of the firemen in arriving is under way. Both sides tell a different story.

* * * *

Mr. Glupper's version of the delay was that he was naturally a little embarrassed when he realized that his whiskers were afire and that he had violated one of the fire department "don'ts" in not being careful. It seemed obvious, however, that he was concealing something. This was confirmed a little later when Mrs. Glupper told the following story:

"There was a considerable delay in summoning the fire department to my husband's whiskers. I am responsible for it, and I think that when the public hears what happened there will be no disposition to criticize anybody. First of all, my kiddies believe in Santa Claus implicitly. Both Prentice and I have always felt that neither would do anything to destroy this wonderful faith.

"Well, the little dears were all in the room watching Santa's antics when the flames broke out. We both realized at once that we were facing a great crisis. To tear the whiskers off at once would be to reveal Santa to the children as their father, and to put him before them in the light of an imposter, a fakir. We both decided, consequently, to do nothing unless the flames gained greater headway.

"When we both realized that the fire was getting beyond control, I rushed for a pail of water and was about to douse my husband's false whiskers when the three children, thinking the bright sparks all a delightful feature of Santa's performance, cried 'More! More,' and voiced violent disapproval of my movements. They cried and took on terribly. I just hadn't the heart to persist in my efforts."

* * * *

"But what about Prentice all this time?" she was asked.

"By this time he was getting pretty hot," admitted Mrs. Glupper, "and so after a few more minutes I managed to sneak out of the room and telephone the fire department. The delay was a long one, we both admit, but what mother or father would have it otherwise?"

"When the fire department arrived, didn't the children recognize that Santa was their father?" asked a reporter.

"Oh, no," chirped Mrs. Glupper. "That was the wonderful thing about it all! His face had been so damaged by smoke that the little darlings thought he was a colored entertainer."

SHOP WINDOW LAMENT.

REGAL gown of palest blue,
Artists have created you;
Master hands gardenias placed
At your slender, subtle waist.
All you need is to be tightly
Molded on an Aphrodite;
On some gleaming gold-haired mystic
Formed by fingers as artistic
As yourself. I do not know
Why it should be sadly so—
But, no doubt, you soon will flame
On some very ugly dame.

ADVERSE CONDITIONS BLAMED ON FARMER

GAIN IN UNEMPLOYMENT

Richmond, Va., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—William W. Hoxton, of the Richmond Federal Reserve Bank, in his December review of credit, business and agricultural conditions in the Fifth Federal Reserve District, said that the failure of farmers to liquidate their indebtedness this year in normal volume adversely affected supply merchants, banks in agricultural sections, and both retailers and wholesalers of general merchandise.

Increased borrowing from the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond by the member banks was noted. Mr. Hoxton said the increased borrowing was partly due to a desire to strengthen their cash positions rather than by any additional demand for commercial credit.

Circulation Shows Increase.

For the same reason, he said, the Reserve Bank's discounts for member banks increased, the volume of Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation also rose by much more than the average among others at this season.

Deposits in member banks declined during the month between the middle of November and the 15th of December. Debits to individual accounts showed a seasonal increase during the four weeks ended December 10, 1930, in comparison with the preceding four weeks this year, but were 8.6 per cent less than the debits in the corresponding period a year ago.

Commercial failures in the district in November were more numerous than in November last year, but this year's liabilities were less, the report said.

Increase in Unemployment.

Mr. Hoxton said employment conditions did not improve in November or in early December, but on the contrary there seemed to be an increase in the number of persons seeking work.

The textile industrty was reported to have made no further progress last month, but appeared to have held the slight gain reported in October.

Cotton prices after firming up between the middle of October and the middle of November turned downward again and went below 9 cents per pound at the middle of December, the lowest figure since the early part of the World War.

Construction work planned or contracted for in November was in less volume than in November, 1929.

False Cancer Cure Talks Are Panned

Johns Hopkins Starts New Publicity Policy to End False Hopes.

Baltimore, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—A new publicity policy, designed to prevent, among other things, the raising of false hopes in cancer sufferers, is in operation at Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood, sponsor of a series of postgraduate courses for cancer specialists, set a precedent yesterday when he read a paper which had been approved in advance by Dr. Joseph S. Ames, president of the university.

Dr. Bloodgood said his request for Dr. Ames' approval meant a new policy to serve as a model for future statements emanating from medical centers on maters of vital importance to the public.

"If this procedure is followed everywhere, there will be no more false reports of 'cancer cure' discoveries. We shall follow the policy rigidly at the surgical pathological laboratory," he said.

POLICE HOLD WOMAN MAY SOLVE ROBBERY

Mystery Witness Expected to Clear Up Roanoke's $5,000 Holdup.

MAN IS UNDER ARREST

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 30.—Information given to police during the past week by a lynchburg woman who is being held as a material witness, may result in clearing the robbery and holdup of the office of the Roanoke Railway & Electric Co., of $5,000 on December 23. The identity of the woman has been kept secret.

Charles Booth, 22, of Goode, Bedford County, formerly a resident of Lynchburg, was arrested here before Christmas on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. While in jail, according to the woman's story to the police, Booth sent for her. He told her to go to Roanoke and gave the location of a place near that city where she would find his portion of the $5,000 taken in the hold up. The woman said she pondered the matter until she saw that $500 reward had been offered in the robbery and then she disclosed her information to authorities here.

Police say the woman also gave other important information which they said would be of material benefit to Roanoke authorities. The car used by the three robbers to effect their get-away has been identified as having been stolen here two weeks ago.

Booth has been taken to Roanoke for a fuller investigation by police authorities of that city.

Lynchburg Road Injunction Upheld

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 30.—Overruling the demurrer to the bill in the suit of C. A. Padgett and 25 other land owners against the State Highway Commission, Judge Don P. Halsey, in the Circuit Court of Campbell County at Rustburg, today continued in force and perpetuated the injunction by which the commission was restrained from changing the alignment of State route 10 west of Lynchburg.

The bill of the petitioners maintained that the State Highway Commission was exceeding its powers in attempting to abandon about five miles of its system, returning the present State highway to Bedford County to be maintained out of county funds.

Defendants in their demurrers claimed the State commission is a part of the executive department of the State and its acts are not subject to injunction; that the bill did not show relief prayed for the general public but for the private benefit of complainants.

Judge Halsey took the position that if the highway is to be changed it must be done under legislative enactment.

ARLINGTON PLANNING CHANGE IN ZONE LAW

Meeting of Supervisors Set for January 29 to Talk Over Ordinance.

WILL OBSERVE HOLIDAY

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Acting upon the recommendations of Zoning Administrative Officer Robert H. Foreman, the board of county supervisors, at its meeting held at the courthouse yesterday, announced that on Friday, January 29, they will hold a public hearing on the county zoning ordinance. At this meeting a number of amendments will be offered for the consideration of the board.

It has been pointed out from time to time that there are many portions of the ordinance that conflict with plans which have been offered for buildings and which do not in any material way affect the purposes of the zoning ordinance; yet, as it now stands, they can not be approved.

Determined to stand by his previous decision that he would continue to oppose the erection of huge advertising signs along the highways of Arlington County, Edward Duncan, chairman of the board, refused to approve the application for two signs, one to be located on the Washington-Richmond highway and the other on Mount Vernon avenue, both within his district. He was supported in his action by the other members of the board.

The board accepted the invitation extended by Robert I. Mount, resident State highway engineer, to attend the annual State conference of boards of county supervisors, to be held at Lexington, Va., February 5 and 6.

Offices at the county courthouse will be closed tomorrow. J. V. Turner, of East Falls Church, in charge of the distribution of automobile license tags, announces that he will not be at the office of Sheriff Howard B. Fields at all tomorrow.

The Crestive Arts Club of Arlington County will hold a reception to its friends tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Perry L. Mitchell, 200 Key boulevard, Lyon Village.

The musical program will include vocal selections by Mrs. Sanders Simmerman, accompanied by Miss Virginia Bestor; a reading by Miss Virginia Harrison, a piano solo by Miss Esther Balser and a violin solo by Miss Grace Balser.

Falling from a ladder in fighting a chimney fire at the home of Talbott Lynch, in Lyon Village, last night, Orlando Krigbaum, member of the Clarendon Fire Department, suffered a sprained back. He was treated by Dr. Ralph Quick.

The damage as a result of the fire was said to be slight.

Meeting yesterday at the county courthouse, the Tax Equalization Board made plans for holding its final public hearing today in the rooms of the board of county supervisors.

Despite the fact that the county has lost a large portion of its area through recent annexation of a large section within Jefferson district, by the City of Alexandria, the final report of the board is expected to show that the loss in revenue to the county will be largely made up as a result of the equalization of the taxes on real estate.

The Central Methodist Episcopal Church at Ballston will hold watch-night services tonight, beginning at 8 o'clock. The services will be under the auspices of the Epworth League.

Miss Lena Wolfe has been appointed librarian of the Washington-Lee High School by the county school board.

With the view of creating more interest among the members of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce and its friends in and out of the county, the program following the annual dinner meeting to be held in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon, the evening of January 15, promises to far excel any held in recent years, according to an announcement from Louis C. Carl, chairman of the entertainment committee. Mr. Carl announces that he has secured the services of Harold M. Brown, of Cherrydale, to assist in the preparation of the program.

Watch-night services will be held tonight at the Cherrydale Baptist Church by the Rev. M. R. Japhet. Beginning at 10 o'clock there will be a social hour, with religious services from 11 to midnight.

The Clarendon Baptist Church will elect officers tonight at the church. At 10 o'clock a watch-night service will start. An illustrated lecture on the Holy Land and the life of Christ will be given by Joseph Jeffers. The public is invited to the service.

Albert E. McNichol, pleading guilty to a charge of illegal possession before Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy yesterday, was sentenced to the county jail for one month in addition to a fine of $97.50, including costs.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Catherine Forsythe, 61 years old, who died at her home in East Falls Church on Sunday, will be conducted at the home of her sister, Mrs. Jessie Hill, of East Falls Church, this afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. U. S. Knox, of the Baptist Church. Interment will be in Columbia Gardens Cenetery, at Clarendon.

Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Nellie Pawley, of East Falls Church, and one son, Thomas Forsythe.
